

Red Delegates At Laos Meet Parry Talk About Violations

GENEVA (AP)—Communist delegates to the East-West conference on Laos continued today to brush aside talk about cease-fire violations despite the announcement by President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev that they recognize the importance of an effective truce in the Southeast Asian kingdom.

The Communists hailed the Vienna conference as historic but there was no indication so far what effect the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting would have on the deadlocked Geneva meeting.

The conference, which had been marking time until after the President and the premier met, resumed today.

The first Communist speaker, J. Michalowski of Poland, expressed belief the Vienna meeting will help the Laotian conference in its work but gave strong support to the Soviet demand that the conference get to work on plans for a political settlement in Laos.

Michalowski urged the conference to spend no more time on the Western demands for new instructions to the international truce commission to prevent cease-fire violations.

Minister Issue

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Georgi Pushkin also brushed aside the cease-fire as a minor issue. He asked the non-Communist delegates what parts of the Soviet political proposals were unacceptable and urged them to present proposals of their own.

Pushkin also termed the Vienna conference historic and said "the favorable influence of this event cannot be overlooked."

The only speaker from the Western side, Malcolm MacDonald of Britain, said he believed the Vienna meeting would help the Geneva conference in its work "for a united, independent, neutral and sovereign Laos."

It had been expected that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko would return to the conference from Vienna to give Red Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi a fill-in on the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting. But instead, Gromyko flew to Moscow with Khrushchev.

Not Particularly New

The Kennedy-Khrushchev expression of the importance of an effective cease-fire was termed "useful and encouraging" by one conference official. Others were inclined to dismiss it as obvious and not particularly new.

Western delegates, particularly the United States, refused to open the Geneva conference until they got word that there was a cease-fire from the International Control Commission on the spot. That was three weeks ago. Since then, there have been dozens of violations.

Broken Lock Poses Big Problem On How To Move Saturn Rocket

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—A break in a lock in a TVA dam poses a major problem to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. How will the huge Saturn space booster be transported to Cape Canaveral, Fla.?

The booster is scheduled to be launched in Florida later this year. A barge was built especially to haul it to Cape Canaveral from Redstone Arsenal.

The barge is at Redstone Arsenal—above the damaged link in the Tennessee River navigation system.

Huge concrete sections in the lock at Wheeler Dam shifted Friday night. Traffic cannot go through the lock until repairs are made. TVA said it may take many months.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration had planned to ship the Saturn down the Tennessee, Ohio and Mississippi rivers.

The Marshall Space Flight center said it hopes to present a practical solution to NASA headquarters in Washington by Tuesday.

A NASA spokesman said, "There are only three ways to transport the Saturn—by land, water or air. It's too big to fly, and we can't move it on the roads all the way to Florida. And we certainly don't intend to launch it here."

Woman Named Church Leader

BOSTON (AP)—Mary Lee Gough Nay of Boston today was elected president of the Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

She succeeds Arthur W. Eckman, general counsel of the Mother Church.

A native of McKinney, Tex., Mrs. Nay received her education at Ward Seminary, Nashville, Tenn.; the University of Texas; and the University of Chicago. She left a musical career to devote full time to the public practice of Christian Science healing. In 1918 she became a listed practitioner. She became an authorized teacher of Christian Science in Chicago in 1920.

The Christian Science board of directors, in a special message to the annual meeting of the Mother Church, called for renewed vigilance on the part of all who cherish freedom, brotherhood and truth.

In her keynote address, Mrs. Nay said: "Basically, mankind needs awakening from the nightmare of belief in living matter and intelligent evil, from its confidence that matter can give satisfaction, that it holds the solution for all the diseases, inequities and inequalities of the human family."

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were as thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dynex)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H®. At all drug counters.

U.S. Scientists Claim Powerful Built-Up Rocket

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—U. S. scientists have opened a new era in rocketry with a built-up missile apparently having far more power capability than anything the Soviets have shown to date.

Two days ago the Americans successfully test-fired a captive rocket only 30 feet long and 8 feet 4 inches in diameter that developed more push than the giant Atlas and Titan missiles fired from Cape Canaveral and Vandenberg Air Force Base.

The modest-sized test rocket was made up of segments stacked three high to make the total height about 30 feet. The rocket was rated as developing nearly 500,000 pounds of thrust.

The Atlas and Titan, 60 to 90 feet high, developed respectively 360,000 and 430,000 pounds.

With the segmented technique, say developers, a rocket 200 feet tall or even taller can be assembled, and it can be fattened enormously by clustering segments around each other and then piling up the clusters like building blocks.

They are talking now about assembling rockets right away with 2 million pounds of thrust, and about eventually producing assemblies with a total thrust of 21 million pounds.

This is the rocketeers' term for power, and it is mainly what this country needs to overcome the Soviet Union's lead in putting big payloads into space.

The term is difficult to define, but 21 million pounds of thrust, the goal of experimenters here, or even the 2 million pounds they talk about as being available soon seemingly outclasses anything the Soviets have.

Salem Elks Temple Damaged In Blaze

SALEM (AP)—Damage was estimated at $100,000 from fire that swept the lower floor of the Elks Temple here early Sunday.

The blaze was discovered about an hour after the bar had closed. Firemen said it might have been caused by a lighted cigarette tossed into a wastebasket.

The bar, an adjoining poolroom and a foyer were destroyed. There was smoke damage to other first floor rooms but the upper floor of the two-story building was unharmed.

Patrons reported the flames. Firemen with seven pieces of equipment controlled the blaze within 30 minutes.

No one was injured.

Wild Brawl Ends Party On Beach

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—A wild brawl ended a Saturday night beach party, planned for a few thousand Rock 'N' Roll fans, at which more than 25,000 showed up.

One girl was raped; another was beaten to the sand and stomped by rioters, and a third suffered a serious eye injury when a firecracker was thrown in her face.

Fifty sheriff's officers and highway patrolmen braved a barrage of rocks, beer bottles and cans to break up the mob. Fourteen youths were arrested.

Rioting members of the vast throng ripped plumbing out of public rest rooms and tore parts off lifeguard towers to build giant bonfires. Singer Fabian, who was to entertain at the party, refused to go on when it began to get out of control.

A Los Angeles radio station, KRLA, planned the party at Zuma Beach, a county facility 20 miles north of here. The violence began as the formal party ended at 11:15 p.m.

"It was a milling, drinking, ugly crowd of 25,000 to 30,000 young people on the beach in the dark," said Capt. Kirby Temple of the county lifeguard service.

"They were fighting, shouting, grabbing girls, and tearing each other's clothes. You name it and they did it."

Law officers blamed the trouble on drinking. There was no race problem, they said. Most of the youths arrested were charged with drunkenness, bringing alcohol into a county park or juvenile possession of alcohol.

Herb Heiman, KRLA program director, said the trouble started when the program ended and the crowd didn't want to leave.

It took law officers four hours to completely clear the beach.

Cordiner Says Price Fix Conspiracies Of His Firm Was 'Humbling Experience'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ralph J. Cordiner, president and board chairman of the General Electric Co., today described the price-fixing conspiracies in which his firm was involved as "a humbling experience."

He and others learned a lesson from it, Cordiner told the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

In retrospect, he said it was apparent that his giant electric manufacturing company's efforts to insure compliance with the antitrust laws were not enough.

What he and all other GE executives and employees have learned, Cordiner said, is this:

"This great country's competitive enterprise system will remain free and competitive only so long as the citizens, and particularly those of us with responsibilities in business life, are capable of the self-discipline required and are willing to exercise it."

"If we are not," he said, "the power of government will increasingly be invoked as a substitute, to compensate for our failures. Then our competitive enterprise system will be neither free nor competitive."

Cordiner, who had asked that he be permitted to testify, gave his views as the subcommittee neared the end of a five-week inquiry into antitrust cases brought by the government against GE and other major electrical manufacturers.

In his prepared testimony, he said that as GE's chief executive officer, "I accept my share of responsibility for what happened, even though I did not know of these secret violations of the law or condone such acts."

"There is no excuse, in morality and ethics, in law, or in the exercise of sound business judgment, for these violations," he said.

"I believe the antitrust laws are necessary laws," Cordiner said, "and I believe that the public interest demands that they be enforced aggressively."

Cordiner said the illegal price-fixing meetings attended by lower echelon GE executives were violations of a clear, written company policy that he had done his best to instill at all levels.

Oregon Land Board Grants Oil Rights

SALEM (AP)—The Oregon State Land Board today granted Shell Oil Co. and Gulf Oil Co. temporary permits to explore all of Oregon's offshore lands.

The companies said they would begin the exploration about June 15.

The board will sign the permits at its June 13 meeting. The two companies are the only ones which have applied so far.

The 1961 legislature passed laws to let the Land Board lease lands three miles to seaward, and to grant exploration permits.

The temporary permits contain provisions to permit seismic surveys, which require use of explosives.

The company representatives, which said they had not had time to study the permits, said preliminary study shows they would be acceptable.

The permits contain provisions that the Fish Commission, Game Commission, Land Board, or State Department of Geology and Mineral Industries could halt exploration if they found that fish life, wild life, or scenic or recreation values were being harmed.

Durland E. Clark Jr., Los Angeles, representing Shell Oil Co., said this provision could be burdensome, but that he would not object.

The temporary permits contain no termination dates. That is subject to negotiation.

Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, chairman of the board, said temporary, rather than permanent, permits are being granted because there was not time to draft permanent ones.

Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr., also a board member, said "desirable safeguards have been incorporated into the permits."

Clark and T. L. Lewis Jr., Bakerfield, Calif., representing Gulf Oil Co., said their companies do not have boats operating in the area yet.

The board will not grant exclusive exploration rights to any company. Any other company is entitled to the same permits that were granted today.

Any company that thinks it might find oil can apply for a lease at a minimum of 50 cents an acre plus 12½ per cent of the value of any oil that is found.

The board will grant such leases after public hearings and on competitive bidding.

The Land Board said that the Fish and Game Commission agreed to the use of explosives in the seismic surveys.

The provision for these seismic surveys was added at Shell Oil Co.'s request.
