TAG BARGAIN

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — Police say it looks like Alabama at the gates of Langley Air Force Base. They estimate that 600 vehicles owned by military personnel carry Alabama license tags which cost less than a third the cost of Virginia tags. Unless a service man was stationed in Alabama before coming here, or is a legal resident there, he is required to purchase Virginia tags.

Anticancer Serum Used On Humans

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — James H. Rand III, president of Rand Development Corp., said Monday night an anticancer serum developed by a Cleveland scientist and reported effective in animals has been used on human patients within the last three years.

He denied reports that the serum had proved effective on cancer patients at Doctors Hospital here, saying that no such conclusions could be drawn from tests so far.

Rand said that in the last three years between 40 and 50 patients—not all in Doctors Hospital but throughout the country—have received the serum, but emphasized that it was "much too early" to appraise the results.

"We hope to have another 150 patients in the next six months," he said. "We don't know what the results will be."

Dr. Sergio de Carvalho, who developed the serum at the Rand laboratory and at Doctors Hospital, would not confirm that it had been used on human patients.

"I have nothing to report, nothing to say about this," he said. "There are no cures, no nothing. I wish I had (a cure)."

In discussing electron microscope techniques used in his research, Dr. de Carvalho said at a scientific convention in Pittsburgh last Thursday that his serum had proved effective in fighting cancer in animals. He said on returning to Cleveland that it would be at least a year before the serum's effect on humans could be tested and evaluated.

SLAVERY IN NEPAL

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — The buying and selling of slaves is still common in an area of central Nepal despite a legal ban on slavery, a government official says.

Mamohan Misra, chairman of a supervision and inspection commission, told the Katmandu newspaper "The Motherland" he found dozens of slave trading cases. Misra said the slaves had in many cases been working for the same family for generations. Their conditions were described as pitiable.

Two slave owners were given unspecified punishment as an example to others, Misra said.

WATERMELONS for which Douglas County has been famous in years past, are ripe. Pretty Claudia Knapp holds a hefty 35-pound melon grown on the farm leased by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Knapp, near Umpqua. They have a five-acre melon patch. Watermelons are only one of the many farm produce items the Knapps grow on their 70-acre truck garden two miles west of the Roseburg Country Club on Garden Valley Rd. and on the 413-acre farm, part under cultivation and part hillside pasture, seven miles further northwest near Umpqua. Typical of Garden Valley and Dillard truck gardeners, the Knapps sell produce at the farm as well as to local markets and wholesale produce houses. The melon Claudia is holding, by the way, was sampled by members of the News-Review staff who found it delicious. (News-Review photo)

Steamboat Creek Road Extension Connects With Willamette Forest

By MRS. ARTHUR SELBY

The North Umpqua District (Steamboat) of the Umpqua National Forest has completed an outstanding project, a road to connect the Umpqua National Forest and the Willamette National Forest.

The Steamboat Road extension to the divide was started from Horse Heaven Creek last fall. District Ranger Gene W. Carlson stated this is a well-designed road with good grades and curves and is a lane and one-half in width. This was built in connection with a timber sale to U. S. Plywood Corp. and operated by the L. L. Burr Logging Co., all on the North Umpqua Ranger District.

This five-mile extension of the Steamboat Road construction, which now totals 24 miles in length. The major use of most of this road will, of course, be for timber hauling. However, the road was built to better width, etc., so as to accommodate the increasing recreational traffic.

Travel Restricted

The new road will not be open to public travel until sometime next year as safety measures are

Tucson Truckers Break With Local

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A band of Tucson truck drivers has rebelled against James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union, accusing their local officers of strongarm tactics.

"We'll live with it until they're out," said Wayne Hobson about officers in Local 310.

There was no immediate comment from local officers.

Hobson is one of 170 members who broke with the local in a Sunday night meeting. He said the split had nothing to do with earlier Teamsters rebellions in Cincinnati, Ohio, and St. Louis, Mo.

"No, this thing's been brewing about three years. We don't even know if we have any money. They won't even show us the books. We're determined to get loose," Hobson said.

George Patterson, another of the group, added: "Hoffa's strong-arm tactics have been passed down to the local level where we can no longer accept such domination. We want to be independent or join the AFL-CIO." Hoffa is president of the union.

Hobson said that one member of the dissident group had received an anonymous telephone call, threatening "We are going to knock you off unless you get in line."

Hobson said he had received many calls pledging support to the rebels but had not received any threatening calls.

President Frank A. Williams of the 1,200-member local is in San Francisco for negotiations on a freight industry contract and could not be reached for comment.

Thornton Would Cancel Veterans' Bonus Checks

SALEM (AP) — Two veterans' bonus warrants should be canceled because they were not presented until after more than seven years from the date of issue, Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton Monday advised state Veterans' Director H. C. Saffeld.

Both warrants were issued to parents of deceased veterans. Thornton pointed out that a law requires that warrants over seven years old be canceled.

Administration To Stay Out Of Auto Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's administration, after playing a key role in helping settle a series of lesser labor disputes, apparently has decided to keep out of the auto industry contract talks.

Kennedy's chief adviser in this field, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, is reported to feel the auto negotiators are experienced and inventive enough to carve out settlement terms of their own without outside help.

Goldberg is said to believe an auto settlement short of a strike is quite likely. But time is growing short. The major auto contracts expire at midnight Thursday.

It could be expected, however, that if a strike develops Friday and extends for some time, Goldberg might well hop in to give it the college try that has worked so well on most of the bothersome labor troubles since Kennedy took office.

Goldberg chalked up his latest labor settlement Monday — this one between the Metropolitan Opera Association and its orchestra, whose members had worked up considerable dissonance over their wages.

When the Met announced it was canceling its season because of the dispute Kennedy ordered Goldberg in to save the opera as a national cultural institution. This was accomplished when both sides agreed to accept whatever Goldberg, an arbitrator, may recommend as fair.

Kennedy, saying that "a great cultural resource of the United States" had been saved, added: "The Metropolitan Opera is important to the nation. I am glad we have all found a way for it to continue."

From Kennedy's inauguration day on, Goldberg has been busily settling labor troubles. First he forestalled a tugboat strike in New York harbor. Then he succeeded in squelching several bad airline strikes.

This was followed by successful avoidance of a strike at atomic energy works at Hanford, Wash. Then the big maritime strike was stopped by a Taft-Hartley law injunction to give more time for settlement efforts that have now about been completed.

"Talking road" that can save your life!

The visibility is almost zero and ahead is a sharp curve.

Suddenly, beneath your wheels, the road says: "Slow down!" It does this by sending sound and low vibrations through your automobile's frame. You get the message and cut your speed.

This road warning system—called a "rumble strip"—cut accidents in test areas by nearly two-thirds. It is made chiefly from a new kind of plastic developed by Standard's scientists...one so rugged that it will stand up to the pounding of the heaviest traffic.

The rumble strip is part of Standard's continuing interest in traffic safety, which includes driver training, seat belts in Company cars, educational films for schools, and widespread distribution of safety tips.

The tough plastic which makes the rumble strip possible is only one of a wide variety that our scientists are creating to help manufacturers bring you new and better products.

They include super-strong plastics for car bodies; tough, versatile plastics for building materials; long-lasting plastic fibers to increase the durability of everything from clothing to tires.
