Gun-Totin', Poker Playin' 'Westrun' Makes Exciting Opening For The Met

NEW YORK (AP)—A gun-totin', poker-playin' Westrun (sic) sung in Italian—and all those society folk making a big man out of a fellow who used to work for the CIA—what is the Metropolitan Opera coming to?

What the Met came to Monday night was one of the most exciting opening nights in its recent history—the opening night that nearly didn't happen at all.

The man who made it happen—Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg—was the big man of the night from the opera-goers' parade at the start of the champagne hour in the exclusive Opera Club.

Goldberg showed up and ironed out the situation, and the opera went on. Some of the people who showed up on the Opera Club to pay tribute to Goldberg's talents were President Kennedy's mother-in-law, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss; the President's sister, Mrs. Stephen Smith; Adlai E. Stevenson, Dr. Ralph Bunche and President Monty Sigmund of the United Nations; CIA Director Allen W. Dulles, and former Ambassador to London Lewis Douglas.

There are boots and saddles, sheriffs and bandits, posses and a hangerman's noose, and cheating at poker. There are more horses than you see in many a TV horse opera—Puccini specified at least eight, but this production managed six, and very well-behaved they were.

The superb Miss Price, the first Negro to star at the Metropolitan opening night, rode one of the horses expertly onto the stage at the end of the third act and melodically and dramatically saved her lover (Richard Tucker) from the posse organized by the sheriff (Anselmo Colzani).

Luthuli To Ask Permission To Collect His Peace Prize

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Albert John Luthuli said today he would apply to South Africa's government for permission to go to Sweden to collect the Nobel Peace Prize he won for his fight against the government's racial policy.

There was no immediate official reaction to the Luthuli award from the white supremacist South African government. But the Cape Town newspaper Die Burger, which backs the ruling nationalist party, took a dim view of the award.

Luthuli, a leader of the now outlawed African National Congress, has been detained intermittently by the South African government since 1952 when the congress started civil disobedience campaigns against racial discrimination.

Under the South African government's foreign exchange control regulations, Luthuli is obliged to bring to South Africa within 30 days the whole of his Nobel peace prize money, the South African Press Association reported.

Luthuli was belatedly awarded the 1960 prize for his work toward the easing of effects of racial discrimination in South Africa.

The 1961 peace prize was awarded to the late Dag Hammarskjold, the Swedish U.N. secretary-general, who was killed in a plane crash in Africa Sept. 18. The money will go to his estate.

Luthuli said in a telephone interview he was proud to learn of the award, "not just because this honor has been done to me but also to my country and its people—especially those who have fought and suffered in the struggle to achieve the emancipation of all South Africans from the bonds of fear and injustice."

He said he had not decided what he would do with the prize money, which will amount to $43,744. Luthuli was belatedly awarded the 1960 prize for his work toward the easing of effects of racial discrimination in South Africa.

Rockwell Testifies At Larceny Trial

SEATTLE (AP)—Guy Rockwell testified Monday that he went to San Francisco because he was afraid a deal to buy Indian artifacts in British Columbia was falling through.

He said he was seeking another collection in San Francisco in which to invest the $10,000 advanced to him by his wife's stepmother, Mrs. Clifford Winkler Sr. Rockwell is being tried before Superior Court Judge Frank D. James on a grand larceny charge arising from a complaint by Mrs. Winkler that he absconded with the money.

He said he gave $500 to a man identified as Terry Devlin of Vancouver, B.C., to act as a middleman in the acquisition of the Canadian artifact collection. But he said Devlin demanded an additional $1,500 on Aug. 2, 1960, without having identified the seller or shown any of the collection.

Under cross-examination, the former Seattle antique dealer testified that he went from San Francisco to New York, Provincetown, Mass., and Key West, Fla., using the money advanced by Mrs. Winkler for travel expenses. He was arrested in December in New York.

Petition Asks End To Logging In Some Areas

The Oregon Cascades Conservation Council has petitioned the President and secretary of agriculture to declare a moratorium on logging in a number of areas of high scenic quality in the Cascade Mountains.

Included in the list is the Fish Lake region of the South Umpqua River.

It also asked in a letter to the two that protective corridors be set up along the Umpqua River.

The Oregon Cascades Conservation Council was organized last year by citizens who said they were concerned over the rapid depletion of the scenic forests abutting the high country of the Oregon Cascades.

The organization's petition was accompanied by two strip maps showing the areas it feels should be studied for wilderness potential and the areas which should be studied for use for roadside camping.

The council indicated it feels the secretary of agriculture's order stopping development in the Waldo Lake area and in the north Cascades pending new study should be expanded.

"Some of the areas which should be studied by Project High Mountain—the new study being made by the Forest Service as a result of the secretary's order—should include the buffer areas leading to the high country," the letter says.

"But many of these areas are being cut right now before studies are complete."

Deadline For Changing Military Records Near

The deadline for correction of military records will be reached Oct. 25, R. J. Novotny, manager of the Portland Veterans Administration Regional Office reminded veterans today.

Boards for the correction of military records have been operating in the Army, Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard and have been empowered by law to alter any military record to correct an error or remove an injustice.

Application forms are available at the Roseburg VA office.

WAKE UP! — Of course, the cute little Camp Fire Girl wasn't this blunt this morning, but it was the message she carried. Electronics Processing Of Tax Forms Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said Monday electronic processing of tax returns will provide assurance "that all sections of our society are paying their proper share."

Dillon greeted several hundred business representatives who gathered here to discuss with Internal Revenue Service officials the impact of the new system on accounting procedures.

He introduced electronic processing, to be introduced gradually starting in the Southeast, next year will be "an important step toward making our tax system more efficient and more equitable."

His "such an improvement in our tax system increases voluntary compliance by reassuring our people that our tax laws are operating fairly and impartially and that all sections of our society are paying their proper share."

Robert L. Jack, assistant commissioner of internal revenue, told the conferees that an automatic system is needed because of the growing volume of paper work involved in collecting taxes.

SIGHTS SET HIGH — Gene Magee is chairman of the Business Division B in the Central Douglas United Fund campaign which officially started today. Fifteen men and women on his team will call on 104 firms employing seven or less people. Magee says his committee expects to raise at least $1,305 during the drive. (Chris' Studio)
