

MONKEY DIES IN FLAMING ATLAS MISSILE

Primate Had No Chance Of Survival

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A tiny squirrel monkey named Goliath gave his life to science today when he died in the blazing explosion of an Atlas missile high above Cape Canaveral.

Officials reported there was no chance the 1 1/2-pound animal survived the holocaust which occurred 30 seconds after the Atlas lifted off on an intended 5,000-mile flight to the South Atlantic Ocean.

The Air Force said the range safety officer destroyed the missile when it became erratic.

The blast spread a boiling ball of fire several thousand feet in the air and showered burning pieces of the shattered rocket back onto the Cape area and into the Atlantic just offshore.

Seconds after the blowup, the thunder-like rumble of the blast rolled over the nearby beaches and the town of Cocoa Beach.

Goliath probably died at the instant of explosion. He was in a well-padded capsule located near the base of the 12-foot-tall nose cone and just above one of the fuel tanks.

There was no escape mechanism to pull the monkey capsule free in such an emergency. An escape device is provided on Project Mercury launchings.

If all had gone right today, the Atlas would have hurled the nose cone 650 miles into space before it plummeted back for a parachute landing near Ascension Island.

Officials said they believed the trouble, apparently one of guidance, is one associated with the Atlas E and would not affect the D. The missiles have different guidance systems.

Goliath, who had trained about six months for this mission, is not the first animal to perish in rocket flights aimed at finding means of keeping man alive in space. There have been 28 other recorded animal deaths.

The latest were two Russian dogs that burned up in the atmosphere last December when their orbiting space capsule failed to return to earth properly.

One other squirrel monkey, Gordo, died in a U.S. rocket flight in December 1958. Radio instruments showed Gordo apparently survived the sub-orbital mission, but searchers were unable to find his nose cone.

Among U.S. successes in this field were the recovery of monkeys Able and Baker from a Jupiter nose cone in May 1959 and Ham, the chimpanzee who went aloft in a mercury capsule last January and paved the way for the sub-orbital space flights of astronauts Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom.

Able died in a postflight operation to remove some bio-medical instruments. Ham is at the Cape, one of five chimpanzees training for a Project Mercury orbital flight scheduled next week.

However, Ham is not expected to make the upcoming test.

The missile was an advanced Atlas E model, this nation's most powerful military rocket. The earlier, more reliable Atlas D earlier will be used in the U.S. man-in-space program. A D Atlas is scheduled to boost a chimpanzee into orbit from the Cape next week and a man on an orbital flight hopefully by the end of the year.

If successful, the Atlas today would have covered the 5,000 miles in about 25 minutes.

Two aircraft and a ship waited in the planned impact area to attempt recovery of the 12-foot-tall cone after it made a blazing dive back through the heat barrier of the earth's atmosphere from an altitude of 650 miles.

First Motorized Troops Arrive In West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—First elements of a motorized U.S. infantry company arrived in West Berlin today, beginning a new armed shuttle across the Communist-patrolled highway from West Germany.

Lt. Richard P. Jennings, 25, of Cincinnati, Ohio, headed the vanguard. He reported no difficulties with the Soviets or anyone else.

The nutrition expert addressed the annual meeting of the Florida Dietetic Association Thursday.

Snider failed to see the oncoming truck, a report from the truck's office said. The cab of the truck went up the rock bank, and the trailer remained on the highway 200 feet west of the junction of the two roads, Simpson was unhurt.

Simpson chose the left bank of the road to hit. The right side of the road drops off to the river bottom.

Traffic, directed by Deputy Orville Shanafelt, was disrupted for 3 1/2 hours while a tow truck from Walt's Towing, Roseburg, took the logs from the wrecked truck and placed them on another Hansen truck.

No citations were issued.

Yoncalla City Council Talks Water System

W. S. Perley, Portland engineer, was present at the meeting of the Yoncalla City Council this week and took part in the discussion of the proposed new water system for the town of Yoncalla, according to Mrs. George Edes, Yoncalla correspondent.

Tentative plans call for bringing water over the hill from Adams Creek to the present reservoir.

At the meeting the council granted a class D.B. liquor license to Ralph Sikes and a P.A. liquor license to Dale Bassett.

All council members were present.

Grocery Store Dollars Best

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The billion dollars spent annually for so-called health foods could better be spent for food, everyday food in the grocery store, says Dr. Philip L. White.

White, director of the department of foods and nutrition for the American Medical Association, added that a well-balanced diet can give the consumer the same nourishment as vitamin pills at a fraction of the cost.

The nutrition expert addressed the annual meeting of the Florida Dietetic Association Thursday.

Galvao's Fans Hijack Plane, Drop Leaflets

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Five men and a girl hijacked a Portuguese airliner at gunpoint today and dropped anti-government leaflets on Lisbon in the name of Henrique Galvao, the hijacker of the liner Santa Maria.

"We are now at war" with the regime of Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, the pamphlets said. After dropping them, the hijacked plane flew to Tangier, where Galvao was waiting to congratulate the hijackers.

Two police cars took them to Tangier police headquarters and the pilot of the plane followed in another car to make an official statement.

The six hijackers, informed sources said, boarded the plane in Casablanca, as tourists heading for vacations in Portugal.

Officials of the Portuguese airline TAP said 18 passengers and seven crew members, including two hostesses, were aboard the hijacked plane.

The flight was staged only two days before Sunday's parliamentary election—an election in which all opposition candidates have withdrawn, charging that Salazar had made a free election impossible.

Salazar's government party, the National Union, replied that the opposition was Communist-infiltrated.

The pamphlets, headed "Portuguese Anti-Totalitarian Front," urged the people to "tear up the ballots on Sunday," adding that the people of Portugal "will vote against Salazar if not voting at all."

Galvao, from his exile in Brazil and with the aid of a revolutionary band, seized the liner Santa Maria last January as a symbol of opposition to the government.

San Francisco Bank Hit By Two Gunmen

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three gunmen, after holding families of two bank officials prisoner overnight, robbed a Bank of America branch today of around $78,000.

A spokesman for the Bank of America, the world's largest privately owned bank, said the gunmen virtually cleaned out the vault at the Union and Webster Branch, eight blocks east of San Francisco's Presidio.

Police reconstructed this sequence:

The three gunmen appeared Thursday night at the home of the branch manager, Joseph Finocchio. One gunman stayed behind while the other two and her daughter while the other two drove with Finocchio to the home of the assistant manager, Henry Lupori.

They stood guard over Finocchio, Lupori and the two Lupori children.

The gunmen took Lupori to the bank before opening time and forced him to open a vault.

When a teller, Sue Romweber, entered for work, she was forced to open another vault.

Hutchins Low Bidder On N. Umpqua Road

Selmar A. Hutchins, Roseburg, was the low bidder Thursday on construction of the final link of the North Umpqua Forest Highway project. His bid was $126,620 lower than the engineer's estimate.

The Bureau of Public Roads said Hutchins' bid for reconstruction and grading of 8.5 miles of the road was $597,520. The government engineer's estimate was $723,950. There were eight other bidders. The project begins just east of Tokete Falls and extends to Briggs Camp.

The westernmost 1.1 miles of the project, which extends east from the confluence of the Clearwater and North Umpqua rivers, is to be topped, according to the Associated Press report from Portland.

The Hamer Corp., Roseburg, was second low bidder, with a figure of $680,415. His bid was followed by that of M. J. Brassfield Co. and B. & F. Construction Co., Salem, at $697,955.

Other bidders were S. W. Groesbeck and W. R. Durbin Construction Co., Eugene, $717,683; White Bros. Construction Co., Walla Walla, Wash., $735,129; Fred H. Slate and E. C. Hall Co., Portland, $729,808; Nait McDougal Co., Portland, $739,579; J. N. Conley and G. D. Dennis & Sons, Portland, $819,594; and J. W. Briggs, Redding, Calif., $1,285,734.

This forest highway project is a continuation of the improvement of a log haul route which was started in 1948. The highway when completed, will not only provide access to additional timber, but an improved and shorter fair weather trans-Cascade route between U.S. 99 and Roseburg and Diamond and Crater lakes, as well as to U.S. 97.

This is the final reconstruction project. Only paving remains.

VA Hospital Sets Veterans Day Rites

Americans are urged to take an active part in Veterans Day ceremonies Nov. 11 to demonstrate to the world this country's determination to maintain peace.

To this end, the Veterans Affairs Administration Hospital will have a Veterans Day program at the hospital, starting at 9:30 a.m. and continuing until 11.

State Sen. Al Flegel will give an address and Dan Dimick of Veterans of Foreign Wars will be master of ceremonies. Invocation will be given by the Rev. John Adams; benediction by Father Camillus McCroory. Ralph McClannan will make a short speech of welcome.

Selections will be played by the Joseph Lane Junior High School Band. Duane Schulze of Troop 4, Boy Scouts of America, will play taps. Miss Virginia Young will furnish piano accompaniment for a solo to be sung by Wayne Wagner.

This Saturday marks the eighth observance of Veterans Day. The observance was formerly known as Armistice Day.

The purpose of Veterans Day is to honor all veterans on the 11th day of November of each year—a day dedicated to world peace. Tribute is paid to those who sacrificed their lives in time of war and to the veterans who continue to serve their country.

Many veterans organizations participating in the VA Hospital program are United Spanish War Veterans and Auxiliary; Veterans of Foreign Wars; American Legion; American Legion Post 2468 and Auxiliary; Disabled American Veterans; Deane-Perrin Chapter 9 and Auxiliary; Veterans of World War I; Douglas Barracks 176, and Auxiliary; Daughters of the American Revolution; Daughters of Union Veterans; Gold Star Mothers and Blue Star Mothers.

Glen Murdoch of the VFW is the committee chairman for the Veterans Day program.

Rayburn Spends Restless Night

BONHAM, Tex. (AP) House Speaker Sam Rayburn was wakeful most of the night, his doctor said today. It was one of the few bad nights for the speaker, suffering from cancer.

Dr. Joe Risser, his physician, said Rayburn was in no pain. He had some breathing difficulty but this was easily cleared, Risser reported.

Rayburn was cheered Thursday by a visit from secretary of the Navy John B. Connally Jr.

Connally said, "He seemed very alert."

Rayburn recognized him, patted his hand and smiled, Connally added.

Asian-African Nations In Try To Bar S. Africa From U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—An Asian-African bloc of nations was reported today to drop their demand for a worldwide boycott against South Africa and concentrate on trying to get the white supremacist government thrown out of the United Nations.

The strategy switch by the 31 sponsors of the boycott proposal was disclosed as the 103-nation special political committee neared a vote on rival resolutions dealing with South Africa's race policies.

Informants said the 31 will scrap the boycott demand if the committee fails to give it the two-thirds majority it would need to clear the General Assembly. If that happens, they will move that their ouster call be inserted as an amendment to the milder eight-nation resolution denouncing South Africa's apartheid policy but leaving the question of diplomatic and economic penalties up to individual member nations.

As the stormy two-week debate neared its end, South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw warned Thursday that expulsion of his country would be "the beginning of the end" of the United Nations.

U. N. Right Disputed

Disputing the right of the United Nations to "meddle" in what his government considers South Africa's internal affairs, Louw declared that those who had denounced his government had not come into court with clean hands.

Louw also accused U.S. Ambassador Francis T. P. Plimpton of making "an unbridled attack on South Africa" and questioned how the United States had carried out the "all men are created equal" provision in the Declaration of Independence. The first real step, he said, "do not go much further back than the Supreme Court decision on school integration in 1954, and the appearance of the National Guard with fixed bayonets at Little Rock."

Noting that Plimpton had quoted Abraham Lincoln in his speech, Louw declared: "May I remind him that even this great and distinguished American in 1838-32 years after the Declaration of Independence—was not in favor of political and social equality of the white and black races in this country."

Plimpton Replies

Plimpton in reply reminded Louw that Lincoln had signed the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863 and "wiped out forever the stain of slavery in this country."

"All in this room," Plimpton added, "would welcome a proclamation by the South African prime minister emancipating his people from the stain of racial discrimination."

Indonesia has warned the General Assembly that war may result if the U.N. endorses a Dutch plan for self-determination in Netherlands New Guinea (West Irian).

Indonesian Foreign Minister Subandrio assailed the Dutch proposal to send a U.N. commission to the jungle territory to determine whether a plebiscite should be held there.

In the mounting Congo crisis, Belgian Delegate Walter Loris asked Acting Secretary-General U Thant for a U.N. investigation of the rape of Belgian women in Lubumbashi by troops of the central Congo government.

Indians, Cavemen Will Clash Tonight

Despite nine-weeks tests and all the nerve-racking anguish that goes with them, students are excited at Roseburg High School.

Matter of fact, the whole town is excited as its favorite football team—the Roseburg Indians—prepares to do battle with the Grants Pass Cavemen at 8 tonight on Finlay Field.

The Tribe goes forth in quest of the school's first football State Championship in the state quarterfinals.

In the first game of the season, a non-league counter, the Indians sent the Cavemen back to their caves after trimming them, 15-0.

The Cavemen would like to regain some of the "hair" they lost in that battle, while the Indians would like to trim the invaders again to go to the semifinals.

For the game, Finlay Field will have facilities to hold all fans interested in the game. School Principal Ralph Teters said 1,800 seats in the form of portable bleachers have been erected.

Teters said the bleachers bring the seating capacity of the field to 4,500—the largest in its history.

Schools in the Roseburg vicinity and the Douglas County Fair Board have provided the extra bleachers.

While general admission tickets are available at the school's athletic office, all of the 1,400 reserved seats have been sold.

Scientist, Four Navy Men Killed In Antarctic Crash

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica (AP)—A University of Minnesota scientist and four U.S. Navy men died Thursday night in the crash of a Navy plane homeward bound from a magnetic mapping flight across the frozen Antarctic.

The other four Navy men aboard the PZVA Neptune were reported burned about their faces and hands but a medical report said they were "recovering well" and fit to travel. Weather permitting a C-130 Hercules will take off Saturday to bring them back to McMurdo Sound.

On Last Flight Log

The Navy Neptune crashed as it was taking off from Australia's Wilkes Station on the last leg of a 2,900-mile flight over largely unexplored areas of the ice-capped continent. The expedition left the main U.S. base here Monday and spent two days at the Soviet scientific base at Mirny, on the Indian Ocean.

The Minnesota scientist, Dr. Edward C. Thiel, 33, had made magnetic measurements from the air which were expected to help throw light on geological mysteries below the icy wastelands.

Navy officials said the expedition—a phase of "Operation Deep Freeze 62"—was by far the longest airborne scientific flight ever undertaken by the United States in Antarctica.

It also was the first American aerial mission to the Soviet Union's Mirny base. A Soviet mission flew direct from Mirny to McMurdo by way of the South.

Soviet and American scientist are regularly stationed at the Soviet base.

Adm. David M. Tyree, commander of Operation Deep Freeze, said an intense fire broke out just after the Neptune's flight deck just after the take-off and apparently the heavy smoke obscured the vision of the pilot and copilot. There were suggestions also that they were affected by fumes.

An Ohio State University biologist, Dr. Madison Pryor, made the flight to Mirny but remained there. He is to spend the coming year at the Soviet base under the scientific exchange system the United States and the Soviet Union carry on in the antarctic.

The Navy said the service personnel killed in the crash were Lt. Cmdr. William Douglas Counts, USN, husband of Jeannette V. Counts of (15 Lafayette Way)
