

Christmas Cheer Of Folding Variety Lifts Spirits Of U. S. Stockholders

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Christmas cheer of the green and folding variety is lifting the spirits of many stockholders today.

A long list of corporations is passing around extra or year-end dividends. Others are increasing the size of regular dividend payments. Either business has been better for them or looks a lot better in the period just ahead.

In addition to the larger amount per share the total sum of money being dispensed around the country is further swelled by the increased number of stocks of American corporations outstanding this year. Some of this is due to stock splits or stock dividends, but also to a number of new issues, and to a sizable group of companies that have opened their books to public subscription this year for the first time.

And a larger number of individual shareholders are on the receiving end than ever before, as stock ownership continues to spread.

Use Peonies In Garden For Beauty, Versatility

Wherever you live, Anchorage, Alaska, Corinth, Miss., Nova Scotia or New Mexico, you can grow good peonies, for they are one of the most adaptable and versatile of all perennials, happy in almost any type of climate.

You can plant peonies in the perennial border to supply the bold accents their glossy, all-season-long foliage will provide. You can use them in hays between shrubs to bridge the gap between early and later-flowering varieties. You can use them as borders of summer hedges along driveways and walks where they will clearly mark the routine day or night and discourage foot traffic in the wrong direction. If you have a modern home, peonies make an ideal planting under a picture window or window wall and can be used for accent plantings on patios and terraces.

But, how about the flowers? These are purposely mentioned last, because they are the crowning glory. There may be other flowers that equal the peony in beauty of the individual blooms, but none surpass them. Reds, pinks and whites of all kinds—with yellows, oranges, and salmons for a good measure, among the tree peonies—make up the palette of their colors. There are lustrous, papery singles, bomb-like full doubles, and handsome anemone-form specimens up to 18 inches across. In some cases, to glorify garden or home. Then to add further variety, a cut-leaved sort is available from a few nurseries.

Planting Outlined

Since peonies can remain undisturbed for many years, it pays to give them a good root run. If possible, dig the hole about 18 inches across and fully as deep. Fill with improved soil, let it settle. Then plant so that the buds are about an inch below the sur-

DAYS CREEK GARDEN CLUB

The Days Creek Garden Club met recently at the home of Mrs. Clyde Schroeder with Mrs. Charles Farmer and Mrs. Clarence Richardson as co-hostesses.

The yearbooks, which were decorated by each member, were judged, with first prize going to Mrs. Bill Meyers; second to Mrs. Delbert Poole; and third, to Mrs. Richardson.

The program of flower arrangement was given by Mrs. Richard Williams who talked on wild flowers. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Ivan Kelly will have charge of the program in the future to replace Mrs. Archie Ferguson.

Wreaths and swags of flowers will be made by the members to be taken to the Veterans Hospital Dec. 20. A donation was made to the tuberculosis and health fund. Mrs. Poole won the prize of the day.

The next meeting will be the Christmas party with a noon pot-luck luncheon to be held in the home of Mrs. LeRoy Benson Dec. 21, according to Mrs. Ralph Martin, Days Creek correspondent.

SUTHERLIN GARDEN CLUB

The Sutherlin Garden Club met Nov. 15 at the community building with 12 members present.

Following a brief business meeting a work session was held at which dry materials were sprayed. Another workshop is planned for 10 a. m. Dec. 4 at the home of Mrs. Bud Holm at which time green materials will be treated. Members are asked to bring sack lunches.

Members voted to hold meetings in the future on the third Friday of each month instead of the third Thursday.

Tea hostesses for the November meeting were Mrs. J. E. Francis and Mrs. Harold Hatcher.

selling luxury goods—say that Christmas sales always increase when the stock market is bullish and when stockholders are getting increased folding money, especially in extra payments, at this time of year.

Those paying out year-end dividends range all the way from the giants like General Motors to small, only locally known corporations. A few of the big ones are Republic Aviation, Sears, Roebuck, U.S. Tobacco, Maytag Eastman Kodak, Pfizer, Smith, Kline & French, and Eli Lilly.

In the last two weeks the total of extra dividends or year-end disbursements has come to 67. In the same period 35 other companies increased the size of their regular payments.

In the first 10 months of this year cash dividend payments topped $11 billion, a gain of 2½ per cent over last year. In October the payments came to $987 million, compared with $922 million in the 1960 month, the Department of Commerce says. In September, always a bigger month, the outpouring was $2 billion, up 2 per cent from the 1960 month.

With November and December payments yet to be tallied, the amount available for Christmas spending, among other things, could rise much higher.

The great mass of the corporations declaring dividends now, as usual, are holding to the same amount as in the previous quarter.

But in many cases this is a relief for their shareholders who have been fearful that the profit-squeeze hangover from the recession might mean a cut in payments. In a few cases the regular disbursement has been maintained even when the latest quarterly earnings haven't covered it.

The time for announcing bonus goodies is also at hand. Hopes run high in Wall Street where big volume days on the stock market have meant increased commissions for brokerage houses, and hence the wherewithal to pay out Christmas bonuses to the employees.

All in all, for a lot of people this Christmas could be a much merrier one than last.

World Council Assembling Seeking Path Toward Unity Of Churches

By GEORGE CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

NEW DELHI (AP)—Hurry up and get together. Have patience, it takes time.

These were the conflicting imperatives at work here in the General Assembly of the World Council of Churches as it sought to clear new paths toward unity of Christendom.

In part the emphasis on haste stemmed from the younger churches in frontier areas, while the insistence on restraint and careful deliberation was the voice of ecclesiastical elders.

Both views were relayed Friday night to the 198 representatives of 17 Protestant, Orthodox and Old Catholic denominations from around the globe by the Church of England.

"Just as the way of holiness cannot be hurried and the way of truth cannot be hurried so, too, there is concerning unity, a divine patience," said The Most Rev. Philip Potter of London, chairman of the Worldwide Youth Federation, said the hesitancy of splintered Christianity to close ranks has created a "perilous situation."

"We are in serious danger of driving young people into despair of the churches and therefore into flight away from them," he said. "This is not a matter of youthful impetuosity and ignorance."

It is the clergy-eying, agonizing realization that their churches are not willing to manifest the unity which is not only given in Christ, but which is given here and now, in so much about which there is definite agreement," he said.

He hit particularly at denominational barriers that keep Christians from sharing Communion at the Lord's Supper.

"Intercommunion is not a battle of Protestant malcontents shrilly outcried by well-armed Catholic stalwarts," he said. "It is the deepest hunger reality of the people of God without which they cannot truly render a common witness to the world," he said.

Archbishop Ramsey cautioned against an immediate all-round mingling at the Lord's table without achieving mutual understanding of its meaning.

Tshombe Threatens To Destroy Mines

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—National Congolese troops and Katanga forces skirmished over the weekend near Kapanga on the south Kasai border, the Elisabethville radio said today.

Reliable military sources here said only a few troops were involved in the clash when Congo soldiers raided across the border for food and other supplies.

President Mwanuza told a cheering crowd of 5,000 Africans and a handful of whites Sunday that Katanga must give war. He threatened a scorched-earth program to destroy Katanga's rich copper and cobalt mines if any attempt is made by the United Nations or central Congo government to end the province's self-proclaimed independence.

Citizens Show Little Interest In Boom Test

WASHINGTON (AP)—When it comes to sonic booms, what people don't know doesn't seem to hurt them.

That was the gist of a recent report that several tests of boom effects over several big population areas in the nation produced surprisingly few complaints.

The boom occurs when a supersonic aircraft exceeds the speed of sound and sends shock waves earthward.

Officials in on the program said that only since the initial test program was completed and people became aware such tests were going on did the complaints begin to come in.

Previously, it was reported, when the public was unaware it was being subjected to such tests, people paid little attention to the disturbances.

The sonic boom study ended Nov. 11. Most of the complaints have come in since then.

The agencies refused to identify the areas over which the tests took place.

Injuries Prove Fatal To Accident Victim

GRANTS PASS (AP)—Injuries suffered in a head-on collision of two automobiles earlier in the week caused the death Thursday of Mrs. Carolyn Chimenti, 32.

Tommy Lee Haven, 3, was killed outright in the crash, which happened Thursday near Cave Junction.

A check to see if another person should be added to the list of Oregon traffic fatalities was being made by the Multnomah County Coroner's office.

That was after the death of Andrew David Wright, 80, who had been under treatment since being hit by a car last August. It was not determined if it was immediately whether the accident or another cause was responsible.

Polygamy Loses Fight In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—Egyptian society is overcoming polygamy—but not very fast.

The age-old practice, most common among the poor, has been under constant fire by Egyptian authorities and press for the past few years. Women's societies have launched campaigns discouraging polygamists and urged women to find out if a suitor already is married.

One recently counseled: "If you discover that your suitor is married don't hesitate to yell a flat 'no.' If you don't you'll live to regret it. Your partner wife will make life hell. She'll be worse than a mother-in-law."

Although authorities tend to use all possible means to bring an end to the practice, it has not imposed any laws nor inflicted punishment against polygamists. Still, the latest official reports say the practice has decreased. They say 8 per cent of all marriages now are polygamous—as opposed to 12 per cent 25 years ago.

Social affairs experts attribute this decline primarily to men's growing awareness of responsibility and their inclination to save themselves from being involved in quarrels between wives.

A second reason, the experts add, is the mental maturity of Egyptian girls of today and their staunch opposition to taking already married husbands.

OUT OUR WAY

GARAGIOLA BELIEVES

CINCINNATI (AP)—"I heard about this kid from other American Leaguers," said telecaster and raconteur Joe Garagiola, referring to Yankee third baseman Cleo Boyer. "I knew his brother Ken with the Cardinals was something special."

"But after seeing Cleo Boyer in the first two games of the World Series he made a believer out of me. He's one of the great third basemen."

Negroes Denied Access To Churches For Whites

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—For the second time in two months Negroes tried without success to worship at white churches in this east-central Georgia city.

The Rev. Roosevelt Green, 21, an ordained Baptist minister, and Paul Thompkins, 22, were denied admittance to the First Baptist church by an usher Sunday.

They left without argument, crossed the street and tried to enter St. John's Methodist church. Again they were turned away.

Green and Thompkins, students at Paine College, stood quietly outside a few minutes. Some parishioners entering St. John's made unfriendly remarks.

Marion Dasher, chairman of the church board, again asked them to leave and they did.

Last month Green and another Negro tried to enter the First Baptist church. Police were called and officers told them not to return.

License Turned In

MANASQUAN, N.J. (AP)—John Kremer paid a $10 fine in municipal court after receiving his first traffic ticket in 36 years of driving. He then voluntarily surrendered his driver's license.

Kremer, a retired engineer, said he was nearly 81 and had decided to stop driving now "before something serious happened."
