

Three-Man Moonship Carries U. S. Hopes For Manned Lunar Landing

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — A three-man moonship designed to keep crewmen alive two weeks in "shirtsleeve atmosphere" packs American hopes to land on the moon by 1970.

Space experts call the cabin "one of the most complex manned flight devices ever designed and built."

A wooden mockup of the command capsule for the Apollo spacecraft was unveiled Thursday at the space and information systems division of North American Aviation, where it was built.

The cone-shaped compartment is filled with drawers, instruments and gadgets. An instrument panel covering an entire side of the capsule is above the crewmen as they recline in special seats during liftoff.

The craft will be commanded by the pilot. Others aboard will be the co-pilot and an engineer-scientist. Each can perform all functions.

"The capsule is built to use man as an integral part of the design," Engineer J. W. Small of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

"The judgment of the crew is a major factor. We feel man's judgment is better than reliance on machines in many instances."

Details of the Apollo program for manned exploration of the moon were disclosed previously but this was the first showing of the capsule—one of three units of Apollo.

Manned orbital flight around the moon is set for 1967 or 1968. The first manned landing on the moon by the United States is scheduled in the late 1960s.

High enough in the middle for a man to stand erect, the 8,000-pound capsule has three windows and two periscopes. An airlock or pressure chamber enables crewmen to get outside in space, to transfer to another spacecraft or to walk around on the moon.

Except for periods of acceleration or leaving the capsule, pressure suits will be unnecessary, although one man probably will always have one on.

Another section will contain service components not needed inside the manned vehicle, while a third will be a propulsion unit to slow the speeding craft as it nears the moon and to launch it for return to earth.

The space ship is expected to take about 2½ days each way to and from the moon, with a 24-hour layover for exploration of the surface.

Glendale Hits Overdue Bills

Mayor Ralph Place of Glendale said today laxness in payment of water and sewage disposal bills by residents of the city has brought about the City Council's decision to crack down.

The council this week noted, effective immediately, that city residents must have their water and sewer bills paid in full by the 30th day of any given month or their service will be cut off. Place said the action was necessitated because the laxness in payment had created a financial burden on the city.

The council also voted to reject a request on the part of Postmaster Howard Edson for erection of "ten-minute parking" signs in front of the post office building. The decision was made because the council indicated it felt the city parking lot across the street offers ample parking space for post office patrons.

The council also voted to allow use of the Glendale City Park by the Girl Scouts for a day camp during several days next summer. It refused, however, to give the organization exclusive use of the facilities during that period.

In the story of the council's action Wednesday, the name of the Glendale Volunteer Fire Department changed from Blakely to Bakey. Chief Don Blakely made a report on a proposed serial bond issue for a new fire truck and equipment. He indicated at the time, yearly millage would be decreased from about 9 to 5.

Former Glide Athlete Fastest Minor Leaguer

Dick Smith of Glide has won the title as fastest man in the Los Angeles Dodgers minor league organization.

In training at Vero Beach, Fla., the 23-year-old former Glide High and Roseburg Legion Junior pitcher today won the annual sprint race. He ran the 60-yard dash in 6.5 seconds, beating Nate Oliver, Spokane shortstop, by a step. Smith is now playing with Omaha of the American Association.

Al Campanis, camp field director and chief of the Los Angeles scouts, presented Smith with a Dodgers wrist watch as the winning trophy.

Former Roseburg Newsman, Louis F. Reizenstein, Dies

Louis F. Reizenstein, 82, 317 SE Fowler St., Roseburg, retired newspaperman and former Roseburg postmaster, died early today at a Roseburg hospital.

Reizenstein served for more than 50 years as a reporter, telegraph editor, and editorial writer with the Roseburg Review and with the Roseburg News-Review, after the latter was organized by consolidation of the Review with the Evening News.

Born Feb. 7, 1880, in Iowa, he came with his parents at the age of 12 years to Portland, where he received his education. Following graduation from a Portland academy, he became a postal clerk at Roseburg under the late Charles Parks.

Shortly before the turn of the century he was employed as a reporter by Charles H. Fisher and Lee Wimberly, both deceased, then publishing the Roseburg Review.

He continued with the newspaper until his appointment as postmaster during the First World War. The appointment was made by Pres. Woodrow Wilson and continued until after the change in administration.

He then joined the Roseburg News-Review, serving until his partial retirement in 1955. After that date he continued to do some re-life work on the wire desk and to continue the editorial feature, "Levity, Fact Rant," for which he was widely known. The featured editorial was a front page comment, the title being based on his initials.

He recently suffered a complete breakdown of health which required hospitalization.

Wife Was Librarian

Reizenstein was married June 5, 1914, to the former Hilda McCurdy. Mrs. Reizenstein served a number of years as librarian at the Roseburg Public Library. Survivors include his wife; cousins in Portland; and a niece in Klamath Falls. Services are to be held at 2 p.m., Monday, at Long and Shukle Memorial Chapel. To be conducted by the Rev. John Adams, of the First Presbyterian Church, the services will be concluded at the chapel. Vault committal at Roseburg Memorial Gardens will be private.

Students To Get Shots For Visit To Mexico

Monday will be the bitter before the sweet for the 60 members of Glide High School Project 35.

The students, who are now raising funds to take a summer trip to Mexico, will file into the Douglas County Health Department in Roseburg to receive immunization shots for smallpox, tetanus and typhoid. Accompanying them will be John Thompson, high school principal, and Gene Rosaschi, journalism instructor. They are scheduled for the shots at 4:30.

Thompson and Rosaschi will drive the two school buses on the trip to the Mexican border. Jerry Lemert, junior high science instructor, and Floyd Haas, member of the Glide School Board, who will also drive buses, will receive their vaccinations later, reports correspondent Mrs. Arthur Selby.

Roseburg Firm Has Apparent Low Bid

Murphy Construction Co. of Roseburg was the apparent low bidder for the construction of a six-classroom addition to Highlands Elementary School, in Reedsport.

The company's basic bid was $85,490. Alternate 3 for fiberglass roofing subtracted $400 and acceptance of alternate 4 for roof bond, added $180. The Reedsport Elementary District figured the contract at $85,270.

The addition, which will total about 7,200 square feet, will have a concrete slab floor, concrete and concrete block walls, and a wooden roof.

Other bidders and their basic figures were: Jack Bruer, Coos Bay, $86,138; Associated Building Contractors, Beaverton, $87,437; Drake Construction Co., Coquille, $87,850; James & Stritzke, Roseburg, $88,435; William & W. S. Schroeder, Coos Bay, $89,924; Baughman and Son, Coos Bay, $90,820.

Doerner To Speak On Surplus Foods

County Commissioner Ray Doerner Monday will speak on the subjects of county politics and the proposed food surplus program at a meeting in the Courthouse.

The meeting is being sponsored by the Douglas County Young Republicans.

The surplus food program is one of the hottest issues facing the court now. Earlier this week, petitions containing more than 1,800 names were received by the court requesting that the program be instituted in the county. Under the state-administered program, surplus food from federal storehouses will be sold at nominal fees to welfare and low-income families.

The court is considering the requests.

Oakland Science Fair

The Science Fair held annually by Oakland elementary schools will be at the Washington School gym Monday evening, reports Edith Dunn, correspondent.

The PTA will sell hot dogs, pie and cake and coffee. Proceeds will go to the scholarship fund. Parents are asked to donate pie or cake for the sale.

'Have Fun - Make Mun' Is Slogan For Joseph Lane PTA Carnival

With the slogan "Have Fun - Make Mun" members of the Joseph Lane PTA announce a double-event evening for Saturday, April 14 at the school.

The annual fund raising carnival and fun night will be combined this year with a "Follies" type talent show featuring both adults and students. Carnival time is set for 6 to 7:30 p.m. with the auditorium show to follow at 7:45. Concessions will be open again from 9 to 10 p.m.

Ex-Broadway stars Jack and Sydna Mann (now Mr. and Mrs. Avery Greenman of Tiller) will be featured. Mrs. Greenman is a former Ziegfeld Follies girl.

The carnival will feature the usual concessions and food booths including a country store with a stock of records, toys, fancy work, white elephants, jewelry and other items. Baked goods and candy will also be on sale.

A special "surprise" concession booth is planned especially for students. Various committees are currently at work on the project and request the help of Joseph Lane parents in the contribution of items for the concessions, according to Mrs. Robert O'Neil, general chairman. Mrs. Gene Cooksey is in charge of the follies program.

Lodges To Name Contest Winner

Selection of a Douglas County student winner in the United Nations night will be made here Saturday night at the IOOF Hall. The program, open to the public, will begin at 8 o'clock.

Choice of a county candidate to visit the United Nations in action in New York is sponsored by the Odd Fellow and Rebekah lodges in Douglas County, according to James Flynn, county chairman. He said a total of 1,054 students over the nation are to be selected, compared to about 700 last year.

Winners are chosen on the basis of previously submitted essays, then on a short talk they will give during the program Saturday night, and upon their poise and general presentation. The essays already have been judged. The contestant's names in the essay contest are not known to the judges, as selection is made by a number. The judges, however, will review the speeches.

There are six contestants from throughout the county entered, said Flynn. An alternate will also be chosen, in case the winner is unable to make the expense-paid trip to the United Nations.

The public is invited to attend, and refreshments will be served.

PP&L Plans Reduction In Irrigation Rates

SALEM (AP) — Pacific Power & Light Co. is reducing its irrigation and drainage pumping rates in Southern Oregon by 10 per cent.

Jonel C. Hill, public utility commissioner, said 600 customers would save $15,500 a year.

It is not known whether any of those affected are located in Douglas County. However, about 70 PP&L customers of the county use electrical power in irrigation and pumping.

Ore. Man Missing After Reno Blaze

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Reno officials said Thursday a man who was registered at the New Golden Hotel as John Schmidt of Box 117 in Stayton, Ore., was one of six persons still listed as missing after Tuesday's multi-million dollar fire.

The intense blaze left the four-story hotel and casino a charred ruin.

Stayton authorities could find no record of a John Schmidt, and had no record of him at the listed address.

Some of those missing may have escaped the fire, but failed to notify authorities, Reno police said. Others, however may have been cremated by the intense blaze, touched off in a basement by leaking acetylene gas.

Only one body has been recovered, that of Gertrude Holbrook, 68, a San Francisco merchant.

Firemen said a search for the six persons would begin today.

Shock Of Explosion Is Felt In Roseburg

It wasn't a jet airplane breaking the sound barrier and it wasn't another blast like the one Aug. 7, 1959, that was felt in the Roseburg area this morning, but it was an explosion.

The shock waves felt were the results of some blasting on the site of the new $500,000 "Indian Lanes" bowling alley.

The ground-breaking is taking place at the top of the hill on NE Stephens St. next to the old Rudy's Drive-In. The base of the hill on the site is being leveled off.

The bowling alley is scheduled to open in mid-July or before. It will be a Brunswick 16-alley establishment.

The alley will be operated by D & D Bowl Inc. Co-owners are Bill Donnelly and John Donovan of Myrtle Creek, Dr. Roy Hanford of Melrose Rd. and attorney Harrison Winston of Winston.

Sheep Stealing Trial Ends In Locked Jury

The trial of William C. Remoir, 41, of Rt. 1 Box 54, Oakland, Thursday ended in a hung jury. Remoir was charged with larceny of sheep.

The trial opened at 10 a.m., the jury being picked by 11:24. The jurors retired at 4:10 p.m. after hearing testimony of the witnesses, closing arguments of Deputy Dist. Attorney Verden Hockett, and defense attorney Edward M. Murphy, and instructions from the judge.

When the jurors were unable to reach a decision after deliberating until 12:30 a.m. today, Circuit Court Judge Charles S. Woodrich dismissed them.

Remoir was accused in a Grand Jury indictment with the theft of sheep from James G. Eden on July 28, 1961. Eden operates a ranch nearby in the Yoncalla area. Four or five sheep were al-

Portioning Group Names Glendale Area Chairmen

Blane Johnson and Lewis Brady have accepted appointment as Glendale-Azalea area co-chairmen of the Citizen's Committee for Representative Government, according to George Luoma, Douglas County chairman.

Johnson is a state director of the Oregon Farm Bureau Federation and Brady is president of the Douglas County chapter. Each of them has been active in other civic matters.

Johnson and Brady will spearhead efforts in the Glendale-Azalea area with the help of others in obtaining signatures for the Legislative Apportionment Constitutional Amendment to place that measure on the November ballot for vote of the people.

McCloskey Quits Democratic Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Matthew H. McCloskey resigned Thursday after seven years as treasurer of the Democratic national committee.

Chairman John M. Bailey named Richard Maguire, an assistant to President Kennedy, to succeed McCloskey.
