Battle-Equipped Troops Deployed As New Argentine Crisis Flares

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Battle-equipped troops deployed through Buenos Aires today as a new Argentine crisis flared between President Jose Maria Guido and the military leaders who put him into office three weeks ago.

Soldiers and national policemen were posted at key points in the capital to guard against Peronist disturbances as the military chiefs pressed Guido's government to bar the followers of ex-Dictator Juan Peron from politics once again. An estimated 5,000 more troops were summoned from the provinces to Buenos Aires.

Guido Stands Firm

Guido was reported standing firm against the military demand, but his new government began to wilt under the same pressures the military put on President Arturo Frondizi before ousting him last month.

Interior Minister Rodolfo Martinez resigned and charged the government was planning to defy the constitution by taking over the provincial governments. Labor Minister Oscar Guiggros hinted that he also would quit.

There was no immediate reaction from the Peronists. But they have repeatedly warned of social disturbances unless the government allows the many Peronist victors in the March 18 elections to take office on schedule May 1.

Leaders of the 3-million-member, Peronist-dominated General Confederation of Labor arranged to meet Tuesday to map strategy.

Demands Turned Down

Informed sources said Guido turned down the military's demands in a 90-minute meeting Wednesday night with the three service secretaries, the army's Gen. Raul A. Poggi, the navy's Rear Adm. Gaston Clement and the air force's Brig. Jorge Rojas Silveyra.

The military chiefs demanded that Guido:

1. Order federal intervention in the 17 provinces still under local control, replacing their elected governors with federal appointees approved by the military;
2. Nullify the March 18 elections in which the Peronists drew more than 2.5 million votes, elected governors in nine provinces and won 43 seats in the national Chamber of Deputies;
3. Once again ban Peronists and their allies, including the Communists, from political activity; and
4. Scrap labor legislation the military considers too favorable to the Peronist unions.

Military Determined

After the meeting with Guido, the service secretaries met for three hours with their top commanders. They were reported determined that Guido agree to their demands.

Five of the provinces, including key Buenos Aires province, are already under federal interventors appointed by Frondizi at the military's insistence. The military made use of this intervention for the first time Wednesday by pressuring the Buenos Aires province chief to ban all Peronist activity in his area.

'Easter Much Happier Now,' Owen Comments On Release

FT. POLK, La. (AP)—"It'll be a much happier Easter now," said Pfc. Bernis Owen after he was released from the post stockade on orders from President Kennedy.

Owen, 23, from Seadrift, Tex., freed Wednesday, had served three weeks of a six-month, hard-labor sentence by a court-martial which found him guilty of disrespect to his commanding general. He also was fined $50 a month.

In Washington, President Kennedy told a news conference he was remitting the sentence and also releasing another Reservist "in the spirit of Easter week."

The other man was Pfc. Larry D. Chidester of Salt Lake City. Chidester, 24, had been facing court-martial at Ft. Lewis, Wash., for suggesting among other things that perhaps Kennedy figured "the jobs left open by our callup will re-elect him on the basis of low unemployment."

The President ordered Chidester's court-martial canceled.

"I'm very happy," Chiester said, "and it's something I deeply respect the President for, now more than ever. Regrets? My only regret is the trouble it caused for the military. I did not intend to do that."

Chidester criticized Kennedy in a letter to Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, and encouraged 74 other men in his outfit—the 115th Ordnance Co., a Utah National Guard unit — to sign the letter.

In Owen's case, he as accused of having said the general's order halting "we-want-out" demonstrations was "a hilarious climax to a chain of injustices."

After leaving the stockade, Owen packed his gear and moved out to join his company in the field. He is in Company D, 4th Armored Rifle Battalion, 49th Armored Division of the Texas National Guard.

Owen's unit is scheduled for release from federal service in August.

Murder Charged To Storekeeper

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A white storekeeper was held on a murder charge today after a shooting spree in his store that killed a Negro youth and injured five others.

Police quoted Ollie F. Sally, 59, as saying the teen-agers tried to attack him.

The boys, high school students on Easter vacation, told another story. They said Sally locked them inside his tiny confectionery store, then—without provocation—opened fire at them.

Police said 13 shots rang out before one of the youngsters, wounded in the knee, grappled with the storekeeper, threw him toward the rear of the store, and followed the other boys to safety outside.

Two times after the incident, offices had to disperse angry groups of Negroes—relatives and friends of the boys.

Killed in the fusillade from Sally's pistol was Clarence Simms, 16, shot twice in the head. Wounded, though not critically, were Charles Hayes Petty, 17; Nathanial Conyers, 14; James Lee Moore, 13; Anthony Lyons Tucker, 16, and Harry James Moseley, 16.

Sally told officers the boys came into his store, demanded soft drinks, banged their hands on the counter. Then, he said, one of them asked for a bag of potatoes.

As he stooped to get the potatoes, the storekeeper said, Simms said, "Let's get him," and tried to grab him.

That, Sally told police, was when he got his pistol and began shooting. He denied he locked the doors.

Sally was convicted 13 years ago of manslaughter in the death of a white man, Everett J. Justice, in a store Sally operated on the fringe of a Negro neighborhood in Durham, N.C.

The conviction in 1949 came a year after Sally unsuccessfully ran for mayor of Durham. He served a few months in prison. His store here was opened in 1960.

Principle convention speaker will be Sen. Joseph J. Hickey of Wyoming. Hickey will address a banquet audience May 5.

Johnson said the chapter will carry 65 votes to the convention, an increase of 20 over 1961. Voting strength is awarded on a basis of official club membership totals.

The chapter president said he is expecting a large Roseburg delegation. He pointed out the meeting is open to the public and banquet tickets may be obtained by contacting Annette McGee, secretary, at OR 3-4679.

Phone Company Finds Way To Put Phones In Pockets

SEATTLE (AP) — This invention may or may not be what you're looking for, but the telephone company has found a way to put a telephone in your pocket.

Displayed for the first time at the Seattle World's Fair by the Bell System, the invention — the Bellboy Personal Signaling Service—makes it possible for you to be in constant touch by telephone with your office, your club, your business associates — and your wife.

Here is the way it works: a customer subscribing to the service carries a small, pocket-size radio receiver which, in effect, is an extension of his telephone bell.

Each Bellboy has an individual seven-digit telephone number and is individually signalled. For that reason, only one Bellboy — the right one unless someone dials the rong number — is signalled when a call is placed to a subscriber.

When the person receives a signal, he goes to the nearest telephone and calls a pre-determined number.

The World's Fair ordered 40 sets to be used by department heads, nurses and maintenance men working in various areas of the grounds.

Nine transmitters in the Seattle area will provide coverage anywhere from the vicinity of the Northgate area to south of the Seattle-Tacoma airport, a distance of more than 25 miles.

This is the way the Bellboy is signalled: When you dial the specially assigned number of the Bellboy, the dial pulses are channeled through any of Seattle's switching centers to special terminal equipment in another building. There, the dial pulses are converted to audio tones and sent over lines simultaneously to the nine radio transmitters.

The radio signal is then picked up by the completely transistorized Bellboy pocket receiver. A customer receiving an incoming call would hear a tone signal at three 30-second intervals. The customer then turns off the tone by depressing a small plunger.

State Police Get Safety Plaque

Oregon State Police cars stationed at Roseburg traveled 650,000 miles — a distance of 26 times around the earth — without accident during 1961.

For this achievement the office was presented a special plaque signed by Gov. Mark O. Hatfield and by H. G. Maison, head of the state police organization at Salem.

Receiving the plaque Wednesday was Sgt. Robert J. Keefe, in charge of the local office. The presentation was made by Lt. E. W. Tichenor, Medford, as the governor's representation.

Douglas County, with almost 100 miles of interstate highway from north to south is one of the largest areas and has more roads than any county in Oregon. It is larger than the state of Connecticut. The district served by Roseburg extends from Diamond Lake on the east to Elkton on the west, but there is an overlapping actually to the Scottsburg and Loon Lake areas in western Douglas with the office in Reedsport, administered out of Coquille.

Sgt. Richard H. Bouey, assigned at Roseburg, tabulated the miles and said they were traveled by the 22-man staff driving 13 regularly-station vehicles.

The presentation was made at the state police training school held at the Courthouse Wednesday, when game enforcement and tourist travel were given special attention.

Actually the safety record, dates back to October 1960, and extends to the present day. The plaque was for the year 1961.

It is the first of a series planned by the state Medical Association and OPS as a public service to business leaders in the state.

Don Chapman, executive vice president of OPS, said similar panels will be conducted in Portland and many other communities in the state, based on the audience reaction and experience gained at the Roseburg session.

Members of the panel will be Dr. William D. Holst, Dr. Donald M. Jeppesen and Harold Schmeer, manager of the Roseburg branch of U. S. National Bank.

Chapman will be moderator and will present questions to the panelists suggested by members of the audience.

Lady Wins Damage Suit Against Former Cab Co.

A Douglas County Circuit Court jury Tuesday returned a verdict awarding $2,000 general damages and $1,518.41 special damages to Marie DeBau in her suit against partners in a Roseburg taxi business.

Defendants in the case were Clarence O. Boe, Paul K. Ryan and C. D. Albright, doing business as Ellis Cabs.

The plaintiff had asked $27,500 as general damages in her complaint. She alleged that defendants' negligence was cause of a mishap Sept. 2, 1960, in which she suffered serious and permanent injuries.

The plaintiff alleged that the defendants' taxi cab, operated by George Micheaux, lurched as she was about to leave the vehicle, causing an injury to the cervical area of her spine.

She asked award of general damages for the injuries and special damages for hospital and medical expenses.

The jury voted 10 to 2 in favor of the verdict. Trial opened at 10 a.m. Monday and the verdict was returned at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Johnson Says Moon Landing Would Solve Many Problems

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson declared today the nation's space goal of shooting for the moon and reaching it will also open new doors on earth for peace and prosperity.

Johnson told the American Society of Newspaper Editors meeting here there is a good reason "why we are proposing to spend billions of dollars to go to the moon when there are so many problems to be solved right here on earth."

A moon landing, he said in his prepared remarks, would solve many of earth's problems.

Going to the moon is not merely an effort to satisfy idle curiosity, he said. "We are going to the moon because it is a logical step in the exploration of the universe."

"The steps we have taken already have paid off and paid off handsomely," he added.

Johnson cited as one dividend of the space program the weather satellite Tiros which gave the Gulf Coast three days' advance warning of Hurricane Carla.

The people on the Gulf, Johnson said, "found that the space program—which had seemed so remote—suddenly became very near to them and very dear to them—because it meant saving lives."

Johnson, chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, said there are other dividends being reaped from the investment in space—some already in existence or just over the next orbit.

The building of compact electronics equipment essential to space flight will in the future mean pocket television receivers, better hearing aids and whole new families of household appliances, he said.

"Our studies of man under the stress of space flight are opening new biological concepts that will have great medical value," Johnson said.

"Our communication satellite system will eliminate the need—and the cost—of laying 50 additional cables across the ocean in the next 20 years."

JFK Depends On Public Opinion To Keep Prices, Wages In Line

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has staked out a chair for the government—or as he views it, for the people—at the hitherto sacrosanct corporation boardroom and collective bargaining tables across America.

This has been a firm administration policy for some time, but news of it, despite frequent restatement, doesn't seem to have generally seeped through. It was the root of all the uproar in the recent steel price fracas.

Simply put, the policy is that the national interest requires the government to state clearly and positively how price and wage decisions, put into effect or contemplated, stack up with requirements of maintaining wage-price stability. The President has stated a few rules to follow.

There is no law prohibiting this. There is none precisely authorizing it either, except perhaps the unwritten law of necessity of everyone, as Kennedy says, sticking together in a nation faced with worldwide problems and commitments.

Clearly Kennedy is depending upon the force of public opinion to keep wages and prices in line to foster economic growth and keep this country ahead in world trade in the face of growing foreign sales competition.

"This interrelationship," Kennedy told his news conference Wednesday, "makes the public interest mandatory in these matters, and it is our responsibility to present it to those involved. That is what we tried to do in the steel case."

"We can attempt, it seems to me," he said at another point, "to bring before the (private) parties in the most effective way possible, the public interest that is involved, and must be involved, particularly in these basic industries."

In getting the major steel companies to rescind their price increases Kennedy's most effective way possible included channeling government steel purchases through those firms that maintained the lower price line.
