Army Rebel Action Stirs New Crisis

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Jose Mario Guido won a truce today from embattled army chiefs who called out tanks and artillery in a threatened blood-spilling in the nation's crisis over Peronism.

Cavalry Gen. Enrique Rauch, who staged a lightning rebellion against the army high command and launched a column of tanks and troop carriers against the capital in support of the president, told newsmen the truce was reached at a summit meeting of military chiefs.

Gen. Raul Poggi, the army commander whose artillery and infantry units had entrenched around the war ministry, waved in disgust to newsmen and refused to talk as he left the meeting at President Guido's residence.

The two generals had marshaled the nation's army behind them in opposing camps as the result of a crisis triggered by Guido's appointments of Rauch, to succeed Poggi, and War Secretary Gen. Marino Bartolome Carrera.

Rauch, who seemed to have gained the support of most of the army, told newsmen the truce was achieved on the basis of a formula proposed by Guido himself.

He said he accepted the solution which included an order that his rebellious troops be dispersed and sent back to their barracks.

The solution, he added, included the appointment of a new war secretary, whose name he would not disclose.

"My honor as a military man has been satisfied," he said, adding that he had confidence in the new army secretary and that Guido's solution was "satisfactory for all and for the good of the nation."

Shortly before Gen. Rauch drove through the heavily guarded gates of the president's residence he had succeeded in occupying the national radio with about 60 soldiers.

General Poggi, whom Rauch threatened to blast out of the ministry unless he surrendered his office, drove up minutes later.

Rear Adm. Gaston Clement, another of the three tough military chiefs who have demanded that Guido suppress the Peronistas by dictatorial decree, drove in, too.

Other cars brought a collection of generals.

It was Poggi, who masterminded the ouster and imprisonment of President Arturo Frondizi last month in the dispute over Peronism.

Gen. Rauch, a cavalry leader, apparently had in hand more than 12,000 troops and 150 Sherman tanks from an armored regiment at Campo de Mayo, Argentina's biggest military establishment.

Poggi's forces included the 1st and 2nd infantry divisions in Palermo suburb—directly across the path of Rauch's armored column.

Both sides claimed the support of an overwhelming share of the armed forces, but it was not known exactly how the armed services throughout the country were reacting.

Gen. Poggi's faction was in control of most of Buenos Aires.

It was assumed that Gen. Rauch would seek to occupy such major positions as the telephone exchange and radio stations, and the Plaza de Mayo, where Government House is located.

The war ministry, the key to power in Argentina, is just across the avenue from government House.

The dissident army faction also opposed letting Peronists take the offices they won in elections last month, but supported Guido in seeking a constitutional solution to the problem.

In confusing sequence, Guido accepted the resignation of Army Secretary Gen. Marino Bartolome Carrera and appointed General Rauch to be Carrera's successor and also acting commander-in-chief.

Poggi proclaimed himself still the commander and declared Rauch in rebellion.

In a desperate effort to sort out the split between the "legalist" and the "hard-line" factions of the army, Guido summoned a conference of generals to his suburban residence. The conference did not materialize.

Army Troops, Police Quell Athens Riots

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—The government clamped strict security measures on Athens today after riot police used armored vehicles and tear gas to break up antigovernment riots that injured 80 persons.

Police, backed by an estimated 7,000 army reinforcements, battled thousands of demonstrators from sunset to midnight as street fighting swept across the city. More than 240 demonstrators were arrested. Police said 20 rioters and 10 policemen were seriously injured.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis' pro-Western government blamed the violence on leftist extremists and ordered army troops and riot police to patrol Athens streets. Nearby military units were put on alert.

The rioting erupted when police tried to prevent an overflow crowd from attending a protest rally called by Center Union leader George Papandreu in defiance of a government ban on mass gatherings.

Papandreu, whose antigovernment campaign has support from the left, called the rally to denounce results of last October's national election in which Caramanlis chalked up a landslide.

Police let about 800 followers of the Center Union into the square where Papandreu was speaking, then sealed it off.

Those who could not get to the meeting started to taunt police. The clashes followed.

When the crowd showered police with stones, authorities broke out tear gas grenades and scattered the rioters.

The rioting did not reach the square where the meeting was held and Papandreu spoke without interference.

Use of Coercion Charged
The Center Union leader again charged that Caramanlis won the elections by using coercion and demanded that the premier resign.

In a statement, Caramanlis denounced Papandreu's defiance of the ban on public meetings as a miserable adventure.

The premier has brushed aside Papandreu's charges of election coercion, saying the 73-year-old opposition leader is a sore loser.

An electoral court investigating regularities involving some 2,000 voters, but this does not affect Caramanlis' majority in Parliament.

Many Anglers Off To Lakes

Fishermen are invading the high lakes of eastern Douglas County in good numbers on the first day of the trout season.

That was the word today from Frank Moore of Steamboat Inn and Don Tandy, Steamboat ranger of the Umpqua National Forest.

Moore said car traffic was heavy Friday night and about 4:30 a.m. today. Just before noon, traffic, he said, had slackened off but was still moving by. He said many fishermen stopped at the inn for breakfast and supplies before continuing this morning.

Tandy reported at 10:45 a.m. that at Tokete there were about 250 persons fishing "which is light compared to what it has been in recent years." He noted in past years 600 to 700 persons would open the season at Tokete.

However, he said the opening of the road to Lemolo Lake is one of the prime reasons for the drop at Tokete. He said he thought a large number of fishermen would be hiking about the lake.

"With all those going up there, it's a wonder there's a rock to stand on," he noted.

Tandy said he did not think many persons were camping out. Large numbers of fishermen are arriving in pickup trucks with campers mounted on them, he said.

The weather is ideal according to Tandy. The air is clear, the sun is shining and it is warm.

SIGN OF THE CROSS — The new Easter cross above has been beam down over Roseburg during the Easter season. The new lighted cross was installed recently on Mt. Nebo by the Roseburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Sunrise Service Set For Easter

Special worship and Easter egg hunts throughout the county will highlight Easter this year.

Christian worshippers will have the opportunity to participate in a variety of Easter services, beginning with the traditional sunrise services and ending with both regular and special evening services.

Perhaps the largest sunrise gathering will be at the Fairgrounds Pavilion in Roseburg when the Roseburg Ministerial Association will sponsor 6 a.m. services for the entire community. The program is listed as follows: Invocation, the Rev. Glen Davis of the Melrose Community Church; Scripture, the Rev. Leonard Floth of the Green Community Church; prayer, the Rev. Donald Smith, of the Westside Christian Church; sermon, the Rev. Glen Goddard of the American Sunday School Union.

In Sutherlin, sunrise services will be held at 6 a.m. on the high school athletic field under the sponsorship of the Sutherlin Ministerial Association.

Several churches will unite in

The Winston City Park will be the setting for 6 a.m. services for the Winston-Dillard area.

Several churches of the Glendale area will join for 6:30 a.m. services at the Glendale Olivet Presbyterian Church.

Various groups will hold Easter breakfasts in their separate communities following the early morning rites.

Easter egg hunts for the children will be staged Sunday in some areas. In Tenmile, the Methodist Church will have an egg hunt at 1:30 p.m. followed by a dinner at the Tenmile Clubhouse.

In Riddle an Easter egg hunt will be held at 1:30 p.m. at the high school football field.

Times for both regular and special services for most churches of the area were listed previously in The News-Review.

At Myrtle Creek and Roseburg, Easter got an early start today with Easter egg hunts.

The third annual Myrtle Creek Easter egg hunt for boys and girls through 12 years of age got underway at the two city parks. Cash prizes were given in three divisions. In all about 250 prizes sponsored by 40 businesses and service firms were given. More than 1,300 eggs were hidden.

In Roseburg, Mark's Market sponsored a big hunt behind its store this morning.

Salan Arrest Hands OAS Big Setback

PARIS (AP)—Ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, captured chief of the European Secret Army Organization, today faced a military trial and probable death sentence. His supporters in the Algerian terrorist campaign reeled under the impact of his arrest.

The secret army vowed to continue its desperate battle against Algerian independence, but many observers felt Salan's capture represented a crippling and possible death blow to the underground organization.

Salan, one of France's most decorated soldiers, was the great rallying symbol to several thousand European right-wingers and French army deserters. The extremists have been terrorizing Algerian Moslems in hopes of forcing Moslem retaliation that would prompt the government to call off plans for self-determination in Algeria.

Europeans Gloomy
Word of Salan's capture in the heart of Algiers Friday plunged Algeria's European population into gloom. "We are lost," said a European resident of Algiers.

The news was hailed by the Algerian nationalist government in exile, stationed in Tunis. It declared, "The arrest of the bandit chief Salan will not fail to have repercussions on the criminal action of the fascist commandos."

Salan was flown to Paris handcuffed and rushed to Sante Prison. Some 300 of his followers demonstrated outside the prison, and imprisoned sympathizers rioted and set fire to a wooden partition inside.

Twenty Injured
Authorities said 15 prisoners, all of them right-wing extremists, and five police were injured in the outbreak. The fire was brought under control several hours after Salan's arrival.

Salan's capture and the arrest March 25 of the secret army's No. 2 leader—ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud—indicated a serious penetration of the organization's network.

Hodges, the government's top representative at the opening day ceremonies, said no other fair had provided such cultural and scientific emphasis.

Washington Gov. Albert D. Rosellini hailed the fair as "epitomizing the dynamic vitality of the people of our great state." Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said, "We are opening the greatest exposition in the history of man." Mayor Gordon S. Clinton welcomed fairgoers to the city.

Entertainer Danny Kaye also read what was called the credo of the Century 21 Exposition, which said the fair "celebrates the gathering of men from all nations who share a common quest for broader knowledge and understanding."

A dozen foreign ambassadors or high government officials were on hand for the program, as was Robert Moses, president of New York's 1964 fair.

First-day attendance was predicted to be 100,000. Ten million visitors are expected before the fair's close Oct. 21. Advance ticket sales have topped 3 1/2 million, or half the number needed for the fair to break even financially.

The wares of 59 foreign nations, including more than 30 government exhibits, and 175 domestic exhibitors are spread through the compact grounds.

Eye-catchers are the soaring 600-foot space needle, the fair's symbol; the beautiful $10-million U.S. science pavilion designed by Detroit architect Minoru Yamasaki; the $4.2-million, high-speed monorail, whisking passengers over a 1.2-mile route from a downtown terminal; and the $4-million Washington State coliseum with its "world of tomorrow" theme.

A lure nearly as strong is a $15-million fine arts display with many of the world's great paintings and a $20-million performing arts program studded with top dramatic and musical attractions.

Show street will offer an earthier side with semiregular revues.

Capping the opening day's program will be a fancy dress gala tonight in the opulent new opera house.

Portland Stabbed

PORTLAND (AP)—Ralph Cesarez, 39, Portland, was stabbed to death at his home late Friday night. Police said the stabbing followed a quarrel at a drinking party at his home at 6107 SW Caruthers St.

They booked his wife, Charlotte, 25, on a charge of first-degree murder.

Migrants Leave For Japan

NHIGATA, Japan (AP)—Another 351 Korean migrants left for Japan today aboard the Soviet registration ship Norisk. They were the 92nd group to be repatriated under a 1959 Japan-North Korean Red Cross agreement.

The other three, William Thomas, 22, Richard Cobb, 30, and Clarence Lee Jones, 25, all of Key West, were charged with stealing the 58-foot shrimp trawler Teresa and Julia from Key West and sailing her to Cuba April 14.

The FBI did not give a reason for the two trips to Cuba nor say whether they were related. Neither the trawler nor the plane was returned to the United States.

Mead, interviewed after returning on the same plane with the five, said Oeth and Healy told their Cuban captors they wanted political asylum.

Mead said Oeth and Healy, who identified themselves to him as James Anderson Eastham and Harold Moore, had asked for a demonstration flight over Miami Beach so they could photograph the hotels and beaches.

Instead, he said, one drew a pistol and forced him to fly them to Cuba. They landed at Campa Libertad Field near Havana and were taken into custody and interrogated, he said. They remained in various prisons until they were released.

They met the other three Americans on the plane returning them to Miami.

The three had been in Cuba since docking the shrimp trawler in Havana harbor where it was seen last.

The trawler's owner, George E.

Spellmeyer, said he heard radio messages from his vessel seeking permission to dock in Havana. He said the vessel was stolen from her moorings before dawn April 14.

The FBI identified the five men further as:

Oeth, native of Illinois and a salesman in Miami.

Healy, songwriter and free lance writer.

Jones, native of Fort Pierce and a merchant seaman.

Thomas, native of Blue Ridge, Ga., and a shrimpman.

Cobb, from Indianapolis and a shrimpman.
