

Senate Probers To Open Estes Case Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee will open on June 27 its hearings into the Billie Sol Estes case for several weeks.

Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., announcing the date today, estimated that 100 witnesses may be called. He said hearings are expected to last "possibly for several weeks."

Estes, the Texas financier who built a financial empire on grain storage, fertilizer sales, cotton growing and other businesses, says he is now bankrupt.

He is under federal indictment for fraud, and state and federal agencies as well as two congressional committees are looking into his activities. A House subcommittee under Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., already has held two days of hearings.

The Senate hearings are expected to be much more extensive, and may last intermittently into the late summer or fall.

McClellan said the first phase opening this month will be based on preliminary investigations by the committee staff "into the activities of Billie Sol Estes, his transactions with the Department of Agriculture, as well as the administrative actions taken by the department in connection therewith."

McClellan also announced that prior to the Estes hearings the committee will hold public hearings into the operations and activities of the American Guild of Variety Artists, also known as AGVA. These hearings will start on Tuesday, June 12, and may take 8 to 10 days to complete.

Bunker Denies Profit Charge In Stockpiling

WASHINGTON (AP)—Industrialist Arthur H. Bunker denied today his Climax Molybdenum Co. reaped a big "windfall" profit through cancellation of its contract to sell molybdenum to the government's defense stockpile.

"On the contrary, the government drove a very hard bargain," Bunker told a special Senate Armed Services subcommittee, whose chairman, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., contends the taxpayers are losing more than $1 billion on various stockpile deals.

Launching today's hearing, Symington declared there can be "few parallels in comparable mismanagement in the history of this government," to match those exposed thus far in his investigation.

Bunker swore he never knew that Dr. James P. Morgan, a consultant employed by Climax, also was a consultant to the government on stockpile matters.

Actually, Bunker added as he read from a prepared statement, Morgan "did not in any way act for or advise the government" in connection with cancellation of the molybdenum contract, which permitted the company to sell its production to private industry at prices higher than it would have received from the government.

Bunker had chosen to testify today in defense of his company's contract, despite a personal tragedy. His daughter, Mrs. Daphne Bunker Rhodes, was strangled in Topeka, Kan., Monday. The subcommittee had offered to defer his appearance, but he declined a postponement.

The General Services Administration accepted a negotiated penalty payment of $1.2 million from Climax Molybdenum Co. as the price for cancelling the contract, instead of $4.5 million it originally had demanded.

The craft had gone to the outer harbor to dump refuse from the icebreaker Atka when, because of a mechanical defect, it took too much water and sank.

De Gaulle Might Have Decided To Spare Gen. Jouhaud's Life

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle hinted today that he might have decided to spare the life of ex-Gen. Edmond Jouhaud in the "higher interests of the nation."

A government spokesman said Jouhaud's appeal for an end to terrorism in Algeria had been discussed at today's cabinet session.

The spokesman quoted De Gaulle as saying that "on this subject as on others," men and events had to be judged from the viewpoint of the nation's higher interest.

He referred to Jouhaud's plea to ex-Gen. Raoul Salan, chief of the Secret Army Organization, to "face facts" and come to terms with Algerian nationalism.

Condemned to death and his legal recourse exhausted, Jouhaud has only the hope of executive clemency between him and execution.

The spokesman's statement appeared to mean that De Gaulle might commute the sentence if he thought this would serve national interest—for example, by helping a peaceful settlement in Algeria.

Jouhaud, in any case, had already some respite from death. Full dawn broke over Fresnes Prison without an announcement.

Police Patrol Rome Ghetto

ROME (AP)—Extra police patrolled Rome's Jewish quarter after two nights of street fighting between Jews and Fascists.

Six civilians and several policemen were hurt in the skirmishes Monday night. Two more youths and five policemen were injured Tuesday night when authorities used tear gas to break up the scuffles.

The fighting broke out as Rome was in the heat of a municipal election campaign prior to voting Sunday.

On Monday night two cars of campaigners of the Italian Social Movement, Italy's postwar Fascist party, drove through the streets of Rome's former ghetto between the ruins of the Roman Forum and the Tiber River. The area still has many Jewish residents.

Both cars were decorated with party symbols. Several pedestrians halted the cars. Fighting with sticks and stones broke out.

Party officials later said the cars had strayed into the narrow twisting streets of the former ghetto by mistake when the drivers lost their way. Leftists claimed the cars had gone into the quarter to provoke trouble.

Paralyzed Woman Dies After 9 Years In Lung

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Mrs. Joel Werfel, who never forgot how to smile even though hopelessly paralyzed, is dead after nine years in an iron lung.

The 35-year-old housewife, mother of a daughter, Deborah, 12, was stricken with polio during an outbreak which swept Montgomery in 1953. She died Monday.

Her courage and cheerfulness in the long and trying years won the admiration of people throughout Alabama. A book she wrote which she called "Please Scratch My Nose," was completed shortly before her death.

U. S. Parents Fail Youth, Says Graham

CHICAGO (UPI)—Evangelist Billy Graham said Tuesday night that schools, parents and churches have failed to give American youth purpose and meaning in life.

Graham, addressing some 31,000 persons in McCormack Place Convention Hall, said the American educational system is "intent in imparting knowledge, but so lax in instilling the power to direct that knowledge toward constructive goals that it is casting our young people adrift on a sea of purposeless life."

"We have worked to develop minds and bodies and have neglected the most important part of the student—the spirit," he said.

"Our colleges have built bone without sinew, generated energy without purpose. We have imparted knowledge without wisdom."

Graham, whose sermon was the seventh of his Greater Chicago Crusade, blamed the adults of today for many of youth's problems.

Speaking to young persons in the audience, Graham said, "I am convinced that my generation has failed you. We have immersed our children in the purposelessness, the meaningless of our own lives."

"We are the affluent parents who have conveyed to them an overemphasis on material possessions."

Graham placed part of the blame for youth's predicaments on the country's churches, which "have been so involved in theological disputes and in improving their statistical showing that they have failed in important tasks, like nurturing in their youth a love and knowledge of the Bible."

Larson's letter said, in part, "President Kennedy made the statement in his May 23 news conference that the AMA was one of the chief opponents of the Social Security system in the '50s."

"This statement is false. The American Medical Association did not oppose enactment of the Social Security system, but what may have been said at some later time is extraneous to the accusation the President made on May 23."

"Furthermore, I want to emphasize that past history of the AMA has nothing to do with the merits of the King-Anderson bill.

"The King-Anderson bill is on trial, not the AMA."

Kennedy in his letter said if the AMA did not oppose Social Security before its enactment—only afterward—he would point out "this unique distinction at my next press conference."

"On the other hand," Kennedy wrote, "if the AMA has never opposed Social Security, some questions may be asked in order to set the record straight."

Nation's Top Spellers Tackle Distichous, Smaragdine

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Such frequently misspelled words as kinmons and misspell served only as warmups today for 70 youngsters in the 35th annual National Spelling Bee.

The bee, sponsored by Scripps-Howard Newspapers in 18 cities and 31 other daily and Sunday newspapers, opened with the youngsters facing such sticklers as distichous and smaragdine.

The latter two are the words which tripped up the competition of John Capehart, Tulsa, Okla., and made him champion of last year's event.

If there is a favorite in the competition, it would have to be 12-year-old Delight Ousley, representing the Knoxville (Tenn.) News-Sentinel. She finished fourth in last year's competition.

Others back for another try are Joyce Conrad, 14, sponsored by the Dallas Morning News; Robert Planisek, 13, Cleveland Press, and Bernice Woll, 12, New York World-Telegram and Sun. They finished 23rd, 39th and 68th, respectively, last year.

The youngsters gathered here, representing 69 cities, are finalists picked from more than five million who competed in local contests all over the United States.

To be eligible, a youngster has to be 15 or under and not beyond the eighth grade in school.

The finalists, 49 girls and 21 boys, are competing for cash prizes totaling $5,700.

The first prize is $1,000 in cash, plus $100 in spending money to be used by the winner and his escort during a weekend sight-seeing trip in New York.

J. EDGAR HOOVER SAYS: "The Key To Life Is God"
"During recent years, major crime has been on the upswing. At the end of the last war, age 17 led all the other groups in arrest for serious crimes. More and more children are being led towards crime as parents throw away responsibility. Selfishness is often the keynote of the day, and materialism the inspiration for living. God, in many instances, is not accepted in the home, and concepts of morality have been relegated to the junk heap. Can a nation exist void of all religious thought and action? Can we have internal peace without morality? Can we build homes without God, or have worthy parents who do not know and practice His teaching? The key to these problems... to life itself... is GOD. He is man's first need... his final goal. Our nation is sadly in need of a rebirth of the simple life... a return to the days when God was a part of each household. When families arose in the morning with a prayer on their lips, and ended the day by gathering together to place themselves in His care. The foundation of our Democracy was built upon a firm faith in Almighty God. Our generation, it seems has allowed old faithful religious practices to slip into oblivion. As a result, family life has been weakened. The nation has suffered and many of its children have become spiritually starved. A Godless home is built upon sand; it is an inviting breeding ground for moral decay and crime. My hope for the future of this nation is predicated upon the faith in God which is nurtured in the family. No outside influence of a constructive nature can overcome the lack of a guiding light in the home, and the spark of this light must be the knowledge of God, the fuel must be the strength of prayer."
