

Jonas Salk Got Overruled On Name For New Institute

By DELOS SMITH
UPI Science Editor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Dr. Jonas E. Salk got overruled. He wanted this new center of science to be called "The Institute for Biological Studies" and it is so called in the preliminary announcements. Instead, its name is going to be, "The Salk Institute for Biological Studies."

It doesn't exist now except as a set of architectural plans, a building site in San Diego, a board of trustees, a director (Dr. Salk), six resident fellows (one of whom is Dr. Salk), and four non-resident fellows. Yet it was dedicated last week and the plan is to "move in" a year hence.

That's the kind of confidence Basil O'Connor has in himself, and his associates have in him. Everything depends upon the public contributing $15 million during the next few weeks to a building fund. No one could believe the confidence is misplaced. He is America's champion fund-raiser.

Millions For Polio
Through the "March of Dimes" he raised the millions which led to the development of Salk's "killed virus" anti-polio vaccine and to the "live virus" vaccine which is promising to replace it in the next few years. With his National Foundation, he is raising the building fund.

Overruling Dr. Salk were O'Connor, Dr. Warren Weaver, who is chairman of the trustees; Gerald Flehl, president of the board; and the business men, lawyers and scientists who are its members.

Their view is that Salk has the breadth, depth, flexibility yet discipline of mind to lead a different kind of scientific assault on the basic secrets of life which biology longs to expose. There must be no question that he is the leader, they held. Salk is self-conscious about a full fledged institute bearing his name but he had to give in.

Science Of Life
Since biology is the science of life, biological studies are going on in every university in the world, in countless laboratories public and private, and are the preoccupations of many scores of thousands of scientists.

But at the Salk Institute a scientific atmosphere will prevail which exists nowhere else. In the words of Weaver, in an organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, it will be "An atmosphere of unparalleled freedom and flexibility. Within which the controls will rest with the scholars-scientists. They will have no worry about personal security because they will be appointed for life with no strings attached. They will be independent of any need to undertake specific projects in order to get grants of tax or charitable funds because they will be endowed. And they won't be burdened by administrative duties nor handicapped by a frozen departmental set-up."

Expects Great Things
Weaver, who is a former president of the association and one of America's best known men of science, expects great things to come from biological studies in the next 50 years. He expects it to conquer diseases of all kinds but "even more significant," he continued, it will advance "man's inner life of the mind and the spirit."

"At last man will begin to understand his own nature, his place in the total universe of living and non-living matter, his essential oneness with the star, the cell and the atom."

Riversdale Grangers Are Guests At Evergreen Grange Hobo Party

By BEVERLY CHRISTIAN

Riversdale Grange members were guests of the Evergreen Grange for a "hobo party" and dance recently. A dinner in hobo style was served preceding the dance. The visiting group was comprised of 31 Riversdale Grangers.

The men of the Riversdale Grange had charge of the program and refreshments to honor the ladies for Mother's Day. The Sweet Adelines quartet sang, Debora Hammill played the accordion, and piano numbers were played by Steve Hammill and Doyle Ann McClain. Special honor was given to the oldest mother, the youngest mother and the mother with the most grandchildren. Receiving these honors were Mrs. Florence Norris, Mrs. Louise Simonsen and Mrs. Clara Scanlon.

On June 1 the quarterly birthday pollack was held at the Grange. During the meeting the first and second degrees were given to Mrs. French Trout and Joseph Sedar. Trailer Rally Attended

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Stark recently attended a trailer rally at Florence. There were 55 trailers in attendance. The Starks and Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Hunnicut of Roseburg were in charge of the dinner for all in attendance on Saturday night. The group also enjoyed the Rhododendron Festival in Florence. Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kruse, Mr. and Mrs. John Burkhardt and Mr. and Mrs. Don Kruse and Jeff, Denny and Karen went to Sherwood over the weekend to visit the Rev. and Mrs. Merton Peterson and daughter, Wendy. While there they attended the graduation ceremony at George Fox College at which time Mrs. Peterson was graduated cum laude. Mrs. Peterson is the former Joanne Kruse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Kruse.

FIND ANCIENT VILLAGE

QUIMPER, France (UPI)—Scientists here claimed recently they have excavated a village covered by the sea 2,500 years before the birth of Christ.

The scientists paid measurements of the radioactivity of wood fragments in the area near here showed that a village stood on the spot some 6,000 years ago.
