Airline Strike Settlement Reached

Pact Protects Jobs Of 600 Engineers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Settlement of the engineers' strike threat against Trans World Airlines was announced today by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg after an all-night bargaining session in his office.

The settlement, a victory for President Kennedy who had termed the threatened shutdown a menace to the national economy, provides for orderly reduction of jet plane crews from four men to three.

That had been the crux of the dispute, with the engineers insisting on terms which would maintain their cockpit job rights.

The TWA agreement is expected to lift the threat of grounding the planes of two other major airlines, Pan American World Airways and Eastern Airlines, which face the same problem of reducing crew numbers.

Goldberg told reporters the pact protects the jobs of the 600 TWA members of the Flight Engineers International Association and assures the continued identity of their union.

Signs that an agreement was near appeared early in the day. The agreement, initiated at 10 a.m. by weary bargainers who have been in almost continuous session since Monday, is subject to ratification by the engineers. But approval is taken for granted by union officers here.

Goldberg described the terms as noninflationary and said that by providing for orderly crew reduction they will produce savings for the airline many times greater than whatever wage and working conditions terms are fixed in negotiations still to come.

The latter issues were disposed of in this fashion:

The parties will negotiate for one week; at the end of that time any issue not resolved will be settled by procedures to be specified by Nathan P. Feinsinger, special mediator in the case; the union and the airline have agreed to accept his recommendations and refrain from striking.

Top Priority Given

The settlement assures the engineers, who must now qualify as pilots, that they will have top priority for assignment as the third man in the cockpit with two pilots.

It also provides assurance, Goldberg said, that the 3,000-man engineers' union will not be swallowed up in the 14,000-man Air Line Pilots Association as bargaining representative for its members.

The spokesman for the engineers, Attorney Asher Schwartz, said the pact assures his organization "greater assurance in their jobs as flight engineers than they have ever had" under any contract.

State Files Kellogg Span Damage Suit

By DICK KERRISH
News-Review Staff Writer

The state of Oregon through its state Highway Commission has filed a $44,269.35 suit for damages against Roy W. Simmons, owner of a logging truck which was driven onto the Kellogg Bridge when a span collapsed on Sept. 22, 1961.

A complaint, filed in Douglas County Circuit Court Wednesday, alleges that as a result of defendant's negligence "the truck and logs collided violently with structural members of the bridge, thereby causing the north span... to collapse and be totally destroyed."

Other Suit Filed

Simmons since the accident has also filed suit. His action was against three officials of the state Highway Commission. This case, also filed in the Douglas County Circuit Court, has not been set for trial. The truck owner's complaint claimed damages of $50,000 and $4,100 on two separate causes of action. Simmons claimed the bridge was in a state of disrepair, causing its collapse.

Simmons' truck and another vehicle dropped to the river bed when the bridge span collapsed. The bridge crosses the Umpqua River on the Elkton-Sutherlin Highway.

The Highway Commission complaint states the bridge is a three-span truss type of steel girder construction. According to the complaint, the truck, driven by Robert C. Farson, was heavily loaded with Douglas fir logs.

Negligence Charged

Plaintiff alleges defendant was negligent in operating his vehicle at an unreasonably high rate of speed, failing to maintain proper control, operating the vehicle on the left half of the highway, driving the vehicle into and against the structural members of the bridge and operating the vehicle on a highway with a load of logs not securely loaded.

Complaint also alleges defendant was transporting a load of approximately 30 logs, exceeding 15 feet in length, without securing the load with at least four evenly spaced binders having a breaking strength of not less than 15,000 pounds.

Plaintiff claims $43,283.12 damages for loss and destruction of the bridge span, after salvage; $856.49 for opening and maintaining a detour and $129.74 as cost of removing truck from the river bed.

Local Welfare Head Named To Study Paperwork Cuts

Jack Summerfield, Douglas County welfare administrator, has been named to a national work simplification group by the federal government.

Appointment was made by Kathryn D. Goodwin, director of the Bureau of Family Services of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Summerfield said today the group is scheduled to meet June 28-29 in Washington, D.C. He noted the meeting was called as a result of a request by Abraham Ribicoff, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary, to study ways in which paperwork in the welfare program could be cut.

Air Show Planning Meet Set Tuesday

Plans for the 1962 Air Show in Roseburg will be initiated at a meeting scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 26, in the Municipal Airport administration building.

Purpose of the meeting is to form a planning committee for the annual air event. Anyone interested in the show is invited.

A group known as Air Recognition Inc. directs the show. Officers are Bruce Carter, Steve Canyon and Holden McTaggart. Bob Dishman is chairman of the board and John Horn secretary.

Other board members are Jack Baker, Joe Sayre and Marvin Walpole.

Deputies Probe Another Local Armed Robbery

A second armed robbery at a private home in less than a week was reported to the Douglas County Sheriff's Department Wednesday night.

The robbery took place about 11:30 p.m. at the home of Maud Hamilton, 1228 NW Willow St., while her husband, Thomas Hamilton, was working a night shift at the Veterans Hospital.

She told investigating sheriff's deputies she was alone and had been counting out money to pay her household bills today, when she heard a knock at the front door.

Gun Faced

She opened the door to see a youth with a piece of cloth over his face pointing a small pistol at her. He demanded her money.

Mrs. Hamilton had put the billfold in her dress pocket, so she handed it to the youth. He took the bills out of it and tossed the billfold into the room. Then he told her not to call police as the place was being watched. She waited for a while after he was gone then called officers.

The robbery was very similar to the one which took place Saturday about 10:30 p.m. at the Elbert R. Harvey home at 508 W. Chatham Dr. within the city limits. City police are working on that case, and the city and county officers are cooperating in their investigation.

Description of the youth given, as to size, general appearance and his actions were similar.

Car Stolen

The theft and recovery of a car occurred Wednesday night also, but this was not connected with the robbery.

A call came from Bill Austin at 2635 SW Austin Rd. that someone was "snapping around" where the Austin's barn was burned Wednesday of last week. A deputy came to the scene, but whoever was there ran into the bushes and could not be located.

However, a car located nearby was identified as one missing from 1937 SW Linnell St. It had been loaned by Hansen Used Car Lot. The call came in just before 11:30.

Police Department Seeks Replacements

The Roseburg Police Department is looking for a new meter maid. It is also seeking replacements for two city policemen who have moved to higher paying jobs with the Douglas County Sheriff's Department.

Mary Compton, the first meter maid hired by the city, has resigned, reports Chief of Police John H. Truett. She has been on the police force four years, but is moving to Springfield.

The chief said he is taking applications to fill the position. The applicant must be between the ages of 25 and 40 years of age. She must be able to type and have had some office experience, as the meter maids assist in the office during vacation periods or other absences in order to keep the police force at full strength.

Two meter maids work outside checking meters, one works in the office as a dispatcher and one as the court clerk, making four in all.

Chief Truett also announced the resignation of Ernie Wentworth, patrolman since 1937 and Robert Hastings, on the force about a year. They have accepted positions as sheriff's deputies.

Vacancies are filled where possible from the police reserves, and applications are now being taken to build up the reserve force. If no one is available for full-time duty from the reserves, outside applicants are sought.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Sets Monday Visit To Riddle

The visit of the mobile X-ray unit for chest X-rays is scheduled Monday at Veeder's Shopping Center from 2 to 7 p.m. The visit had originally been scheduled last Monday but it was rescheduled because of mechanical trouble in the vehicle, reports chairman Mrs. Frank O'Banion.

Kennedy Shindig Winds Up In Social Swim — Literally

WASHINGTON (AP)—"In the social swim" usually describes someone who's making a splash on the champagne and caviar circuit.

It means something more at the Robert F. Kennedy's now. It means making a splash in the Kennedy swimming pool—sort of a formal splash in evening clothes, dancing shoes and the rest.

It happened the other night at an outside dinner-dance for about 300 given by the attorney general and his wife at their Virginia estate. And the hostess was the first to get a dunking.

Betty Beale, columnist for the Washington Evening Star, said it happened this way:

At the party—for actor Peter Lawford and his wife, a Kennedy sister—the dance floor extended from a back fence right to the edge of the swimming pool.

One small table was perched on a plank that stretched across the pool with the three chairs around it only inches from the edge.

Mrs. Kennedy occupied one chair, astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. was in the second and the third was for Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White who apparently judged the position was untenable and took a stand on firmer ground.

It was bound to happen and it did. Mrs. Kennedy tumbled in and was drenched but Glenn remained dry, just as he did when his space capsule plunged into the ocean after his three orbits around the earth.

Before the evening's end two other guests somehow also ended up taking a dip fully clothed—Mrs. Spencer Davis, a friend of Mrs. Kennedy, and presidential assistant Arthur Schlesinger.

Plucky Clifford Altman, 7; Emerges From Brush After Three Nights On Mountain

PORTLAND (UPI)—"I wasn't scared." Plucky Clifford Altman, 7, spoke those words to his joyful parents Wednesday night after he was found alive—and well—southeast of Mt. Hood.

He had spent three nights alone in the mountainous terrain. Hope had about been given up. Organized search was called off earlier in the day. It had gone on since last Sunday afternoon when Clifford "decided to go for a hike" and left his grandparents at Bear Paw campground.

Then, shortly before 8 p.m., daylight time, Wednesday, loggers Richard Larsen and Leo Peters of Portland saw the boy emerge from the brush beside a road, 4 1/2 miles northeast of the campground from which he disappeared.

Tearful Reunion

They took him to the campground where his mother, Mrs. Kenneth Altman, and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Grant, were waiting. The father was at Government Camp—telephoning for more volunteers.

"It was a tearful reunion," State Policeman Jim Hanson said. Ironically, Clifford was found in the opposite direction from which most of the search was conducted. Bloodhounds had repeatedly led searchers to the Clear Lake road. The lake was dragged Wednesday.

It turned out that a pair of shorts found in the area did not belong to the boy and footprints on various roads were not his.

"What's all the excitement about?" Clifford said shortly after he was returned to the campground.

"I just started to take a little hike," he said. "Then I decided to walk a little farther."

Sleeps By Logs

"I slept by logs." He said he drank a lot of water "but sometimes it was kind of hard because it leaked through my hands."

He said he heard a helicopter Monday, but saw no plane.

The blue-eyed first grader suffered numerous scratches on his hands and face from brush.

The family physician, Dr. George Nash, said "he's in remarkably good condition, mostly just tired. The reason he's in such good condition is that he got adequate sleep and drank lots of good mountain water."

Some 500 persons took part in the search. But after all pertinent leads reached a dead end, most searchers left. His parents and grandparents remained behind.

"We never lost hope," his mother said.

The parents brought him home to Portland and he slept in a bed for the first time in four nights.

LOST BOY FOUND — Clifford Altman, 7-years-old, rests in Portland Wednesday night after being found earlier in the evening. He had been lost in the Mt. Hood area since Sunday. Two loggers discovered him and took him to Bear Paw campground where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Altman, remained after the search had been called off at noon Wednesday. The boy had wandered away from the campground after an outing with his grandparents. (UPI Telephoto).

Wassom Making Good Recovery

Jim Wassom, the 16-year-old baseball player from Roseburg who was critically injured when struck in the head by a pitched ball, is making excellent progress.

That is the word from Sacred Heart Hospital, Eugene, where Wassom is being treated. According to his mother, Mrs. Carl Wassom, he can be listed as "fair" now.

Since he entered the hospital June 9 and had brain surgery to remove three clots, he has been listed as critical. Wednesday Mrs. Wassom was told he could be considered off the critical list.

Wednesday morning he was allowed to sit in a chair for two hours. The bandage has been taken off his head and tracheotomy tube has been taken from his throat.

Mrs. Wassom said therapy has been started on his right hand and arm.

"He will need lots of therapy on his speech but he has spoken a few words very slowly," she said. "Once it was 'I want' then he finished it on paper and it was 'Coke'."

Wassom was injured while he was playing for the Lockwood Motors Legion juniors against the Myrtle Point Legion juniors.

Rusk Fails To Win French Approval On Nuclear Policy

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk arranged a final conference with French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville today before taking off on a morale-boosting visit to West Berlin.

Having failed to bring French and American nuclear policies in line, Rusk and Couve de Murville decided to devote their last session to economic cooperation and aid to underdeveloped countries.

Rusk was able to set aside only 2 1/2 hours from his busy schedule for the Berlin visit. Originally it was not on the itinerary but was injected later as a demonstration of continued full U.S. support for West Berliners in the face of Communist harassment.

Rusk will fly to Bonn this evening for meetings with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder.

Rusk wound up his Paris talks without making a dent in President Charles de Gaulle's determination to build up an independent French nuclear striking force.

Rusk made it clear that although the United States must recognize French nuclear armament as a fact, it still objects to the "proliferation" of nuclear striking forces in the world.

Rusk and French officials cleared up some misunderstandings about each other's intentions but there was not even a hint that either side sympathized with the other's point of view.

At one point Rusk asked whether France would cooperate with the United States in nuclear strategic planning once the French nuclear force had been established.

Couve de Murville, according to French sources, replied that he

Ex-President's Kin Missing On Climb

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A grandson of President Woodrow Wilson and three other amateur mountaineers are missing on an attempt to scale an un conquered Himalayan peak.

Prof. Woodrow Wilson Sayre, 43, two other Americans and a Swiss left their base camp in eastern Nepal May 2 for the final climb to the 25,910-foot summit of unconquered Mt. Gyaichung Kang. Nothing has been heard from them since.

Sayre, an assistant professor of philosophy at Tufts University in Medford, Mass., teamed for the expedition with Norman Hansen, 36, a Boston lawyer who had climbed Alaska's Mt. McKinley with him in 1954; Roger Alan Hart, 21, a Tufts student, and Hans Peter Duttle a Swiss school-teacher.

Before the four set out from Katmandu in March, Sayre told newsmen they planned a leisurely ascent with no fixed route or schedule.

Mountaineering experts in Katmandu doubted, however, that even a leisurely climb would completely black out news of them for several weeks.

Gyaichung Kang lies about 14 miles northwest of 29,028-foot Mt. Everest, the world's highest mountain. Like Everest, Gyaichung Kang is bisected by the Nepal-Tibet border, Nepal controlling the southern slope and Red China the northern one.

X-15 Sets New Altitude Mark

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The X-15 rocketed more than 47 miles into space today, achieving its designed altitude maximum and setting a new altitude mark in the process.

Air Force Maj. Robert M. White, holder of the X-15 speed record of 4,093 miles an hour, was at the controls.

His altitude was given as 250,000 feet—precisely what he aimed for. His speed was approximately 3,822 m.p.h.

The little research plane's designed maximum is 250,000 feet. On a similar mission by space agency pilot Joe Walker last April the X-15 fell a little short, hitting only 246,700 feet. In future flights, which the engine burning longer, it is expected to soar beyond 300,000.

At the peak of his flight, White radioed: "Boy, what a view. Just tremendous." He was able to see for hundreds of miles.

Today's performance was to demonstrate that the manufacturer, North American Aviation, could meet the plane's altitude specifications.

Shot to at least 250,000 feet with an 80-second blast of the ship's 57,000-pound-thrust engine; coast weightless in the thin air at the edge of space while a super-sensitive "adaptive control system" took over; plunge pancake style with nose 20 degrees higher than tail back into the earth's thicker atmosphere, then swoop down for a 200 m.p.h. landing on the flinty mud of Rogers Dry Lake.

Actress Gets Czech Permit After Merry Moscow Mixup

MOSCOW (UPI)—Actress Shirley MacLaine today was issued a visa to attend a film festival in Czechoslovakia. She denied reports that there had been difficulties in her travel plans.

"Somebody's making this up," she said when she heard the reports that she had had trouble getting the visa.

"It's not true. There's been no delay in the visa. In fact, I got it this morning without even submitting the required passport pictures. Everybody's been very nice."

MacLaine said she would fly to Prague Friday and then go to the Carlsbad Film Festival, to which she has been invited.

The reports of her visa trouble followed an earlier report that she had threatened to dance the can-can in Kremlin Square, and that her luggage was stolen.

She denied both these reports, too.

"I am furious, I am furious," she said of the reports. "That quotation is terrible. I have never danced the can-can naked. 'Witz' doesn't mean 'to dance' in Kremlin Square."

She told newsmen that a pocketbook containing plane tickets, film, some private papers, and a ring belonging to her secret agent, Loretta Lee, was missing from the Leningrad hotel she stayed in. She refused to say it had been

Canyonville Loses 2 City Councilmen

The Canyonville City Council will have two vacancies when Councilman William Brown moves to Roseburg.

Brown told the council this week that he will be making the move. During the same session, Robert Hinkle, another councilman, presented his resignation. He told the council he will be gone this summer and unable to attend meetings.

The council accepted Hinkle's resignation, according to Beth Chappell, special correspondent. Appointees to fill the vacancies until November will be named at the next council meeting.

The council also canvassed the June 18 vote on the city budget which exceeded the 6 per cent limitation by $7,895. Counted were 42 yes votes and 25 no votes. The council then voted to exceed the vote by that amount. Total budget was $5,222.

In other action the council: signed an agreement with Walpole and Hanberg, Roseburg, to audit the city books for $450.

Approved a library book drop at the library. Stony Pritchett, city maintenance man is to build it.

Approved a business license for J. A. Mittendorf for tire resales and a business license for George Shirr's, a new downtown store.

Four Bodies Found In Wrecked Plane

HELENA, Mont. (UPI)—The bodies of four Washington persons were found in the wreckage of a light plane on Scapegot Mountain 65 air miles northwest of here Wednesday evening.

Lewis and Clark County Sheriff Coroner Dave Middlemas, who went to the scene in a Fish and Game Department helicopter, said the bodies were all inside the Cessna 175 and easily identifiable.

The plane crashed on the mountain sometime Friday afternoon and had been the object of an extensive search since Monday morning. It was piloted by L. V. Richards of Outlook, Wash. Also in the plane were Richards' wife, and their son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. Robert Smith of Sunnyside.

Middlemas said he would join a crew from Malmstrom Air Force Base today and fly to the scene to recover the bodies.

Malmstrom officials are providing a large helicopter for the mission, he said.

Mobile X-Ray Unit Sets Monday Visit To Riddle

The visit of the mobile X-ray unit for chest X-rays is scheduled Monday at Veeder's Shopping Center from 2 to 7 p.m. The visit had originally been scheduled last Monday but it was rescheduled because of mechanical trouble in the vehicle, reports chairman Mrs. Frank O'Banion.

Lois Leader Arrives

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—One of the chief aides of Prince Souphanouvong, the pro-Communist Pathet Lao leader, arrived today to help remove roadblocks barring installation of a coalition government.
