ALGIERS (AP) — Five explosions roared out in Oran today. Smoke billowed up as fire followed the blasts, apparently set by die-hard Secret Army Organization terrorists.

Crafts, Carver Address Iwla

PORTLAND (UPI)—The Izaak Walton League of America Thursday heard a broad outline of the plans of the new Bureau of Outdoor Recreation plus a program to reclaim western rangeland by using river control techniques.

The speakers were Recreation Bureau Director Edward C. Crafts and John A. Carver Jr., assistant interior secretary.

Crafts said his bureau intends to stay small and non-bureaucratic. It will work to further recreational aims of national parks, forests, wildlife refuges, game ranges and federal reservoirs.

He said it would tend to stress recreational development on the east and west coasts "where our population concentrations occur."

Crafts said there needs to be more public understanding of recreation and its need for "non-polluted" leadership.

Carver told a dinner meeting that the condition of public grazing lands in the West is "deplorable" but that they can be reclaimed by "borrowing the techniques used in controlling the great river systems."

Some of these techniques, Carver said, are: Handling range problems on a project-by-project basis as are hydro electric projects; collecting in one study data presently "scattered" through many federal agencies; and intensifying local participation.

Discussing the need for conservation treatment of rangeland, Carver said "we need $850-million to do work for which we budgeted $16 million in 1963."

Hospital Staffers Terminate Service

Two staff members have terminated their services with the U.S. Veterans Administration Hospital in Roseburg.

Paul Metzger, a counseling psychologist at the hospital for several years, has left the VA hospital service to enter a private clinic in Portland.

Metzger was one of the first personnel members to join the hospital as a trainee and later become a staff member.

It was also reported that Dr. Eleanor Keulin, hospital psychiatrist, will terminate her service next week. She plans to follow mental health work in a private practice elsewhere in the state.

Reorganization Group Sets Final Meeting

The Douglas County School District Reorganization Committee, will meet for the last time at a dinner session tonight in Ruth Bradley's Oak Tree Inn.

The committee's activities end June 30 by state law when the Rural School Board assumes its functions.

Dennis Patch, director of school reorganization of the Oregon State Department of Education, Salem, and his wife will attend the dinner.

10-minute intervals. One wrecked a travel agency office. Another heavily damaged a low-rent housing office near police headquarters, injuring a 17-year-old European youth.

Terrorists also hurled a score of hand grenades into a largely Moslem housing area. No injuries were reported there.

The Secret Army Organization command in western Algeria reiterated its refusal to recognize the cease-fire agreement, but declared in a pirate radio broadcast Thursday from Oran that some other kind of dealings were in the works. It did not elaborate. The Oran command has been demanding the establishment of autonomous European enclaves in western Algeria.

Life in Algiers was returning rapidly to normal, but the secret army command here also spoke of fighting again—this time with French gendarmes.

A clandestine broadcast accused the French police of violating the agreement by continuing operations against Algerian Europeans and against Moslems.

Flocks of Moslems took advantage of the uneasy truce in Algiers to return to their jobs in European sections for the first time. There was a nearly 100 per cent work in vital city services.

Moscow Setting Stage For Big Propaganda Drive

LONDON (UPI) — Moscow is setting the stage for a worldwide propaganda offensive, to be launched from the so-called peace congress, opening in the Soviet capital July 9.

Described as "The World Congress For General Disarmament and Peace" the mass meeting is to bring together thousands of sympathizers from all continents.

Moscow Radio broadcasts and the Soviet press have stepped up publicity for the gathering in the past few days.

The Congress is organized by the World Peace Council, generally considered a Communist front organization.

The advance build-up suggests the Kremlin intends to use the gathering as a platform for a mighty propaganda campaign in support of Soviet disarmament strategy that would put the blame for the recent failure of the Geneva arms-cut negotiations on the United States.

Spotlighted Rumpus The controversial character of the Moscow congress has been spotlighted by a major rumpus in the British Labor party which has threatened to expel some of its prominent members for association with the Moscow rally.

Those affected include Bertrand Russell, of anti-nuclear fame. Resolutions were understood already in preparation in Moscow denouncing the "forces who are economically and politically interested in the arms race" — implying western reluctance to disarm.

This line fits in with Premier Nikita Khrushchev's personal charges that American foot-dragging on disarmament is largely responsible for the food price increase in Russia.

Khrushchev has renewed his charges in a speech during his current visit to Romania. He is in fact now blaming the United States for Russia's general economic troubles.

May Reveal Relationship The Moscow congress may however produce some unscheduled results. It may reveal incidentally the present status of the Sino-Soviet relationship.

It was at a similar "peace congress" in Stockholm last year that the Communist Chinese launched an unexpected attack on their Soviet allies. Bitter exchanges spotlighted the sharp antagonism over ideological differences between Moscow and Peking.

Visiting Banker Attends Talent Jaycee Meeting Harold Glover, Roseburg's Junior Chamber of Commerce "boss of the year," Tuesday night flew Norwegian exchange banker, Nils Sliper, local Jaycee President Glen Yates and State Director Bob Stevens to Medford to attend a Junior Chamber meeting at Talent.

Representatives from Medford service clubs met the group at the airport and were present to hear Sliper's talk. He presently is employed at the First National Bank in Roseburg and is staying at the Glover home during part of his visit here. He is sponsored by the Oregon Jaycees and Oregon Bankers Association.

Glover flew "Bud" Good's Cessna 172 to Medford. This was the first time Sliper had been in a small aircraft and the only time he had flown at night.

Theodore A. Beuttner Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Long and Shukle Memorial Chapel for Theodore A. Beuttner, Winston, who died Wednesday at a Roseburg hospital.

Kennedy Faces Decision Soon On Island Of Quemoy, Matsu

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy appeared today to be facing the necessity soon to define more clearly his policy toward the Chinese Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

That was the view in diplomatic quarters following the White House statement of "concern" over a large-scale buildup of Chinese Communist military forces along a 150-mile strip of the Fukien Province coastline opposite Quemoy and Matsu.

The two islands are within five miles of the mainland. The Nationalist stronghold of Generalissimo Kai-shek is more than 100 miles farther east of Formosa.

Administration officials reported at least three new Chinese Communist divisions have moved into the coastal area. They speculated that the Peking regime might be preparing for an assault on Quemoy and Matsu.

Strategically Worthless Kennedy said during the 1960 presidential campaign that such an assault would face the new administration with a "key decision." He described Quemoy and Matsu as "indefensible" and strategically worthless and said he intended to see that "not a single American dies on those islands."

At the same time, however, he adopted President Eisenhower's position that he would favor fighting for the islands if a Communist attack on them was part of an assault on Formosa and the Pescadores, which the United States is committed to defend.

The United States was reported to have been seeking a renewal of Chiang Kai-shek's earlier commitment that he would not attempt to attack the Red mainland without the approval of the United States.

First Considered Defensive Administration officials at first assessed the new Red buildup as a defensive maneuver stemming from fears that China would attempt an invasion at this time of near famine and unrest on the mainland.

However, when more information came in on the disposition of the forces and it was learned that the Reds also had sent about 300 planes into Fukien, Washington began to consider the possibility that the buildup was for offensive rather than defensive purposes.

It was virtually certain that Kennedy at his next news conference—possibly next week—would be asked for clarification of his policy on Quemoy and Matsu.

The administration, which went to some length to publicize the Communist buildup, thus finds itself in the position of having made it certain the President will have to deal with the issue.

Testing for a hearing loss among first grade children is a well-established practice in Oregon. The idea is that any child who cannot hear well cannot do his best in school. Therefore, efforts are made to get children with partial or complete deafness under the care of a physician, where possible corrective measures may be employed.

It has been determined that when severe irreversible hearing loss exists, detection at an early age allows most effective rehabilitation measures. Severe hearing loss in young children frequently results in speech defects. Emotional problems frequently follow.

When a child learns to talk, if he cannot hear well, naturally he cannot learn how to speak correctly. Fitting such a child with a hearing aid at an early age frequently can prevent the development of such speech defects.

Techniques Developed Pre-school testing of hearing has been conducted experimentally by the state Board of Health for the last year or so. They have developed techniques for testing children as young as two years. This program is now being expanded to offer this service on a limited basis in various parts of Oregon.

The Douglas County Health Department is cooperating with the State Board of Health in setting up the program in Douglas County. This clinic is primarily for younger children. It is not designed for children who will be entering kindergarten or first grade this year. These youngsters will be tested after they enter school. Any defect in hearing will be referred for examination by the child's personal physician. For more serious defects, appropriate referral may be made subsequently.

The program is not designed only for children suspected of having a hearing loss. Any child in the age bracket of 2 to 5 is eligible. The examination is conducted without charge.

Clinics Stated Clinics in Douglas County are scheduled as follows: Monday, July 9 — 1 to 4 p.m.; Drain Methodist Church.

Tuesday, July 10 — 10 to 12 a.m.; Sutherland West Side School; phone Sutherland 3688 for appointment.

Tuesday, July 10 — 1:30 to 4 p.m.; Roseburg; Fir Grove School.

Wednesday, July 11 — 10 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 4 p.m.; Roseburg; Fir Grove School.

Wednesday, July 11 — 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.; Reedsport; Pioneer School.

Thursday, July 12 — 9 a.m. to 12 noon; Dillard Elementary School.

Thursday, July 12 — 1:30 to 4 p.m.; Tri-City Elementary School. Appointments will be accepted at the Health Department, but are not necessary.

Ike Set To Hit Kennedy Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower visits Washington today for a series of political conferences and a speech labeled as a "hard-hitting attack on New Frontier domestic policy."

Eisenhower planned to address about 3,000 Republicans tonight at a $100 a plate GOP fund-raising dinner, former Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, chairman of the dinner, said the event was a sellout.

The net proceeds from the dinner will be divided with 75 per cent going to the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee and the remaining 25 per cent to the Republican Senatorial Committee.

The former chief executive and his wife were scheduled to arrive in Washington this afternoon from their Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

A highlight of Mrs. Eisenhower's agenda was a return to the White House for tea with Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Eisenhower planned to talk about the proposed National Cultural Center, of which both are honorary chairmen.

Eisenhower was expected to spend the afternoon conferring with GOP officials.

Tonight's dinner program had a lighter as well as a serious side. Actor George L. Murphy planned a program that featured singer Vivienne Della Chiesa, a 32-voice choir called the Justin Lawrie Singers, and two orchestras under the direction of Eddie Pierce.

Injured was Lowell Lambert of Dallas, according to investigating sheriff's deputies. He was headed west and apparently failed to negotiate a curve, officers reported.

The accident occurred about one-fourth mile west of the Rock Creek Rd., near Mc's Place. The car was reported as probably a total loss. Mohr's ambulance and wrecker were called.

As of June 10, 225 children were removed from the aid to dependent children rolls on Douglas County, according to Jack Summerfield, welfare administrator.

He said the removal was done with the expectation that these children, ages 14 through 18, will meet their own needs with summer work.

Summerfield said much seasonal work as harvest work in the Willamette Valley and some harvest work in this county, is available.

The children removed from the rolls will not be returned to the grants until Sept. 1.
