Expansion Of Two Schools Gets State Education Board Approval

ASHLAND (UPI) — General plans for expansion of the University of Oregon and Portland State College were approved here Monday by the State Board of Higher Education's building committee.

Soviet Union Sets Test Of 'Weapons'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union will test "various types of modern weapons" in military exercises between Aug. 5 and Oct. 20 in remote regions of the Barents and Kara seas, the defense ministry announced Monday night.

The statement did not mention whether the U.S.S.R. would test any nuclear weapons, but it followed closely Russia's announcement it had decided to resume atomic testing.

education at state schools in the 1963-65 biennium.

The building committee approved a 42-acre enlargement of the University of Oregon campus at Eugene, extending the boundaries to Villard St. on the east and 18th St. on the south. The eastern portion will be used primarily for dormitories.

Debbie Loses Unborn Child

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) — Actress Debbie Reynolds, 30, suffered a miscarriage today at St. Joseph's Hospital and lost the baby that was to be born to her and her husband, Harry Karl, early in September, hospital attendants reported.

The school will offer in the future. The committee also approved preliminary schemes for a number of other buildings, including a physical education building and a physical plant at Oregon Technical Institute; an oceanography building, pharmacy school addition, a meats laboratory and a radiation center at Oregon State University; a physical education building addition and a combined classroom-laboratory-office building at Southern Oregon College; a student health building and a library addition at Oregon College of Education, and an addition to the General Extension Division building in Portland.

The request for money to raise the quality of instruction is in addition to previously approved requests for $90 million to operate the schools at their present levels and $45 million for campus construction.

The additional money would be used to develop programs for outstanding students, strengthen graduate study and research opportunities, and acquire advanced teaching supplies and equipment.

The finance committee, meeting later in the day, authorized fee increases of $1 to $2 a day for hospital care at the University of Oregon Medical School. Effective Aug. 1, the charges will be $41 instead of $39 per day for the first four days and $23 instead of $22 after the 16th day.

Socialized Medicine Gets First Hold In North America

SASKATOON, Sask. (UPI) — Socialized medicine held its first beachhead in North America today as a result of a compromise agreement between Saskatchewan's government and the province's striking doctors.

The agreement removed many of the physicians' objections to the compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan, but nonetheless left the law on the books.

Announcement of the agreement Monday also signaled the end of a 23-day walkout by doctors which had reduced medical services to Saskatchewan's one million residents to token emergency service.

The College of Physicians and Surgeons, the medical profession's organization which had spearheaded opposition to medicare, called on the doctors to return to normal practice.

Dr. Sam Landa, co-ordinator of the doctor-sponsored emergency services during the strike, said it probably would be at least a few days before everything was back to normal.

Of principal concern to the doctors was winning freedom to practice outside the socialized medicare law if they so choose.

It means the doctor can elect to receive payment by fee from the patient instead of the Medical Care Insurance Commission. The patient would be reimbursed by the government.

Announcement of the agreement followed five days of intensive negotiations by British labor peer Lord Taylor, who played the major role in bringing the doctors and the socialist government together.

Premier Woodrow S. Lloyd signed for the government and Dr. H. D. Dalgleish, head of the college, signed for the doctors.

Among Lloyd's major concessions was a provision to allow private health insurance organizations to participate in the plan. This would allow members of private health insurance groups to pay premiums directly to them instead of to the government.

Lloyd will call the provincial legislature into session to amend the medical care act to conform to the agreement reached with the doctors.

Columbia Swimmer Due In Portland

PORTLAND (UPI) — Marathon swimmer Spencer Campbell was to be the guest of honor at ceremonies here today, after swimming about three miles down the Columbia River.

Campbell, 24, is swimming the 557 miles from his home at Orofino, Idaho, to Astoria. He covered more than 20 miles down the Columbia Monday before halting for the night about three miles upstream from the river-side restaurant where his well-wishers awaited him.

He spent the night in a private yacht on the Columbia, and said he won't set out on the final leg of his trip until Wednesday. Campbell, a former Navy frogman, started Monday's swim near Multnomah Falls and said he found the going a little harder than it had been earlier.

Doctors Propose Abortion For Woman Who Took Drug

PHOENIX (UPI) — A panel of doctors recommended that a Phoenix woman undergo an abortion in the next few days to prevent birth of a child they fear would be deformed because of drugs taken by the woman.

The doctors entered their recommendation Monday after studying the case.

The woman took a tranquilizer containing thalidomide, obtained by her husband on a trip to Europe. The substance once was widely distributed in Europe until medical tests showed it often caused deformed infants when taken during the first few weeks of pregnancy.

A UPI dispatch drew the woman's attention to the potential danger, and she told her physician she had taken the drug. He checked with European medical authorities, and it was determined that the tranquilizer definitely contained the dangerous synthetic substance.

The Arizona Medical Association named the anonymous panel which recommended terminating the pregnancy. Abortion is a felony in Arizona, but the law allows physicians leeway where the mother's physical or mental health may be endangered.

Doctors here agreed there was a strong likelihood the child would be born with deformed limbs or with arms or legs missing.

The woman said she was glad her case, believed to be the first of its kind in the United States, was being publicized.

"Perhaps others who may not have read that story and who have some of those European tranquilizers available will throw the drugs away," she said.

Asbestos-Clad Sailor Dies In Crash Rescue Attempt

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (UPI) — An asbestos-clad young sailor died in an attempt to rescue six crew members of a Navy P2V patrol plane who were killed when their twin-engine amphibious craft crashed and burned in a swamp near here Monday.

The sailor, whose identity was withheld pending notification of his relatives, was set down near the crash scene by helicopter.

A Navy spokesman said an autopsy would be conducted to determine whether the rescue crewman who died in the dense underbrush was a victim of heat, smoke or other causes.

The plane crashed about three miles from a Glynn Naval Air Station runway. No cause of the crash could be determined immediately.

The crash started a brush fire in an almost inaccessible swamp area. The plane was based at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station, which announced the identities of five victims, all from the Jacksonville, Fla., area. The sixth name was withheld pending notification of next of kin.
