

AMONG OREGON'S BEST — The 1962 version of the Knights of Pythias Girls Drum and Bugle Corps will be featured during halftime ceremonies at the Shrine All-Star game in Portland next Saturday. The two were selected from a lineup of 45 units which will take part in the pageantry.

Special Naval Group Slated For Enlistment

A special group of Douglas County youths will be enlisted in the Navy this month, Chief Bill Triska, Roseburg recruiter, has announced.

The group, consisting mostly of high school graduates of the county, will leave Roseburg Aug. 27. A few non-graduates may be enlisted if they have high enough scores on the Navy qualification test, Triska said.

The group will depart Roseburg together and have leave together when it completes recruit training.

Triska said school guarantees are available to the high school graduates. Information concerning the group is available at the Court-house or the Navy recruiting exhibit which will be at the Myrtle Creek Fall Festival Friday and Saturday. Canyonville Girl At Humboldt State

Sixty outstanding high school juniors were today announced as participants in the fourth Summer Science Camp for High School Juniors to be held at the HSC campus during the month of August.

The list of selectees included Canyonville, Ore.

The students selected represent the top academic level of their respective classes who have shown a special interest in and aptitude for career in some field of scientific endeavor and come highly recommended by their high school science teachers and counselors. The program is made possible by a grant from the National Science Foundation Special Projects in Science Education Branch and is directed by Dr. John Butler of the HSC science faculty.

While about half of the participants represent high schools in Northern California, students from as far away as Michigan, Tennessee and Ohio have been enrolled, as have two from Nevada, four from Oregon and representatives from Wisconsin, Arizona and Washington. Students will pay a portion of their living expenses and travel costs—all other expenses are furnished from the National Science Foundation grant.

4-H Health Program Building Fit Citizens

There were not always four "H's" in the 4-H Club clover emblem. Around 1909 a three-leaf clover overlaid with three H's was designed and made into pins. These were awarded to prize-winning corn club members, forerunners of the 4-H movement. The original H's stood for head, heart and hands. They still do.

Then in 1911 at a meeting of club leaders in Washington, D.C., a pioneer of boys and girls club work, O. B. Martin, recommended a fourth H be added. This represented "health," and thus the purpose of the clubs became four-fold.

A half century later, the health H continues to fulfill the expectations of those farsighted Americans who pioneered the now world-wide youth organization.

Next November, six 1962 national 4-H Health program award winners will be selected by the Cooperative Extension Service. Each will receive an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress plus a $400 college scholarship.

They will be among 48 state health award winners attending the congress on a free trip given by Eli Lilly and Co., sponsor of the 4-H Health program.

It is a fact that all 2.3 million 4-H Club members pledge their "health to better living." But more specifically, well over three-quarter million members are engaged in the national 4-H Health program, according to the Cooperative Extension Service.

Since the program was first introduced in 1955, some 40,000 extension agents and volunteer clothing leaders have been trained. They in turn have instructed junior 4-H members.

Singer provides literature, sewing materials and experienced instructors to augment extension personnel who supervise the training program.

Contributions Made

Besides sponsoring the sewing machine training program, the firm makes another noteworthy contribution to 4-H.

During the National 4-H Club Congress held in Chicago, Singer presents a "pop" concert, played by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Arthur Fiedler, for the entire delegation of some 2,000 boys and girls and adults.

The concert this year will take place on Monday night, Nov. 26 in Orchestra Hall. Two young 4-H soloists will be featured.

'Make It With Wool' Contest Entry Forms Now Available

Girls, 13 through 21, who'd make their summer vacations "count" should get out their sewing machines, study the style forecasts, and begin that all-important entry for the 1962 "Make It Yourself With Wool" home sewing contest, reports Mrs. Charles McCord of Dillard, district contest chairman. Entry forms are now available from Mrs. McCord (call OS 9-5318).

Mrs. H. W. Wait, Rieckreal, state chairman, or from the Home Sewing Department, American Wool Council, 520 Railway Exchange Building, Denver, 2, Colo.
