It described Toranzo's action as an "isolated event". However, authoritative sources said "doubtful" army commanders were being relieved of their commands in Patagonia and Buenos Aires as a result of his revolt.

Other sources said a "wide-spread" shakeup in top army commands was being quickly carried out as a result of Toranzo's action in an effort to nip the rebellion.

Shannon Served In Korean War As Cameraman

Eugene L. Shannon, 34, Salem being sought by authorities last Friday morning is a former Army man, having spent several years in the service.

Born in Wyoming, he served during the Korean war as a front-line press photographer and saw considerable action. He was said to have suffered a head injury and had a silver plate in his skull, and while he had had a brief period of amnesia, there had been no recurrence since, according to his family.

Shannon came to Roseburg in 1957, not long after his military discharge. A former wife and son, now in Sacramento, Calif., lived with him for a time here.

He started work with Radio Station KYES in April of 1957, and had a morning program in which he was known as Hap O'Day, when the station was using a "Happy Go Lucky" slogan. He was employed by the station for several months.

About four years ago, he was married to the former Beatrice Lucille Koehler. She died last Dec. 24, after surgery performed for burns she suffered about six weeks earlier when her clothing caught fire from a car exhaust backfire. He had adopted her daughter, Debra Mae, 5, by previous marriage, and they had two children of their own, Timothy Patrick, 3, and Bryan Paul, 16 months.

Shannon left Roseburg to take a radio position with Radio KFLY in Corvallis, then he and his family went to California in May a year ago, where he worked at a lodge east of Red Bluff. He had said he wanted to get out of radio work because of the nervous tension.

The family returned here last November. He took a position with the agriculture department, traveling most of the time, doing photography work.

He was due in Roseburg to visit his children.

Two Plead Innocent To Dynamite Count

Two Roseburg area men, charged with vagrancy for throwing and exploding dynamite from a bridge at Dillard, pleaded innocent to the day before District Judge Gerald R. Hayes.

Both men requested trials without jury. Judge Hayes continued the cases for trial on Aug. 17 at 1:30 p.m. The defendants are free on $100 bail bond.

A Douglas County Sheriff's Department complaint states the offense occurred Aug. 4 at a bridge crossing the South Umpqua River at Dillard. According to the complaint, the defendants "disturbed the peace and quiet of the vicinity by throwing dynamite from the bridge into the water and causing the dynamite to explode by detonating."

The case was investigated by sheriff's deputies and Winston police.

Rain Gives Vacation To Forest Lookouts

Larry Thorpe, fire suppression officer of the Umpqua National Forest, today said since so much rain has fallen on the forest in the past few days, forest lookouts have not been required.

Loggers working on good roads, he said, have not been bothered by the rain. However, those hauling over dirt roads in most cases have had to curtail their operations.

Cheering Italian Throng Greet Jackie, Caroline

RAVELLO, Italy (UPI)—Cheering crowds and "Welcome Jacqueline" signs greeted Jacqueline Kennedy and her daughter, Caroline, 4, when they arrived today in this ancient hilltop village for a two-week sun-and-sea vacation on the Mediterranean coast.

Cries of "Viva Jackie!" came from the crowds as the Kennedys' car pulled into the town.

America's first lady and her daughter flew to Rome aboard a commercial airliner. A few minutes later they boarded a chartered twin-engine plane for Salerno.

Waiting for them at Salerno was Mrs. Kennedy's sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, who had driven down from Ravello in a black limousine. The Kennedys will be the guests of the princess at her rented villa here.

From Salerno they drove here along the narrow, twisting road that follows the coast until just below Javello, which is perched atop a 1,227-foot hill. A three-mile road leads from the coast to the picturesque village. Police closed off all traffic on that road several hours before the Kennedy party arrived.

The weather was clear and sunny.

As the shouts of "Viva Jackie!" rang out, Mrs. Kennedy responded with a dazzling smile.

Roseburg Veterinarian To Attend Florida Meet

Dr. and Mrs. Dallen H. Jones are leaving this week to attend the conventions of the American Veterinary Medical Association in Miami Beach, Fla.

Dr. Jones will attend the annual meeting of the National House of Delegates of the AVMA as the official delegate of the Oregon Veterinary Medical Association. The delegates meet in their annual business session three days prior to the regular convention, which starts Aug. 13 and continues through Aug. 17.

Mrs. Jones will, at the same time, be attending the 45th annual convention of the Women's Auxiliary of the AVMA. She is a delegate from the Oregon association. The women's meeting will be highlighted by the installation of Mrs. Austin Eivers of Salem as national president. This is the first time an Oregon woman has held a national office, and Mrs. Eivers will be the youngest president ever to take that office.

The Jones' expect to be gone from Roseburg about 10 days.

Teen-Aged Employment Meeting Set Thursday

A second meeting of a special committee studying the possibility of a summer employment program for teen-agers is scheduled Thursday noon in the Broiler.

This will be a no-host luncheon affair. Mayor Peter B. Serafin said representatives of the state Industrial Accident Commission will be present to answer questions on legal aspects of the program.

State labor laws, it was pointed out at the initial meeting last week, are a primary difficulty in planning a work program for youths.

New Traffic Engineer Assigned To Roseburg

Glen L. Clark, state Highway Department investigator, has been named division traffic engineer for southwestern Oregon, reports State Highway Engineer Forrest Cooper.

Clark has been assigned to the division office at Roseburg, from which he will assist in traffic matters and report directly to the division engineer.

The new assignment, and three similar ones in other parts of the state, will increase efficiency in handling traffic matters and will reduce travel time now required by the Traffic Engineering Division headquarters in Salem, Cooper said.

Walks Along Street

President Kennedy's wife, wearing a white dress, then left the automobile to walk the length of the street which fronts on the 900-year-old villa where she will stay. The street is named St. John of the Bull.

She was surrounded by a phalanx of plainclothesmen and uniformed police.

Mrs. Kennedy paused briefly to glance at a shop that sells ceramics, one of the main tourist industries of the Amalfi Coast. Plastered on a wall of the shop was a "Welcome Jacqueline" sign.

During her brief excursion, the crowd almost broke through the police lines several times in an effort to get closer to her.

Mayor Lorenzo Manzi was waiting at the door of the Villa Sangro. His present, an ancient Roman vase found in the sea, already had been delivered to the villa.
