

Satellite Bill Preliminary On Tap Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A preliminary event was on tap today in the Senate fight over the communications satellite bill.

The main event comes Tuesday. Opponents of the long-stalled space measure pressed for a vote on a proposed amendment to the administration-supported measure. The amendment would restore language to the bill giving the State Department authority to conduct all international negotiations over rates and other matters involving the proposed satellite communications network.

Tuesday the Senate is set to vote on a leadership motion to invoke cloture—or to gag debate—to choke off a filibuster against the bill by a handful of Democratic liberals.

Both sides were optimistic over their chances of winning the cloture fight. A two-thirds vote of all senators present and voting is required to curb debate.

The bill would create a privately owned, government regulated corporation to operate the U.S. share of a worldwide space communications system that would relay television, radio and telephone signals.

Other congressional news:

Stockpile — An armed services subcommittee today was expected to begin two or three days sketching details of $111 million in contracts signed with the government nearly 10 years ago by companies under the control of former Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey. The Eisenhower administration official has accused the subcommittee — investigating the nation's stockpile of strategic materials — of waging political war against him.

Schooling — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said today he would introduce a resolution recommending that school attendance be extended to help combat serious unemployment among young people. He said attendance should be required until a student's 17th birthday, or high school graduation, whichever is earlier.

SINGING AND DANCING are favorite pastimes of this brown-eyed brunette, who is vying for the title of queen of the Douglas County Fair. Gloria Munroe, 17, of 1550 NW Mulholland Dr., is 5-feet 1-inch tall and weighs 104 pounds.

Soblen's Lawyers To Ask New Writ Of Habeas Corpus

LONDON (UPI) — Dr. Robert Soblen's lawyers said today they will ask Britain's high court for another writ of habeas corpus aimed at keeping the convicted Soviet spy from being sent back to the United States and life in prison.

Soblen's attorneys said they would fight "tooth and nail" an order by the home office that the psychiatrist be deported, despite Israel's El Al Airline's refusal to fly him to New York. They said they would carry the fight to the high court Tuesday.

The British government admitted Soblen, now in his 44th day on English soil, would not be deported "for a few days at least." Soblen, 61, now seeks his second writ of habeas corpus from the high court. He was granted the first writ in challenging the validity of his detention here, but was turned down in a plea to be sent to the country of his choice.

He jumped $100,000 bail in New York last June 25 and fled to Israel to avoid beginning his prison term for wartime spying. Israel deported Soblen, but he wounded himself on a New York-bound El Al flight and had to be removed for hospitalization here July 1.

El Al has refused three orders by the British government to resume Soblen's self-interrupted flight to the United States. This resulted in the latest order that Soblen be deported "on a plane leaving the United Kingdom."

The Israeli foreign ministry said in Tel Aviv Sunday night that if El Al had obeyed the order to fly Soblen to the United States it would have been "in contradiction" to Israeli law. The ministry said in a statement that when Soblen was expelled from Israel the country's "part in the case was terminated."

Russia's Twin Shot Won't Alter U. S. Space Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Three congressional experts have agreed that there is no need to re-examine the U.S. space program because of Russia's twin orbital shot.

Instead, they feel that the U.S. program is moving ahead and will move even faster when more powerful booster rockets are developed.

The legislators — Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Peadar Kirby, D-Ill., and Rep. Oliver E. Reagon, D-Tex. — did not appear dismayed Sunday that the United States might be behind in the race.

"We have some very solid, feasible technical plans in the same field as the Russians have," Magnuson said. "The fact that one is ahead of the other doesn't necessarily mean anything."

Magnuson and Kirby are members of the Senate Space Committee. Magnuson's subcommittee approved a $3.7 billion space budget on Saturday.

Teague, a member of the House Space Committee, said, "our space program is on solid ground." Holland saw the Soviet feat as a new challenge to the United States. He said it was a step leading up to an effort to rendezvous two capsules in space, a technique the United States also plans to attempt.

Teague said the Soviet Union had chalked up more spectacular space shots but that the United States had performed important technical feats.

And he disagreed with Magnuson's view that the Russian accomplishment had no military significance.

"Everything in space has a military significance," Teague said. "Whoever dominates space will dominate earth."
