

Berlin Riots Expected To Bring Red Protests

BERLIN (UPI) — Rioting by thousands of demonstrators against the Communists' anti-refugee wall was expected today to bring protests from the Russians that West Berlin is a threat to peace.

The violence, marking the first anniversary of the building of the Berlin wall, began Monday afternoon and lasted far into the night.

West Berlin police had to use clubs and tear gas to break up one group of 3,000 rioters at Oberbaum Bridge. Four officers were injured in alternate battles with West Berliners and Communist border guards on the other side of the wall in East Germany.

Russian Vehicles Stoned
A bus carrying Russian soldiers to a war memorial and a sedan in which Soviet officers were riding were stoned by the angry mobs.

The rioters used anything they could get their hands on—sticks, stones, iron bars, and beer bottles—to show their anger at the 28-mile wall that divides the city.

East German border guards turned water cannon on the demonstrators, many of them young. They also were hosed down by West Berlin police trying to maintain order.

Red Protests Expected

It was considered certain that East Germany and the Russians would protest the riots. It was believed the Communists would assert that the assorted meales prove that West Berlin is a threat to peace and must be made a demilitarized city stripped of Western troops.

West Berlin authorities had hoped that anti-Communists would keep away from the border on the anniversary of the wall, confining their demonstrations to three minutes of silence at noon and an hour of "meditation" at night.

Two Communist border guards took advantage of the situation to flee safely to the West.

$4.6 Billion Public Works Bill Is Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee recommended today a $4.6 billion public works bill to finance more new construction starts than the administration recommended, but with less money than was requested.

President Kennedy's public works budget, which envisioned 38 new starts, added up to a grand total of $4,745,332,000. The committee pared $129,424,100 off that sum, but approved all the recommended new starts and added another 13, for a total of 49.

More than half the appropriation, or $3,122,819,000, was earmarked for the Atomic Energy Commission. This was $98.1 million less than the agency estimated it would need for the current fiscal year. The committee figured AEC asked for $27.4 million more than it needed for operating expenses and $70.5 million more than was required for new plants.

The report which accompanied the committee bill noted that in addition to the new starts proposed, money was recommended for 18 unbudgeted surveys and to begin planning on eight other projects not included in the President's recommendations.

In all, the committee recommended a total of $1,072,514,000 for the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau. This money was allocated to 452 projects and activities, with an estimated eventual cost of about $17 billion.

The committee's bill proposed $1,044,829,900 for the engineers, including $764,386,000 for construction and $16,636,900 for general investigations. This was $13,907,100 less than requested.

The Reclamation Bureau's budget was set at $325,308,000, including $7.1 million for investigations, $153,077,000 for construction, and $106,508,000 for the Upper Colorado River Storage Project. The committee cut $15,266,000 from the original request.

The $44,650,000 budgeted for the Bonneville Power Administration was cut by $2,157,000.

Japanese Governor Visits Mark Today

SALEM (UPI) — Tadashi Saito, vice governor of the state of Hokkaido, Japan, was to visit with Gov. Mark Hatfield today.

The Japanese official is touring this country to study dairy and agricultural operations for information for a 10-year agricultural plan for his own country.

Saito also planned to stop at Corvallis to talk with farming experts at Oregon State University before continuing to other states.

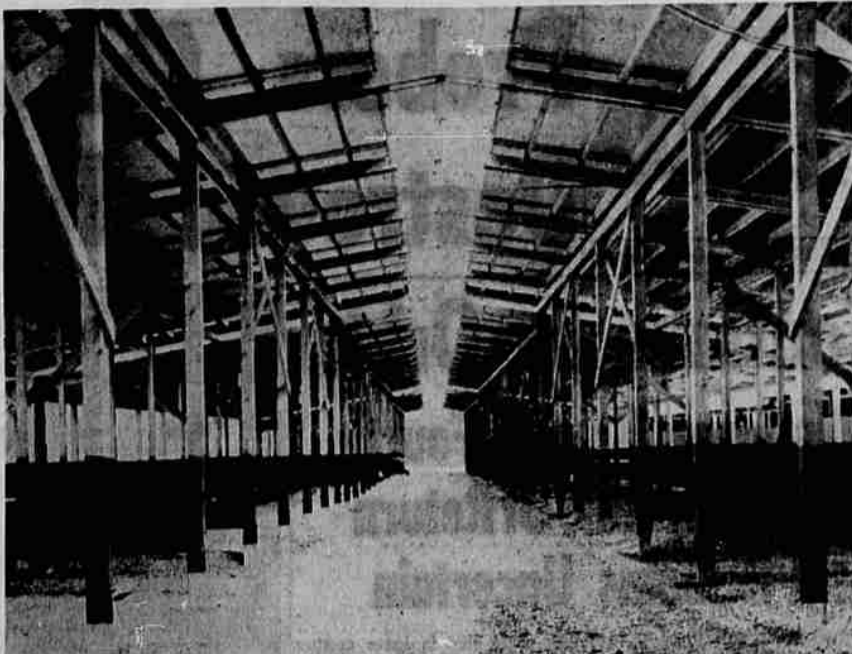

Saito arrived Monday in Portland. He told Mayor Terry Schuck, Oregon and Hokkaido have striking similarities in "climate and spirit."

A native of Portland's sister city of Sapporo, Saito said he considered farming interests one source of mutual good will.

Father Swerves Car To Avoid Cyclists; Sees His Own Children Die As Result

REDMOND, Wash. (UPI) — Donald Paul Sanford wept softly. "There was nothing else I could do. I saved another man's son and killed two of my own children."

"At the moment there was nothing else I could do. Looking back... if I had to do it again, I'd have to do just what I did." "I'm glad you said that," his wife said. "We must not look back."

Sanford, 34, a physical education instructor at Seattle's Garfield High School, with his wife, Virginia Ann, 31, beside him and three children in the back seat, was on a shopping trip Monday. He slowed at nearby Bellevue as he approached Jeff Pickford, 12, and Steve Schuster, 13, a pair of Bellevue boys cycling on the shoulder of the road.

Sanford's tragic moment of decision came seconds later. "Without warning, both turned off the shoulder and into the roadway directly in front of me," he said. "One boy saw my car and darted back. The other boy did not."

"There was no time to stop. There was nothing else to do—out of human compassion. It was either hit—and kill—that boy, or swerve."

"I cranked the wheel hard over. The total two-lane roadway is only 22 feet wide. Before I could straighten the wheel, the car was on the opposite gravel shoulder."

Sanford's car plunged over a 6-foot embankment and thudded into a pine tree. The three children were thrown from the car.

Stephen, 7, landed on his feet and was unharmed. The other two Sanford children, Donald, 9, and Mary, 2, were thrown to the ground.

The car toppled and shattered their bodies beneath it. A tow truck had to be called to lift the vehicle from the bodies.

Sanford and his wife were not seriously hurt but were treated for shock.

Young Schuster, whose life was spared by Sanford's decision, could add but two words. "I'm sorry."

Public Hearing Set Tonight On E. Roseburg Assessment

East Roseburg residents planning to comment on sewer assessment charges at tonight's public hearing before the Roseburg City Council are requested to bring their assessment statement to the meeting.

The hearing on the proposed East Roseburg sanitary sewer assessments is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber located in the new Municipal Building at 744 SE Rose St.

City officials said the meeting will give residents opportunity to protest or make comments in connection with statements received. Tonight's session is a special adjourned meeting from the council's regular meeting Monday night.

Public Works Director Kenneth Meng told the council Monday his office had discussed assessment procedures with about 50 property owners from the area involved.

According to the Public Works Committee, the net total cost to be assessed to the district is $231,595.07. The engineer's estimate for this total was $231,595.07. The city's total share in the construction is $41,973.44.

The committee said individual assessments were determined by computing the total benefitted land area in the district and the total number of building sites, then assessing one-half of the total cost to the land area and one-half to the building sites on a direct proportionate basis.

S. Umpqua Yields Six Legged Frog

One of nature's oddities showed up Sunday in the South Umpqua River near Dillard in the form of a frog with an extra set of legs—or rather, an extra leg and a half.

Mrs. Irwin Stewart, Roberts Creek, Sunday took her four children to the river under the bridge in Dillard to look for polywogs.

In a shallow area of the river, her son Ricky, 12, scooped up a 5-inch frog. At first he was a bit startled — as was the rest of the family — to see what appeared to be a long tail trailing after the frog.

Upon close examination the family found the tail to be an extra hind leg. A stump of a second extra leg indicated that some fish perhaps took a nibble at the frog and its extra appendages.

At present the frog is ensconced in a tub in the Stewart's backyard where Ricky, his brother, Eddie, 14, and two sisters, Roxy, 7, and Cindy, 10, can speculate on what happened to the frog and what will happen to it.

The frog? Why he's just as happy as a frog floating on a stick in a tub in somebody's backyard.

The defendant's wife, Edna Pauline Mooney, charged with being intoxicated on a public highway, also pleaded innocent and requested a jury trial. Her case was continued for trial on Sept. 17.

Mooney posted $300 bail. The woman is free on $100 bail. Both were represented in court by William Jones, Roseburg attorney.

The defendants are charged in Douglas County Sheriff's Department complaints issued Aug. 10.

Dr. Soblen Wins Another Delay

LONDON (UPI) — Convicted Soviet spy Dr. Robert A. Soblen, 61, won another legal delay today against his deportation to the United States where he is under a life sentence.

A British High Court hearing a move by his lawyers to prevent his deportation adjourned until Wednesday, Aug. 22, without making a ruling. There were indications that a final decision on the Soblen case may not be made until Sept. 6 or later.

Judge John F. Stephenson ruled that a full hearing should be held on the fugitive's application for a writ of habeas corpus. This could open the way for more protracted court actions that might take the case all the way to the House of Lords, which does not convene until Sept. 6.

As today's hearing opened Soblen's lawyers agreed to accept deportation from England but continued the fight to prevent Britain from sending him to the United States.

Lawyer F. Elwyn Jones, who fought Soblen's two previous losing court attempts to win release from British custody, said the alling Soblen, who is suffering from leukemia, had been granted a visa by Czechoslovakia and that is where he wished to go.

It was disclosed that Soblen was granted the Czech visa on July 23, 22 days after he was taken off a New York-bound El Al Airlines plane at London Airport and sent to a hospital for urgent treatment of a serious self-inflicted wound.

Soblen, who jumped $100,000 bail in New York June 25 and fled first to Israel to escape a life prison term in the United States as a convicted Soviet spy, cut his wrists and slashed his abdomen with a steak knife aboard the plane. He subsequently admitted he did this only to force his hospitalization in Britain—not as a suicide attempt.

Fighters Contain Padua Hills Fire

CLAREMONT, Calif. (UPI) — An arsonist-set brush fire which threatened expensive homes in the Padua Hills was contained Monday night by a massive air-ground fire-fighting force.

About 100 homes were evacuated when the fire raced through the tinder dry brush. Also threatened was the colorful Padua Hills theater where Mexican-American theatrical events have been staged for many years.

More than 500 men as well as six borate bombers battled the fire under the direction of Los Angeles County Fire Chief Keith Klingner. Klingner determined to keep the fire from becoming another disaster similar to the Bel Air fire in Los Angeles last fall, directed the fight from a helicopter.

More than 800 acres were covered by the blaze two miles north of here and 35 miles east of Los Angeles. No homes were damaged and no injuries were reported.

Jerry Taylor, 27, LaVerne, Calif., was arrested late Monday after a ranger saw him leaving the area where the blaze started. Taylor, an unemployed truck driver, admitted setting the fire and "some others I can't remember."

He was booked on suspicion of arson.

THIS WILY FOX has killed his last turkey. Norman Jones, Rt. 1, Box 631, caught Mr. Fox early Friday morning in a No. 2 steel trap, but not until he had lost 15 or 20 turkeys to the crafty marauder. It is said that the cunning foxes makes trapping difficult. Here's one however, who wasn't so smart. It took a week to get this fox, Jones said, but he knows there are more of its brothers on the prowl. The turkeys are easy prey, since they roost in the open.

Two Missing Riddle Girls Found In Intensive Search

The absence of two small girls from their Riddle home Monday evening caused considerable excitement throughout the town, according to Erma Best, correspondent.

Cornelia and Gigi Seymour, ages 4 and 3, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Seymour, wandered away sometime around 6 p.m. from their home in the Elian Apartments. Their absence was noted about 6:30 p.m. when the family dog, which had been in the yard with the girls, was seen coming home without his companions.

When a brief search of the immediate area by members of the family proved fruitless, police were summoned.

Gigi, 3, was found by Police Chief John Kasten about 7:30 p.m. at the top of a wooded hill back of the apartments. The sound of the child's crying led to her discovery.

The search was intensified with the aid of members of the Volunteer Fire Department when Cornelia, 4, was not found with her sister.

By this time the whole town was alerted, Mrs. Best reports. Relief was evident when Cornelia was located about 8 p.m. in gathering darkness by Mrs. T. E. Jackson, who found the child lying in tall grass on the side of a hill in the opposite direction from where her sister was located. She was almost asleep. Mrs. Jackson reported, and apparently unconcerned over all the excitement attending her discovery.

Both children were unharmed, and according to Mrs. Best, the most damage done was to the nerves of the many searchers who worked under the threat of darkness.

The children's father works on the night shift at the D. R. Johnson Lumber Co. and was not at home during the search. The family has four other children.

A provision of his parole was that he report here for disposition of the local case.

Isaac Winship, Winston, who earlier reported to Roseburg police his wife's car was missing, located it later parked on SE Parrott St. with about half of the gasoline in the tank used.

He stated he would not sign a complaint, that all he wanted was to get the car back.

Liquor Count Follows Fatal Highway Accident

Herbert Albert Lindner, 21, of Lindy's Cabins, Roseburg, pleaded innocent to two charges of giving liquor to minors on arraignment in the court of District Judge Gerald R. Hayes Monday. His bail was reduced to $150 on each count, which he has failed to post.

Lindner is accused of giving liquor to two youths who were injured, one of them fatally in an accident near Dixonville early Sunday morning, according to a report of arresting state police officers.

George Raymond Evanoff, 15, Buckhorn Rd., one of the victims was dead on arrival at a local hospital. The other youth, Gary Lee Charnon, 16, Sutherlin, is still hospitalized.

Police report the two youths were lying down asleep on the road when struck by a 1950 station wagon, driven by Richard Kent Moore, 23, of 844 SE Flint St., Roseburg, which happened by Judge Hayes set Lindner's trial for Sept. 11.
