Dear Abby Getting Ups And Downs!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: My brother died three years ago and left his wife some stocks. She got into the habit of asking my advice on certain stocks. I made it plain I was NOT advising her, only telling her what I was doing with mine. She followed my moves. Like many others I sold some stocks I should have kept, and kept some stocks I should have sold. Every morning this sister-in-law calls me up and needles me about some stock she sold a while back which is now going up—or some stock she held onto which is now down. I don't want to make an enemy of her, but I'd appreciate seeing this letter in print with your comments. All she reads is your column and the stock market.

NEEDED

DEAR NEEDED: Giving advice on the stock market is tricky and thankless. It's a beastly business—loaded with bears, bulls and pigs.

DEAR ABBY: When you go out with a boy, where should you draw the line?

BETTY COED

DEAR BETTY: At the point where you suspect you are listening to one.

DEAR ABBY: My mother is always preaching to me about learning to cook. She says when she was my age she cooked dinner every night. So when I go into the kitchen to cook, she says, "Get out—you're in my way—you'll only make a mess!" Abby, how am I supposed to learn if she is always saying this? I am almost 15.

WANTS TO LEARN

DEAR WANTS: Your timing is off. If you seem to be underfoot in the kitchen when your mother is busy and hurried, all you'll cook is your own goose. Wait 'til she's in a good mood and then make an "appointment" with her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "L"; Don't go around trying closet doors in search of skeletons. The one that falls out could be your own.
