

Flood Threats Lessen After Rainfall Ceases

High water conditions in the North and South Umpqua rivers were eased this morning as rain tapered off throughout the area. The U.S. Weather Bureau office at Roseburg described river conditions as "stationary" and no flood warnings were out.

The North Umpqua River, swollen by several days of precipitation, was dropping. The river crested at 12.4 feet at 6 a.m. today and later in the morning the river level had dropped to 12.1 feet, according to the Douglas County Water Resources survey.

The South Umpqua River crested at Tiller at 9.7 feet and at Winston at 18.7 feet.

The forecast calls for scattered showers tonight and Wednesday. Roseburg received .88 inches of precipitation for the 24-hour period from 10 a.m. Monday to 10 a.m. today.

Over an inch of rain was reported for the 24-hour period in most areas of the county.

The Tiller Ranger Station area had the most precipitation, reporting 1.15 inches. Elkhead followed with 1.10 inches. Wolf Creek station reported 1.3 inches to raise the May total to 4.52.

Rainfall for the Glendale area from Friday to today was totaled at 3.94 inches by Robert Parcells. Cow Creek was described as a "raging torrent" but so far had caused little damage.

A threat was posed to the Glendale Road bridge near Highway 99 due to the washing action of the stream, but this situation was being watched closely, according to Mrs. Gerald B. Fox, correspondent.

Rejecting the rural levy were Riddle, Canyonville, Sutherlin, Oakland and Glide.

Roseburg Planners Study Permit Plan For Zoning Trailer Areas

The Roseburg Planning Commission flirited Monday with the idea of studying the need for a special zone to permit so-called "trailer estates."

But no action was taken.

Special zones permitting development of mobile home subdivisions have been established in other localities throughout the country, necessitated by the increasing popularity of trailer home living.

In such a subdivision, a trailer owner actually purchases a lot and assumes all the responsibilities and benefits of residential living.

In another matter, the commission considered a request for a setback variance from Mrs. Fred Spinster of 1660 SE Marsters. The request was tabled to give other members of the commission opportunity to view the site. The property owner desires to develop a carport, the nature of which would be in violation of the 15-foot setback rule, a commission spokesman said.

The commission also considered a proposed minor land partition-

NOW anyone can grow

large well rooted shrubs, trees, roses from cuttings with JET MAGIC ROOT WRAP!

A Completely New Principle

- EASY
- FAST
- FUN
- CERTAIN

No disappointments when you root cuttings with Jet Magic Root Wrap! This new rooting method forms a root callus ... while cutting is still growing and receiving nutrition from the parent plant—a root callus that is ready to burst into roots when placed in the rooting bed.

The Jet Magic Root wrap is easy, sure, fast and fun. The selected branch is girdled and the wrap placed around the girdled area, sealing in plant juices (sap) and sealing out air and water. Then forget it until the root callus has developed.

Jet Magic Root Wrap draws heat to the callus area, forming a full circular callus, moist, and ready to burst into roots when placed in the rooting bed. The Wrap stretches at the callus forms. A very noticeable bulge tells you when it's time to remove and plant the cuttings.

Excess wood below the callus is trimmed off and the cutting placed in the rooting bed. Because half of the rooting cycle has been completed, roots sprout quickly. The result—a fully developed plant, tree or shrub in much less time than ever before.
