

Legislature Continues Struggle For Campus Building Financing

SALEM (UPI)—The legislature continued to struggle Tuesday with various ways of paying for state campus buildings, including a proposal for a vote on a bond issue.

The Board of Higher Education asked the legislature a day earlier to authorize a vote next May on whether bonding for higher education construction should be expanded.

The Ways and Means Education subcommittee renewed its discussion Tuesday of the problems of financing college buildings.

It has these sources of money for the facilities needed:

—Special student fees that are derived from "self-liquidating" buildings such as dormitories and student centers.

—The state general fund.

—General obligation bonds that carry the backing of the state general fund, and can be repaid from the general fund if earmarked funds are not used.

—Revenue bonds, that cost more because in theory they do not carry general fund backing. In practice, however, they would be paid for out of earmarked money that would have to be replaced with general funds. Only a capricious state would let the bonds default.

Bonds Are Issued
The higher education system already issues general obligation bonds for self-liquidating buildings. It would like to ask the voters for authority to issue them for other buildings as well.

The subcommittee says it could issue such bonds for buildings like libraries anyway. The education board says it promised to issue them only for buildings that pay for themselves.

Revenue bonds don't require voter approval.

The board said Monday the legislature should authorize an initial revenue bond issue until the voters have a chance to vote on a general obligation bond issue in 1964.

The subcommittee must decide how, and in what proportions, to deal with the four fund sources.

Rep. Stafford Hansell, R-Hermiston, told other members of the subcommittee Tuesday: There isn't any magic about this. Eventually it's all out of the general fund.

What the subcommittee must decide is how the college building needs compare with the available funds. It also must decide how much Oregon can afford to shell out of the general fund now for buildings, and how much should be spread out over the long run through one of the two kinds of bonding.

Chamber Seeks New Manager

A screening committee to receive applications for the position of manager of the Roseburg (Area) Chamber of Commerce was appointed at a meeting of the organization's board of directors Tuesday evening by president Elliot Mutschbacher. Members of the committee are Phil Quisenberry, Cliff Thomas and Vin Brenner.

Harold Reaume, who recently resigned as secretary-manager, has agreed to serve the chamber until a replacement is secured or until July 1, whichever is sooner. Applications are being received both from residents of this area and from outside the community.

In other action, the board approved the appointment of Ronald Frashour as a director to replace Lyle Fenner, who had resigned. Frashour is an employe of Forest Industries.

Other recent board replacements are Ralph Sanstede of Round Prairie Lumber Co. and Frank Norton of Howard's Men's wear who filled in for John Amacher and Elton Jackson.

Reporter's Mishap Halts Court Work

Mrs. John William (Grace) Robertson, Douglas Circuit Court reporter, underwent bone surgery at Mercy Hospital this morning for a fractured right elbow. Mrs. Robertson suffered the injury in a fall on the courthouse steps Tuesday. She expects to leave the hospital Thursday night.

Justice Don H. Sanders said he had to cancel court cases today, but has secured substitutes until Mrs. Robertson can return to her court reporting.

Carl Long, Lincoln County court reporter, has been obtained for work Thursday and Friday, and Helen Codrington, Salem, a free lance parttime reporter, has been employed for the three or four weeks Mrs. Robertson is expected to be off duty.

Store Employees Turn Down Union In Election

Employees of Mark's markets in Riddle and Myrtle Creek turned down by one vote membership in the Retail Clerks Association, Local 201, Eugene, in an election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board Tuesday.

Robert Wiener, Portland, representative for the NLRB who conducted the election, reported that the vote was six in favor of joining the union to seven opposed. The 13 employes of the two stores voted as a unit in the election.

J. High Event Set For Sixth Graders

Fremont Junior High School will hold a special orientation night on Monday, May 13, for all prospective seventh grade students and their parents. The event will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

According to Bob McKee, principal, the evening is planned to give incoming students for the fall term a preview of junior high activities and schedule. A tour of the building will also be made to acquaint students and their parents with the facilities.

As a special program feature, students of the school will present a style show. Refreshments will be served by the Fremont PTA.

Sixth graders from Fir Grove, Fullerton IV, Green, Melrose and Rose Elementary, with their parents, are invited and urged to attend. McKee said.

Duke Of Argyll Granted Divorce After Long, Costly Litigation

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI)—The Duke of Argyll, 60, chief of the Clan Campbell and hereditary master of the queen's household in Scotland, was granted a divorce today after the judge disclosed the beautiful duchess had been photographed in the nude with another man.

The divorce was granted on grounds the 50-year old duchess, a striking millionairess, had committed adultery with a hotel press agent.

The duke had accused his wife of committing adultery with four men, including an American businessman described in court by the judge as "a self-confessed wolf" who "admitted having the morals of a tomatat."

The decree was handed down by Justice John Wheatley in a marathon decision which revealed for the first time since the trial last month some of the most sensational evidence produced in a British divorce hearing since the war.

The duke had charged his wife with adultery with an unnamed man with whom she posed in nude photographs and with three named men—Baron Sigismund von Braun, brother of rocket expert Wernher von Braun; American businessman John Cohane, 55, who now lives in Ireland, and Harvey Peter Combe, Savoy Hotel press agent. The justice ruled that the duke had not condoned his wife's affair with Cohane, the "self-confessed wolf," in a New York hotel suite Jan. 13, 1956.

But he granted the actual divorce on the ground that the duchess, mother of the Duchess of Rutland, had been intimate with Combe.

Justice Wheatley, who took three hours and 20 minutes to read his 65,000 word verdict, reserved decision on the question of legal costs which are estimated to be among the highest of the century in the series of legal actions—$140,000.

The duchess, who had denied the charges, is expected to appeal. Combe also had denied intimacy.

Goldwater Says Romney Is 1964 Sub For Wilkie

ANDOVER, Mass. (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Tuesday night Gov. George Romney of Michigan is "the Wendell Wilkie substitute of 1964."

Goldwater said the "kingmakers" of the Republican party were massing behind Romney as the next presidential candidate.

He singled out former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and former Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall as prime supporters of Romney.

Nixon's move to New York City was "in large part" so he could more actively participate in the campaign to nominate Romney, Goldwater said.

The Arizona Republican often mentioned as a frontrunner for the GOP presidential nomination, was at Phillips Andover Academy to speak on domestic politics.

Goldwater said Romney "told me he doesn't want" the presidential nomination.

Recalling the boom for Wilkie in 1940, Goldwater described Romney as "the Wendell Wilkie substitute of 1964."

When asked to comment on a "draft Goldwater" movement, he replied, "nobody ever gets drafted for any political office. If there is a movement it will be because I will have said, 'Let's go ahead.'"

Regarding his present plans, he said he was a candidate for reelection to the Senate next year and beyond that "we'll see what happens."

Dredging Bids Called For Smith River Job

Bids have been invited by the Portland U.S. Army Engineer District for maintenance dredging and disposal of 53,000 cubic yards of material from the channel of Smith River which flows into the Umpqua River opposite Reedsport.

Col. Sterling K. Eisinger, Portland district engineer, said bids would be opened June 6. Estimated cost of the project is $25,000. The successful bidder will be allowed two months to complete the work.

Dredging will be between miles 4.5 and 5.5 to a depth of 8 feet at adopted low water.

Search Resumes Near Flora For Suspect Slayer Of Two

ENTERPRISE, Ore. — Search for a husky red-haired stumpy rancher wanted for a double slaying at Clarkston, Wash., resumed in the wooded area around the remote northeastern Oregon town of Flora today.

Bloodhounds were brought in from Lewiston, Idaho to aid in tracking Billy Evans, 44, who twice slipped away from police Tuesday and disappeared into the timber, once after officers fired shots.

Evans was charged in a warrant issued at Asotin, Wash., with first degree murder for the death of Mrs. May Griner, 40, and second degree murder for the slaying of William Gerry, 40.

Both were shot to death with a .30-30 rifle fired at close range in Mrs. Griner's home just outside Clarkston a few minutes before midnight Monday. The killer then locked Mrs. Griner's 6-year-old daughter, Irene, in the bathroom with her pet dog and fled in a car.

Car Found
The search for Evans, who lived in a trailer house at Lewiston, Idaho, began almost immediately. His car was found stuck in mud about a mile and a half from his own cabin south of Flora in the Grande Ronde River country.

Evans was sighted at the cabin by two sheriff's deputies, who said Evans first started toward them, rifle in hand, then bolted into the woods and disappeared. About 4:30 p.m., Evans was seen attempting to start his car and officers began to close a ring around him. When one of the officers shot at him to surrender, Evans grabbed his rifle and officers fired two shots over his head. Evans fled and officers fired at him twice more.

Two guns, including a .30-30 rifle, were found in Evans' cabin. Officers said both Evans and Gerry, a La Grande, Ore., carpenter, had dated Mrs. Griner, a divorcee.

She had been married in 1958 to James Griner, a rancher on the Washington side of the Grande Ronde river.

Gerry was separated from his wife, believed to live at Baker, Ore., officers said.
