

Advance Detail Of U.S. Troops Poised In City Of Birmingham

By PAUL PHILLIPS
 BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—An advance detail of federal forces set up headquarters today in five blocks from a Negro section of Birmingham where a four-hour riot erupted Sunday morning.

Combat-equipped federal troops were poised at jump-off spots 80 miles south and 60 miles east of this racially torn industrial city on orders from President Kennedy.

Birmingham was quiet and on the surface, at least, was near normal today.

An Army colonel commanding about 15 soldiers worked through the night bringing in equipment in an office building that houses several government agencies.

The headquarters was set up in the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service area across the hall from the FBI in a building five blocks from where rioting erupted Sunday.

The soldiers arrived aboard a C-130 transport shortly before midnight. Ed Guthman of the Justice Department had an office next door to the military headquarters.

Traffic Flows Normally

Heavily armed highway patrolmen remained in the riot-torn area. Traffic moved along the streets as on any other Monday morning. But at intersections were patrolmen, who had slept in patrol cars during the night with carbines and shotguns close at hand.

State authorities claimed the crisis here was "firmly under control" and said the riot-torn federal troops that flew into Maxwell Air Force Base to the south and Ft. McClellan to the east were not needed.

Huge Air Force transport planes began landing the troops at Maxwell Air Force Base 90 miles south of here at Montgomery within an hour after Kennedy issued his order Sunday. By early morning, more than 10 planes had arrived with cargoes of soldiers, jeeps and other equipment.

The steel-helmeted troops, carrying bayonet-tipped carbines, were housed in vacant barracks for the night at Maxwell which was placed on alert.

Kennedy said in calling out the troops that he would "do whatever must be done to preserve order" in Birmingham which was rocked by bombings and rioting early Sunday. Twenty-two persons were injured in the pitched battles between Negroes and police that climaxed six weeks of anti-segregation demonstrations.

It was the second time in a little more than seven months that Kennedy had ordered federal troops into the South in connection with racial violence. He dispatched 25,000 troops to the Oxford, Miss., area last October after a riot over the admission of Negro student James H. Meredith.

Gov. George Wallace protested the sending of troops to Alabama. In a telegram to the President Sunday, he said "sufficient state law enforcement officers are available to maintain peace and order" in Birmingham. In another wire Sunday night to the Alabama congressional delegation, he said "the President has completely ignored lawfully constituted state authority."

A source close to Wallace said there was a good chance the governor would seek a court order enjoining the federal forces from leaving Maxwell.

Alabama Public Safety Director Al Lingo, a shotgun slung over his shoulder, told newsmen Sunday night that "as of now, we've got things firmly under control."

"We don't expect any trouble and if there is any, I know we can handle it," said Lingo, head of the State Highway Patrol. He snapped "no comment" when asked for his reaction to the sending of federal troops into the state.

Dynamiting Touches Off Battle

The stone, brick and bare knuckle battling of Negroes with police was touched off by the dynamiting of the home of Rev. A. D. King, brother of integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and of the A. G. Gaston motel, headquarters of the integration movement which began a massive campaign to tear down the racial barriers here six weeks ago.

Police quote eyewitnesses to the bombings as saying they saw four men, their faces covered partially to hinder identification, in a car at the scene. Wallace posted a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the men responsible for the bombings.

At least 22 persons were injured. Stores and homes were set afire as were a taxicab and a Shriners' gaudy motorcycle.

Policeman J. N. Spivey was stabbed twice in the back. A taxicab driver was pulled from his car and beaten.

Police Inspector William Haley was struck with a brick and it took six stitches to close the wound.

Later Sunday, at Anniston, 60 miles to the northeast, two Negro homes and a church were damaged by shotgun blasts. There were no injuries.

Hatfield Suggests Solons Get Together On Tax Bill

SALEM (UPI)—The legislature is not much farther along with a tax program than it was at the start of the 1963 session 119 days ago, Gov. Mark Hatfield said today.

Speaking at his weekly news conference, Hatfield repeated his suggestion that members of the House and Senate Tax Committees get together to draft a program both houses can accept.

The Senate committee is considering the House-passed tax program. Senators have expressed dislike of the House package.

Hatfield again warned against letting a tax impasse go to a conference committee for compromise in the session's final days.

Speaks on Education

The governor expressed disappointment over a Ways and Means subcommittee decision to cut funds for some special education programs such as migrant children.

Hatfield said he also was unhappy with the subcommittee's decision to put the programs on a biennial appropriation basis and to encourage more local support.

"It is a very poor move and one which I would not support," he said.

"You cannot see these (programs) up... and turn them off over night."

He said local levels are "hard pressed to support properly the major program of general education."

Constitution Brought Up

Hatfield said the important thing about a proposed new constitution is to get it to the people for a vote.

He said Senate committee changes in apportionment do not seem to violate the principles of the House-passed plan.

Hatfield noted "it is a moot question what role I play" in connection with a new constitution, other than supporting it, since "it will not come through my desk."

The governor expressed approval of a bill for civil commitment of the sexually dangerous, but cautioned it should not be considered a panacea.

As for letting a bill to extend daylight saving time become law without his signature, he said: "I felt this was the proper way to handle it in light of my experience on daylight saving time."

Illinois Seeks Way To Feed Thousands On Relief Rolls

By FRED MOHN
 CHICAGO (UPI)—Gov. Otto Kerner met with state officials today to seek a solution to a legislative crisis that has threatened thousands of relief recipients with hunger.

Even as the high-level talks went on, warehouses and welfare agencies were stocked with donated and surplus food that could be on the tables of penniless relief recipients by Tuesday.

Illinois' Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) and general assistance programs ran out of money two weeks ago. But an emergency appropriation has been held up in the legislature by a bitterly partisan dispute over whether ceilings should be placed on the welfare checks.

Invites Elected Officials

In the downtown capital of Springfield, Democrat Kerner's invitation went to all of the state's elected officials. Most indicated they would attend. But Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, considered the Republican's No. 1 candidate for governor, said he would not. Carpenter charged Kerner with "failure to be forthright with the Republican Senate and refusal to accept reasonable ceilings."

In Chicago, where by far most of the relief recipients live, the bounty of the weekend was large, but not large enough.

"There simply isn't enough food to go around," one settlement worker said.

Pastors used Sunday sermons to request their congregations to take food to numerous distribution centers in Chicago. The U.S. Department of Agriculture began to supply beans, butter, corn meal, dry milk, lard, flour, canned meat, rice, peanut butter, cheese and rolled oats.

Urges Neighborliness

Private agencies — many of which ran out of food during the weekend — urged neighbor to help neighbor and donate food and money to help the hungry.

The Illinois Public Aid Commission said Sunday that plans had been completed for distributing the federal surplus foods. Executive Secretary Harold O. Swank said the distribution would begin at 9 a.m. Tuesday and continue until 3 p.m. each day until the legislature settled the dispute.

The commission mailed out cards to reliefers to tell them to report for the food pickups. Eight thousand families were expected to get cards today and 4,000 Tuesday, with more scheduled to receive them later in the week.

There are 192,000 persons on relief in Cook County alone.

County Tree Farm Tour Is Set At Melius Ranch

Because of the break in the weather, the Douglas County extension office has decided to act quickly.

It will hold its twice-postponed tree farm tour Tuesday at the Bert Melius ranch between Tenmile and Reston. Sutherland sixth graders will take part in the tour at 10 a.m., and the 1:30 afternoon session will involve the Roseburg High School Vocational Agriculture students.

California Firm Gets Gardiner Pipeline Job

Contract for installing water supply and effluent disposal pipelines at the Gardiner complex of International Paper Co. has been awarded to Valley Engineers Inc. of Fresno, Calif.

The project involves installation of approximately 20,000 feet of 30-inch pipe.

Concrete cylinder pipe was purchased from American Pipe & Construction Co. of Portland and transport pipe was obtained from the Johns-Manville Co.

Construction on the new I.P. paper mill is due to reach its peak by late July, when about 800 men are expected to be working on the project.

Non-production buildings are virtually completed, it is reported, and personnel are moving into the first buildings. Work is now concentrated on the pulp and paper production buildings and related facilities.

Charles P. Smith

Charles P. Smith, who owned and published the Sutherland Sun from May 1940 to August 1942, died May 3 at the age of 72 years in a Phoenix, Ariz., hospital from a heart condition, according to a letter received here from his wife.

Smith suffered his first heart attack in a Roseburg hospital in April 1934, and has been in ill health the past nine years. While living in Sutherland he had the U. P. Smith Insurance Agency, and was the city treasurer for a number of years. The Smiths left Sutherland in October of 1934 and have resided in Phoenix the past 6 1/2 years.

Before coming to Sutherland he published weekly newspapers in Middleville and Coleman, Mich. He was a life member of the Masonic Order at Coleman.

Achievement Day Draws Over 200

The Central Douglas County 4-H Achievement Day over the weekend was bigger than last year, reports 4-H Extension Agent Frank von Borstel.

About 200 young people turned out to show what they had done in 4-H work during the past year. Scores of other exhibits came in for judging from other 4-H members who could not attend.

Von Borstel said about 250 achievement ribbons were awarded. The ribbons are awarded on the basis of quality, blue, red and white, in that order.

The annual achievement day gives 4-H youngsters a chance to exhibit things they have made, particularly in the home economics studies, indicates the progress they have made and gives them practice for the Douglas County Fair.

One of the highlights of the day Saturday was a style show in which about 50 girls took part. Several demonstrations were given during the day, also. Demonstrations include such things as making sandwiches, methods of determining hardness of rocks, sewing, etc.

Mayer is a graduate of Roseburg High School and the University of Oregon, where he prepared for the Air Force. He has been in the service three years.

Committee Votes Cut In Education Budget

SALEM (UPI)—A $786,000 reduction in the governor's proposed budget for special education programs was voted Saturday afternoon by the Ways and Means Education subcommittee.

The cuts, however, were offset by $1.1 million added earlier to special programs for mentally retarded and physically handicapped children.

The basis for the cuts was a policy decision by the subcommittee that the state should begin to withdraw from special programs.

Rep. Stafford Hansell, R - Hermiston, said the intent should be to stimulate local school districts to take over and carry on the special programs.

The cuts were made in the governor's proposed $155 million budget for schools and for the Department of Education. Most of that sum is for basic school support, a subject the committee has not yet touched.

The subcommittee made these decisions on special programs:

Gifted—The proposed $315,000 program for gifted children in the next biennium was cut by $15,000. The decision, however, involves phasing out state help over the next three years by giving districts the present $1.50 per day per gifted child the first year, $1 the second year, 50 cents the third, and nothing after that.

Migrant—The proposed $142,000 for special classes for migrant children was eliminated.

Advanced placement—The proposed $43,000 for this program was eliminated, but essentials of the program were incorporated

Strange Activities Lead To Arrests

Three Eureka, Calif., residents are lodged in jail here on vagrancy charges, following their arrests by Roseburg City Police, and a fourth person is being sought.

Held at the city jail is Richard Freatas, 26, and taken to the county jail were his wife, Carol Louise Freatas, 19, and her 16-year-old sister.

The action was taken by police when they received a private complaint that a 1960 model automobile had been parked for about two hours on W. Corey St., and that a man was seen leaving the car and going to other cars at Ramona Court with a large object. Then the subject and the juvenile were seen going to the high school grounds nearby.

Police found an eight-gallon can and a five-foot length of garden hose alongside one of the cars at the court. The above persons were found in the car across the street, but denied any participation.

They told officers a man from Oakland, Calif., whom they knew casually took them on a ride to Oregon. They said that at one place they stopped and traded a spare tire for gasoline. There was no owner certificate in the car, which has been impounded.
