Newlyweds Residing Here

Miss Shirley Jeanette Napier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Napier, and Alex C. Bowden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Bowden, all of Glendale, were married in a single ring ceremony held Friday evening May 3, at the Southern Baptist Church in Glendale.

The bride was attended by her aunt, Mrs. Bob Buttress of Irvington, Calif., as matron of honor; and by bridesmaids, Loretta Burd, her cousin; and Rebecca Napier, her sister. Odie Lee acted as best man, while Joe Sturgis and Bobby Napier, brother of the bride, were ushers. The Rev. Noah Mills, pastor of the Phoenix Southern Baptist Church, officiated.

Linda Napier, a sister of the bride, and Debby Bowden of Roseburg, a niece of the bridegroom, were candlelighters. Another of the bride's sisters, Peggy Napier, was the flower girl.

Mrs. Ben Temple played piano prelude and then accompanied a girl's trio, composed of Jo Ann Crews, Patty Buchanan and Sally Buchanan, for the song, "I Love You Truly."

After the ceremony, the couple knelt, and the trio again sang.

The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with large white baskets of apple blossoms. Bouquets of apple blossoms were used on the piano, flanked by double crystal candle holders.

The bride was exquisite in a white floor-length wedding gown detailed with a full skirt and bustle, and a bodice of Chantilly lace, high empire waist, scalloped neckline and brief scalloped sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil was caught by a dainty crown of white seed pearls. Her accessories included opera-length gloves of Chantilly lace matching her bodice, and a diamond pendant necklace, a gift from her parents.

She carried a bridal bouquet fashioned of a huge yellow-throated white orchid in a cluster of white carnations.

The bride's attendants, candle lighters, and the flower girl wore street-length gowns of embossed lavender taffeta, all of them designed and made by Faye Pate of Glendale.

The matron of honor wore a semi-bouffant sheath dress with a tailored neckline, and with it a matching headpiece which anchored a filmy lavender veil. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. Her white accessories included opera-length gloves.

The other attendants wore full-skirted dresses with sweetheart necklines, princess waists and a velveteen bow at the back. Their veils and headpieces matched those of the matron of honor, and their bouquets were like hers, except that they were all white.

The candle lighters and the flower girl wore dresses similar in line to those of the bridesmaids. The flower girl carried a wicker basket filled with white petals.

Members of the girls' trio wore matching lavender sheath dresses and pink carnation corsages.

The mother of the bride wore a green suit with a white carnation corsage, and the mother of the bridegroom chose a black and white crepe dress, suit with white accessories and a white carnation corsage.

After the ceremony, the couple was honored at a reception held at the Masonic Temple, where they cut a three-tiered white wedding cake which was accented with roses in variegated tones of pink, silver leaves and pink doves. It was topped with bridal figurines on a white filigree base.

The cake was flanked by double crystal candle holders and white candles, placed on an ecrú lace-covered table.

A second serving table was centered with an elaborate paper rose bower decorated with white wedding bells.

The bride's gift table, featured an unusual glass cone wedding bell centerpiece.

Mrs. Herb Byrd, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake. Mrs. Maurice McDowell served punch; Mrs. Alvin Long poured the coffee; Mrs. Archie McElroy and Mrs. Paul Moody also served.

Jo Ann Crews had charge of the guest book. Sue Long of Los Angeles and Sally Buchanan had charge of the gift table.

As the couple was ready to leave, the bride tossed her bouquet. It was caught by Miss Long.

For her going-away dress the bride chose a two piece beige sheath dress and jacket with harmonizing accessories. She wore for her corsage the orchid which had centered her wedding bouquet.

After a brief honeymoon on the coast the newlyweds have returned and are now at home at 1216 Germond St. in Roseburg, where the bridegroom is employed in a local sawmill.

The bride, a resident of Glendale since 1950, was graduated from Glendale High School in 1961. She was formerly employed in the office of the Grants Pass Cleaners.
