By United Press International
An uneasy racial truce prevailed in Birmingham today but Negroes vowed to continue demanding for "across-the-board desegregation" in North Carolina.

A Negro civil rights leader warned at Jackson, Miss., Monday night that racial turbulence would upset the Mississippi capital unless it changes its racial policies.

It is not our intention to be pushed into resuming these demonstrations," he said. "We are hopeful that the truce will go on and we will resist all provocations."

Police Arrest 400
Around 800 Negroes marched into downtown Greensboro, N.C., Monday night and milled around two cafeterias and movie theaters. Police arrested some 400 of the group, boosting to around the 2,000 mark the number of persons arrested in anti-segregation demonstrations in North Carolina since last week.

The marches and arrests will continue until we have across-the-board desegregation," said William Thomas, president of the Greensboro chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE). A crowd of about 2,000 Negroes gathered outside the Durham, N.C., city hall during the first meeting of a new city council.

New Mayor Wense Grabarak had asked Negroes for two weeks time to attempt a solution to Durham's racial problems. The Negroes refused and scattered over the downtown area, starting sit-in attempts at restaurants. About 600 were arrested. About 80 Negroes marched through Charlotte, N.C., Monday singing for an "end to segregation."

Warns of 'Turbulent Times'
Medgar Evers, Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), warned in a television broadcast Monday night that "turbulent times" may be ahead for Jackson. He was granted equal time on the station to reply to a speech made last week by Jackson Mayor Allen Thompson, who said the city was a target for "racial agitators" but segregation would be preserved.

Evers said that integration was coming to the South even though "Mayor Thompson persists in excluding the people that conditions are going to remain the same in Jackson." Evers said Jackson can either "recognize the situation" and meet changes or "have what Mayor Thompson called turbulent times."

The pickup, operated by her father, was just leaving the parking lot of Byrd's Market on W. Harvard Ave. City Police report the child stood up and fell onto the roadway in front of another vehicle. The other car, however, was able to stop.

Einspahr was cited by police for carrying a child on the external part of a vehicle. An ambulance took the child to the hospital.

Monkey Winner Of Human Prize
TITUSVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—You don't monkey around with Lucky Briggs.

He won a $750 set of fancy dishes in a drawing here, but it was obvious he wasn't impressed. It was even more obvious he'd never use them.

The First Federal Savings and Loan Association pulled the name out of a barrel last week and they couldn't find him. An ad was put in the paper, and Lucky finally showed up Monday.

He wouldn't even talk to contest officials and he refused to smile for the cameras.

Lucky is a monkey. His owner, Charles Briggs, put Lucky's name into the contest because "He's almost human and he'd seen all those humans putting their names in."

Negro Woman Wins Civil Rights Suit
PORTLAND (UPI)—A Circuit Court jury Monday awarded $500 to Mrs. Vivian James, a Negro woman, who filed suit against a tavern under the state's civil rights statute saying she had been refused service.

She was given the award from James and Bessie Barr, owners of the Lombard Inn. They testified the woman had been refused service because she was intoxicated.

Riddle Men Get Jail Sentences

Two Riddle men were sentenced to 10 days in jail and fined $100 each on appearance in South Douglas Justice Court at Canyonville on charges of furnishing liquor to a minor.

Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Nina Pletzdorf were Raymond James Johnson, 23, of Rt. 1, Box 26, and Junior Darrell Wilson, 23.

The court ordered suspension of the jail terms on payment of the fines. Johnson paid the fine and was released. Wilson was still in custody this morning.

In Douglas County District Court Monday, Clare Levina Catron, 63, of 2571 NE Stephens St., and Floyd Robert Cantrell, 41, of Junction City, asked jury trials following arraignment on vagrancy charges.

Sheriff's Department complaints indicated the two were arrested in connection with a disturbance at a local restaurant last Sunday. Trial dates were set June 17 for the woman and June 14 for Cantrell. Each was released after posting $500 bail.

Poppy Days Proclaimed By Roseburg's Mayor

Roseburg Mayor Thomas Garrison has proclaimed May 24-25 (Friday and Saturday) as Poppy Days in the city.

The mayor said in his proclamation that because the VFW Buddy and American Legion Flanders Poppies are assembled by disabled veterans and the proceeds of the sales are used exclusively for the benefit of disabled and needy veterans, their widows and orphans, he is urging everyone to wear a poppy this weekend.

Battle Of Sexes Gets New Twist

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—The battle of the sexes developed a new twist Monday with an agreement which ended a two-day strike at four Freihofer Bakery Co. plants in the capital district.

The new contract gave male bakery workers two pairs of clean white pants a week and a 10-cent-an-hour boost.

However, it sparked a feud between male and female employees. "If I had known we would be walking the streets for men's pants, I would have never gone on strike," one woman said.

The pants agreement, for men only, was estimated to be worth two cents an hour in the package. The women, who wear cotton dresses at their work, will share only in the 10-cent increase.

SWEET HOME (UPI)—State police reported today a new tack in safe burglary.

Appearing before the court Monday, Marlow was sentenced to three years in the Oregon state penitentiary. He was given credit for three months and 12 days already served in the county jail.

Rural Firemen Claim Trophy

Firemen from the Roseburg Rural Fire Department completely outclassed the other teams in a tournament involving various hose evolutions held over the weekend at the Rhododendron Festival at Florence.

Included in the action was a game of water ball where the teams concentrate a stream of water on a ball, a variation of a barrel race where a barrel is placed in the middle of the road and two teams charge the barrel from opposite directions, and a "make and break" contest. In the "make and break" contest the teams have to couple the hoses, climb a wall by means of a ladder and knock a barrel off the top of the wall.
