Solons Join In Resolution To Urge Nuclear Test Ban

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thirty senators joined Monday in a proposed resolution urging that the United States seek an agreement with Russia to ban all atmospheric and underwater nuclear tests. The group included some lawmakers with differing views on the U.S. proposal at Geneva for a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty, which also would cover underground testing.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., offered the proposal. He has been a critic of the U.S. proposal. Listed as principal co-sponsor was Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., a champion of the administration's proposal.

In separate statements prepared for Senate delivery, Dodd and Humphrey said a proposal to ban atmospheric and underwater nuclear tests would avoid the controversy over detection of underground tests and the right of on-site inspection since underwater and atmospheric tests could be readily detected.

Foresee Results

They said the limited treaty would end testing which contaminates the atmosphere and would slow the nuclear arms race. It also would be a first step toward agreement on a comprehensive treaty when technical questions relating to underground detection have been resolved, they added.

"This resolution is a major attempt to stuff the genie of radioactive contamination and proliferation of nuclear weapons capabilities back into the bottle where it belongs," said Humphrey. Dodd said an underwater and atmospheric test ban would be "a tremendously significant beginning." It would, he said, "substantially reduce the amount of testing conducted by both sides."

"It would eliminate the testing of multi-megaton weapons," he said. "It would take account of the legitimate, if somewhat exaggerated, concern of world public opinion over the danger of cumulative atmospheric fallout."

Sense of Senate

If approved, the resolution would express the sense of the Senate that the United States should again offer an underwater-atmospheric treaty to the Soviet negotiators at Geneva.

The resolution also urges that, if the Soviet Union rejects the underwater-atmospheric treaty, the United States should commit itself "before the world" to refrain from testing underwater or in the atmosphere so long as the Soviet Union abstains.

It would require that the United States, in any such moratorium, keep its testing facilities "in a state of constant readiness" so that this country would not be unprepared if the Russians should resume testing.

Other signers included: Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho; Clair Engle, D-Calif.; Lee Metcalf, D-Mont.; Wayne Morse, D-Ore.; Frank E. Moss, D-Utah; Maurice B. Neuberger, D-Ore.

Dear Abby!

Find A Happy Medium!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: I have one of those husbands with a dual personality. One day he's an angel and the next day he has horns. I call him "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." I am a nervous person with four children who are all live wires, so between the five of them it's a wonder I'm not in a mental institution. His biggest fault is his loud mouth. When he gets angry, he shouts. It's not bad in the winter because we keep our windows closed, but I dread summer because when he yells the windows are wide open and the whole neighborhood can hear him. We live in a subdivision and the houses are on top of each other. I've threatened to have the whole house air-conditioned and seal the windows. Only I can't afford it this summer. Can you tell me how to control this loud-mouthed man of mine?

GOING TO PIECES
DEAR GOING: You're lucky, some women are married to men who have only ONE personality. And it's always "Mr. Hyde." Catch him when he's "Dr. Jekyll" and tell him how his shouting embarrasses you. Promise to try hard not to provoke him into such outbursts. Every wife knows which subjects trigger a tantrum in her man. You need only to keep him happy to keep him quiet.

DEAR ABBY: We have recently moved into a new home where we have new friends and neighbors. They keep asking me, "When are you going to give your housewarming?" I was brought up in Canada, and have always thought it was improper to do this. Isn't it like giving yourself a "shower?" Is it really considered good manners to invite people to your home for the purpose of collecting gifts from them?

CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: (And you ARE confused). A housewarming party is given by the new homeowner for the purpose of "showing" their home to friends and neighbors. Nothing need be said about a gift. A "shower" on the other hand, is given for the express purpose of "collecting" gifts for the honored one.

DEAR ABBY: It's not the ANIMALS that go around naked that confuse our young people. It's the WOMEN who go around 99 percent naked who confuse them. A father forbids his daughter to wear a bikini bathing suit. Then she goes to the beach and sees them by the dozens on females who are exposing themselves like dancers in a burlesque house. What is a daughter supposed to think?

CONFIDENTIAL TO MRS. A.: And about the time you catch up with "The Joneses" — they're re-financed.

How To Squeeze For 12 Tricks

By OSWALD JACOBY
(Written for NEA)

After South's opening notrump bid, North might well have tried to find a 4-4 fit in one of the red suits, but North counted 17 points and simply jumped right to six notrump.

South was not at all happy when he looked at the dummy. He could only count to eleven tricks and the only play for a twelfth would have to be a squeeze.

If you need a squeeze to make twelve tricks the first thing to do is to get it up so South let West hold the first spade. He won the second spade and noted that East had to discard. Then he started on his four heart tricks and when East had to discard on the second heart South recognizes a sure squeeze situation.
