Dear Abby!

It Will Always Be!

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: Again it has happened to me. I went into a restaurant and saw they had children's size meals listed on the menu. I ordered one and they refused to let me have it because I am not a child. I am 46 years old, very petite, and am seldom hungry enough to eat an adult-sized restaurant meal. What does my age have to do with the amount I eat?

SMALL EATER

DEAR SMALL EATER: Nothing. But when dining out it is not only the "food" one pays for—but the service. Children's portions are offered for less—as a courtesy to the accompanying adults. But just try to order half a banana split because you can't eat a whole one.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is planning to attend a shower for a divorcee who is being married for the second time. My wife gave a shower for her first time she was married. Her husband divorced her because she cheated on him. (And she had two little children at the time!) I told my wife I wouldn't give her any money to buy an immoral woman a gift, so she went ahead and used our trading stamps. What is your opinion?

N. F.

DEAR N. F.: MY opinion is that your wife doesn't have much respect for YOUR opinion.

DEAR ABBY: You hear so much about single girls falling in love with married men. Once in a blue moon the married man actually gets rid of his wife and marries the single girl. But, believe me, this is rare. I am a man and have been around a lot, and would like to give you three foolproof excuses used by married men when the girl friend puts the pressure on them:

(1) I don't have any feeling for my wife, but I love my children. When they are grown and gone, we'll get married.

(2) You are too good for me. I am going to get out of your life so you can find the kind of a man you deserve.

(3) My wife is sick, and I can't leave her in that condition.

"USED THEM ALL."

DEAR ABBY: Re: the man who drinks beer out of a baby bottle and nipple:

You may be absolutely right in suggesting he see a psychiatrist, but there is another explanation: Several years ago I gave a birthday party for my husband and made it a rather elaborate "kid" party. Our guests entered by climbing a ladder and "sliding" into the living room. There we met them with an orange blossom cocktail served in a baby bottle and nipple.

The party went into orbit so fast we were astonished. We had to postpone all the nipples because our guests were getting so high on one or two drinks we couldn't get supper going. Later the bartender told me that sucking an alcohol beverage through a straw—or nipple—heightens the effect. This is one of those odd bits of information a psychiatrist could go through life without learning.

South Thought Made the Hand

By OSWALD JACOBY
(Written For NEA)

South took a deep breath and bid five diamonds. He wasn't vulnerable and held a hundred honors so he didn't expect that any great harm would come to him and he was sure that he was sacrificing against a sure heart game. West doubled and led the queen of hearts. South looked a little uneasy and saw that he had been wrong on all counts. West almost surely would not have made four hearts and South had some sort of play for six diamonds.

Some players would have said "Maybe we didn't bid enough," but South was more inclined to think that to talk and South saw that five diamonds was in jeopardy.

West had made a vulnerable overcall on a queen high suit and probably would hold all missing high cards. In that case there was no reason to do any finessing at all.

Instead, South played the king of clubs. West took the ace and led a second heart for South to ruff. Now South played his ace of diamonds, led a spade to dummy's ace, ruffed dummy's last heart, played a club back to dummy's jack and led dummy's last club to his own queen.

West was stone dead. If he ruffed he would have to lead a spade or a heart. If he did not ruff South would ruff his last club and throw West in with the king of diamonds to put him in the same losing position.
