

Low-Income Applicants Due At Abundant Food Center

Applications from low-income families in the Roseburg area who plan to participate in the Douglas County abundant foods program will be accepted beginning Monday at the food distribution center at 2660 NE Stephens St.

Families from other sections of the county, with the exception of the Reedsport area, will be required at present to travel to Roseburg to participate in the program.

Applicants must appear in person to register and become qualified for the program, but may send proxies to pick up their food supplies during the following months. Applicants should be prepared to name their proxy when signing up for the program.

Determination Due

Determination of qualification for low-income families will be made by the Douglas County Welfare Department. This does not, however, mean families qualifying for the program will go on welfare, as the department in this instance has been called on only to provide qualifying personnel for the program.

Persons who do qualify will be given their first month's supply of free food at the time of qualification.

Welfare Director Gary Loomas listed the following schedule for residents of the county who will take part in the program at the Roseburg distribution center:

Applications from persons whose last names start with the letters

A through M will be accepted from June 10 to June 12. Applications from persons whose last names start with the letters O through Z will be accepted from June 17 to June 20. The distribution center will be open from 8 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. on all days.

Reedsport Sited

For those persons in the Reedsport area, applications will be accepted on June 25-26 at the new county shops building on the corner of Winchester Avenue and Second Street. The same hours will apply at Reedsport.

Loomas listed the following requirements for low-income families (non-welfare families) to be eligible for the program:

- 1.—The net income of the family shall not exceed the following income scale for the 30-day period immediately preceding application: 1 person, income of $102; 2 persons, income of $147; 3 persons, income of $186; 4 persons, income of $225; 5 or 6 persons, income of $269; 7 to 9 persons, income of $300; 10 or more persons, income of $353. Income means wages, earnings, Social Security benefits, pensions, military allowances, income from boarders, etc.
- 2.—In addition, each adult in the family unit is allowed a $250 cash reserve or assets. Cash reserves include all cash equities in checking and saving accounts, cash value of life insurance policies, stocks, bonds, collectable claims and loans, etc. In other words, a family of two adults may hold reserves in the amount of $500.

If a person receives from another person essential items such as shelter, food, utilities, clothing, etc., a cash value will be assigned to such items at agency standards and this amount shall be regarded as income, available to the person. An example would be a situation where a married son and his wife are living in the home of his parents, and receiving free room. A cash value is assigned to this free room, and considered as "income."

3. Persons making application must present verification of their income and resources at the time of application. Verifications such as check stubs, Social Security award letter, bank book are acceptable proof. Every person must present written verification of his identity, i.e. Social Security card, driver's license, etc.
4. An established address is a requirement, and must be verified. A rent receipt or payment book are suggested sources of verification, current address on a driver's license would be acceptable.
5. Eligibility to receive surplus funds extends only to persons having private cooking facilities which are used for preparation of their own foods. This excludes persons in hospitals, nursing homes and other types of "living in" arrangements.

Mattress Fire Damage Is $100

A mattress fire at the home of Marie Osborne, 1225 SE Cobb St., caused a reported $100 damage Thursday.

The Roseburg City Fire Department received the call at 5:43 p.m., and when firemen reached the scene found a mattress blazing and the house filled with smoke. The cause of the fire was listed as a mattress being shoved against an electric heater while Mrs. Osborne was moving into the house.

Damage to the mattress and smoke damage to the house resulted in the $100 loss. The property is owned by O. P. Van Horn.

Earlier in the day the City Fire Department and the Roseburg Rural Fire Department responded on two calls to the Veterans Hospital. The calls were the result of an overloaded transformer which began smoking at Building No. 2. No damage was reported.

At 4:10 a.m. today the City Fire Department was called to extinguish a minor fire at the railroad yard. A box car load of chips was smoldering and the firemen quickly doused the flames with 200 gallons of water. No damage resulted.

State Park At Eel Lake Dedicated In Honor Of William Tugman

By DAWN PESEAU
Reedsport Correspondent

A representative audience from near and far sat on the shore of Eel Lake south of Reedsport Thursday afternoon and heard various speakers illuminate, with words, the concept which the setting symbolized.

The occasion was the dedication to the memory and honor of William M. Tugman, the state park at Eel Lake.

Widow Views Ceremony

Foremost among the honored guests on the speaker's platform was Mrs. Tugman, widow of the man who had zealously championed recognition for the development of outdoor recreation; for the setting aside of land for the perpetuation of natural settings, and for recognition of the economic and dollar-and-cents values of the increasing tourist industry.

Warne Nunn, executive assistant to the Governor, represented Gov. Mark O. Hatfield. His address underscored the importance of increasing emphasis on outdoor recreation.

Nunn listed the name of Bill Tugman among the list of conservation leaders and declared that in the future assessment of their contributions to mankind, "none will shine more brightly than that of Bill Tugman."

Nunn Notes Importance

Nunn took the occasion to cite the practical importance of outdoor development, stating that, since 1954, overnight use of the Oregon state parks has increased from 100,000 to 830,000 last year, John Amacher of Winchester, chairman of the Douglas County Parks Department, represented the Oregon Game Commission of which he has been a member for the past several years. He told the Game Commission experience with Eel Lake, which was taken over largely for use as a trout brood lake in the artificial propagation program.

He related the deteriorated condition of the 350-acre lake, the shoreline and watershed, which had been logged off, and the lake used as a booming area. The Game Commission took it over, using it for the trout propagation program, and later considered selling it. At one time, the City of Reedsport had an option on the lake, but did not exercise it.

Concept Is Underscored

Amacher underscored another concept which Tugman took an active part in advocating when he declared that "it is soon to be expected that we will have an adjacent national seashore recreation area to perpetuate our heritage."

Alfred Collier, member of the State Parks and Recreation Advisory Committee spoke intimately of Tugman's life of service through his career as a newspaper writer and editor, and through his non-professional activities.

Seated in the audience, a number of guests of honor at a luncheon preceding the ceremonies, were the sons and daughter of the editor and their families, among them Mr. and Mrs. William Tugman, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tugman and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Stone.

Profumo Scandle Probe Demanded

LONDON (UPI)—Britain's Labor party today demanded a full-scale investigation of War Minister John Profumo's resignation in a sex scandal that shook the British government.

The opposition party called for an inquiry in parliament into any possible breach of security resulting from Profumo's relations with a red-haired playgirl who also was friendly with a Soviet assistant naval attaché.

At the same time Queen Elizabeth waived protocol so that Profumo would not have to go through the ceremony of appearing before her to hand in his seals of office.

Labor party leader Harold Wilson, mounting a major offensive against the government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, demanded that the Profumo case be debated as soon as parliament resumed on June 17.

Wilson said he would open the attack personally.

The Labor party move heightened the furor over the resignation of Profumo, who admitted Wednesday night that he lied when he told parliament last March 22 there had been no "improprieties" in his relations with Christine Keeler, 21.

Party leaders said they were particularly concerned about Miss

Keeler's friendliness with Capt. Eugene Ivanov, assistant Soviet naval attaché, at a time when she also was seeing Profumo. Ivanov was recalled to Moscow last December.

Opposition Unlikely

It was not considered likely that the ruling Conservative party would attempt to block the debate of the Profumo case, which could lead to a censure vote against the government.

Profumo's attorneys disclosed today that he had asked to be excused from the formal ceremony of appearing before the queen as scheduled by protocol next week. The queen, it was learned, had granted the request.

Wilson has said the Labor party is interested primarily in the security aspects of the Profumo case rather than in the propriety of the former war minister's personal life.

As the opposition made its move against the government, Britain's Secret Service already was reported at work investigating any possible threat to the nation's security as a result of Profumo's relations with the playgirl, whose friends ranged from those in high society to Negroes from the West Indies.

PLUCKY YOUNGSTER — Dwight Roberts, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Roberts, of the Melrose area, didn't panic after a spill on the motorcycle he was riding Wednesday morning resulted in a broken leg. Dwight set and splinted his own leg with materials at hand — sticks he could find and his T-shirt torn into shreds. Then, with the use of tree limbs, he hobbled to his home, over a hill two miles away on the little used logging road where he was riding to visit a friend. It took him three hours to reach home. He did such a good job setting the leg his attending physician didn't even have to reset it. This was the boy's second break of the same leg since last fall. (News-Review photo)

Merely Players' New Show Called Sure-Fire Pleaser

By ANDY FAUTHEREE
News-Review Staff Writer

Dave Hooper, "Bo" in the Merely Players' production of "Bus Stop" presented Thursday night, was the scene stealer again.

Hooper, a long lanky young man who seemed to fit the part of a hillbilly so well in Roseburg High School's "Li'l Abner" not so long ago, popped up again as the boy from the backwoods and kept the audience laughing until the tears were rolling.

It was too bad there weren't more people at the play to watch this lad. One doesn't have to be a fan of the theater to enjoy the entertainment of his antics. From the moment he came on stage, he was every bit the loud-mouthed Montana cowboy he was portraying. For some reason, as he did in "Li'l Abner," Hooper looks like one of the real "McCoys."

of Cherie opposite Hooper a nd through many long series of lines, carried her part like a trouper. Miss Knight has been active in the theater group since she appeared two summers ago in "Damn Yankees."

There were several new faces for the Merely Players in the production. Percy Barkwell, as Grace, the restaurant owner, a d d e smoothness and ease to the play. For a short while and making it look authentic would be a real challenge to any actor, but Allen Nash as Dr. Lyman, the almost, but not quite, dead-drunk professor, played his part as if there was really alcohol in that little silver flask he kept pulling out of his pocket. The part might have been overdone by another, but Nash was perfect.

First Play

"Bus Stop" was presented as the first play of the Merely Players in their new home, The Umpqua West Theater. (See page 5.) It is scheduled to run for two more performances, tonight and Saturday, with curtain at 8:20.

The play is a top-notch comedy that gained fame when Marilyn Monroe played the female lead in the movie version. It takes place in a street-corner restaurant in a small town about 30 miles west of Kansas City. Because of snow-blocked roads, a bus is forced to stop over at the town. The characters of the play are the passengers of the bus and the town people associated with the restaurant.

Judy Shines
Judy Knight played the lead part

Some other new faces were Connie Bakke as Elma, Felix Samaron as Bo's sidekick, Virgil, and John Zerbach as Will, the town's sheriff. Dan Hill was the bus driver, Carl. All of these players came through with flying colors.

It would be a shame for anyone to pass up the entertainment of "Bus Stop." It's the players' first production in their new home, and they've got a sure hit.

One note on the group's new theater, the cushioned theater style seats are much better than usual folding metal chairs.

OAKLAND BIBLE SCHOOL
The Oakland Church of Christ will hold Vacation Bible School at the church starting Monday and running through June 21.

Hours will be from 9 to 11:45 a.m. The church pastor, the Rev. R. D. Spaulding, will be in charge.
