Boros Stays On Comeback Trail With Strong Buick Open Victory

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (UPI)—Big Julius Boros today credited his golfing comeback to a Georgia thief.

When the hammering Hungarian's putter was stolen at the Masters tournament at Augusta in April, he reached into his closet and pulled out an old one. "It might have been one of the best breaks I ever had," Boros said Sunday after walking off with the Buick Open championship and its accompanying $9,000 purse that moved him into third place on this year's money-winning list with a $43,325 bankroll.

Using the same old putter, the likeable "Moose" ended a three-year victory drought last month by winning the Colonial Invitation and added a second and a fourth-place finish on the tour before showing up here for the Buick Open.

Although Boros went into Sunday's final 36-hole grind with a four-stroke lead over the field, golf's wisecracks figured the 43-year-old Connecticut Yankee didn't have the stamina to hang in there.

But the Moose fooled 'em all by shooting a 68 in the morning third round and following up with a final round 69. That gave him a record-breaking, 14-under-par 274 and a five-shot victory over former PGA king Dow Finsterwald.

Boros, in joining Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer as the only multiple winners on the current tour, chopped eight strokes off

Record Chinook Run Is Reported In Umpqua; Steelhead Count Up

Chinook and summer steelhead are being counted at the Winchester Dam fish ladder at a record setting pace.

During the period of May 16-31 a total of 5,112 adult chinooks were counted. This brought the total through May to 6,716, a figure higher than the total counts for the past nine years.

In addition, 870 jacks were counted at the dam, bringing the total for the season to 942.

Summer steelhead began pouring over the dam early in May, with a total of 712 being registered to date. Of the total count, 510 came over the dam during the last two weeks of May.

Anglers are reminded that the chinook season on the North Umpqua is closed, but jacks and summer steelhead may be taken.

McBride Overcomes Tragedy, Shines For Angels

Grieving Ken McBride had little desire for baseball Sunday. No one in the world would have blamed him had he decided not to pitch. But he forced himself to and turned in a magnificent job, considering his heart and mind were 2,400 miles away.

Only a few hours before he was scheduled to pitch against the Minnesota Twins at Los Angeles Sunday, the Angel right-hander was informed that his younger brother, Clifton, 24, had been killed in a Cleveland auto accident.

Manager Bill Rigney told McBride he could leave for Cleveland immediately and another pitcher would take his turn. McBride said he'd rather pitch before joining his family.

"I felt it would take my mind off what happened," he said, then went out and beat the Twins, 4-2, although he needed Mel Nelson's help in the ninth.

"I thought about what happened back in Cleveland a couple of times while I was working a couple of long innings but I tried to keep it out of my mind," he revealed later.

The Twins, who had a four-game winning streak going, looked as if they were going to kayo McBride in a hurry when they scored a run off him in the first inning and another in the second on Jimmie Hall's homer.

But the 27-year-old blanked them thereafter without any trouble until he put two men on in the ninth. Nelson came in at that point and struck out pinch hitters Wally Post and Johnny Goryl to preserve McBride's sixth victory.

McBride fanned seven and allowed seven hits in the 8-1-3 innings he pitched. The Angels got to Jim Perry for three runs in the fourth inning and picked up one more off Ray Moore in the eighth.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Chicago White Sox took over first place with a 4-3 triumph over the Kansas City A's, the Boston Red Sox beat the Baltimore Orioles, 3-2, in 14 innings, the New York Yankees ended a three-game losing slide with a 6-2 win over the Detroit Tigers, and the Cleveland Indians downed the Washington Senators, 7-3.

Pete Ward paced the White Sox into first place when he collected three hits, including his sixth homer, and scored two runs against the Athletics. Juan Pizarro picked up his sixth victory in a relief role while Bill Fischer suffered his second loss in nine decisions. Ed Charles homered for the A's.

Chuck Schilling singled home Russ Nixon with the tying run for the Red Sox in the ninth inning and then singled home Nixon with the winning run in the 14th to drop the Orioles into second place. Schilling's game-winning single came off loser Stu Miller. Dick Radatz blanked Baltimore on two hits and struck out 10 over the last six innings for his fourth victory in five decisions.

Home runs by Harry Bright, Tom Tresh, Cleo Boyer and Hector Lopez helped southpaw Whitey Ford register his eighth victory for the Yankees in their game with the Tigers. Rookie Mickey Lolich was the losing pitcher.

Woodie Held drove in three runs with a double and two singles and Vic Davalillo and Fred Whitfield also collected three hits.
