

Roseburg Woman Critically Injured In Auto Mishap Near Tye Bridge

A 20-year-old Roseburg woman remained in critical condition today at Sacred Heart Hospital in Eugene, where she was being treated for injuries sustained in a one-car accident Wednesday night. Officials at the hospital said Leo J. Janette Hanson, of 1546 SE Kane St., Roseburg, was being treated for head injuries and possible internal injuries.

According to state police, the accident occurred about 9:50 p.m. Wednesday on state Highway 225 near the Tye bridge. They said the vehicle driven by the Roseburg woman was traveling east, left the highway and traveled along the right hand shoulder, and upon coming back on the highway the car rolled over. The operator was thrown from the vehicle, a late model convertible. The driver was taken to Douglas Community Hospital in Roseburg and then on to the Eugene hospital.

This was one of four accidents investigated by state police from Roseburg Wednesday.

Two Little River men were listed as being in fair condition this morning at Douglas Community Hospital, where they are being treated for injuries sustained when the vehicle in which they were riding ran into a ditch on the Dixonville Road just east of the Dixonville Store about 1 p.m.

State police said the vehicle, driven by William Taft Goucher, 54, Little River Grocery, Gluck, was declared a total wreck. Passenger in the car was Lois George McVay, 32, of the same address.

An Oakland log truck driver escaped injury when his truck was involved in a sideswipe with a car and plunged over a 50-foot bank, rolling on its top.

State police said the accident occurred about 7 a.m. on Route 225 two miles west of Sutherland when a car driven by Alice Marie Perkins, 37, of Empire, was attempting to pass the log truck when the two vehicles sideswiped. The log truck was driven by Samuel Dale Baimbridge, Kellogg Star Route, Oakland.

The car came to rest on the north shoulder of the road and the log truck rolled over the bank.

The other accident occurred about 3:45 p.m. on Carnes Road near the entrance to the National Plywood dump when a car driven by Laura May Hampton, 48, of Medford, and a car driven by Ralph S. Young, 18, of 461 W. Broccoli St., Roseburg, collided. State police said the Hampton vehicle was traveling east on Carnes Road and the Young vehicle pulled out of a driveway at National Plywood.

EVEN HAPPY, THIS HORSE LOOKS FEROCIOUS — This horse and others in the background are part of a herd of 40 which arrived in Roseburg Wednesday from the Roy Kohrs ranch in Tres Pinos, Calif. Though placid now while grazing in the center area of the Douglas County Fairgrounds track, the horses will turn into heaving men of war Saturday night and Sunday afternoon during the Douglas County Rodeo. Some 60 bulls and steers were scheduled to arrive today.

Myrtle Creek Gets Preliminary Plans For Remodeling Of School

The Myrtle Creek School Board Wednesday night received preliminary plans for remodeling the Tri-City Elementary School into a high school.

Architect John Briscoe presented two sets of plans, one for making it a 500-student high school and the other for a 700-student building. The plan to convert the grade school building into a high school is still in the proposal stage, corresponding to Mr. Lorraine Birenbaum reported.

Briscoe was asked to continue development of both plans, working closely with the school administration to develop the plans to tie in with Myrtle Creek curriculum needs.

Study Policy
The board requested Superintendent of Schools Al Neet to check with the district's attorney, George Neuner, to determine a policy on whether the district should offer financial aid to meet medical costs incurred by a Myrtle Creek high athlete which were above the funds paid by his athletic insurance.

Jean Mason, appearing on behalf of his son, Bert, requested school assistance in paying off part of a $1,200 hospital and medical treatment bill. The boy suffered a severely broken arm during the 1961 baseball season and the insurance met only $500 of the $1,200 cost.

The board let a contract to H. W. Nutt, of Myrtle Creek, for $1,511.80 for roofing the flat deck of the high school. There were two other bidders.

Resignations Accepted
Resignations were accepted from assistant physical education director and track coach Robert Abrahamson and from eighth grade science teacher Raymond Sobba. Abrahamson will go to McMinnville and Sobba to the new junior high school in Eugene.

The board also hired four new teachers for the coming year. Ernest Defenbach was hired to teach advanced math in the high school. A University of Oregon graduate, he taught last year in Canyonville.

Howard Byerly, an Oregon graduate who taught at Medford last year, will teach ninth grade math and science. Given Kutz, a 1963 graduate of North Dakota University, will teach high school Spanish and American history. David Fuller, a graduate of the Oregon College of Education who has taught the past two years at Detroit, will teach eighth grade science.

JOHN CAWRSE ... plane tragedy victim

Langfield, 17, all of Mt. Vernon, were victims of one of the worst private plane accidents in Oregon's history. The plane, missing since Sunday, was found 45 miles west of John Day Tuesday afternoon. An investigation is under way by the Civil Aeronautics board and Federal Aviation Agency to determine cause of the crash.

Cawrse maintained a home in Remote and was here a large part of the summer during logging operations. The Cawrse Lumber Co. mill at Remote burned about four years ago, but he had a large logging operation in the area. He was to have come down next weekend.

Cawrse was at Remote and was first man on the scene in the middle 1950s, when a slide there wiped out a man and his family. When the man didn't report for work, Cawrse had gone to investigate and found the slide tragedy, then obtained help.

Cawrse was a rancher in the Mt. Vernon area, west of John Day, in addition to having logging interests.

He was placed on probation at that time, with execution of sentence suspended.

Senate Action Ires U.S. Lumber Group

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The National Lumber Manufacturers Association said today it was "indignant" about a senate committee's pigeonholing a proposal to require lumber imports from Canada to be marked as to country of origin.

The trade association said it understood the proposal was sidetracked for fear of ruffling U.S.-Canadian relations.

The measure, a keystone in the drive to reduce Canada's $280 million a year softwood lumber sales in the United States, had been offered as an amendment to a House-passed bill dealing with marking other imported articles. The Senate Finance Committee Wednesday ordered the bill reported to the Senate floor without the amendment.

"We're indignant," an NLMA spokesman said. "We're rather distressed at those members of Congress who continue to see the problems of American lumbermen through Canadian glasses."

Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, who sponsored the amendment, said the proposal was not dead because it was embodied in other legislation before Congress. He said the lumber-marking requirement might actually fare better on its own than as a rider to the bill that was reported Wednesday.

The NLMA said it was "still committed to the principle of restricting Canadian imports to a reasonable percentage of U.S. consumption."

"We feel that the finance committee has done is to continue to ignore the desperate plight of American lumbermen in favor of some future advantage which they think our government might be able to get in future trade negotiations with the Canadians," the spokesman said.

The marking requirement would have made it easier to enforce "buy American" policies in lumber purchases. It also was a foundation for proposals to require U.S. lumber to be used in any construction financed with loans guaranteed under federal programs.

The administration had opposed the requirement in finance committee hearings.

Among other lumber measures before Congress is a bill that would restrict imported softwood lumber to 6 per cent of U.S. consumption.

Imported soft wood, almost entirely from Canada, accounted for 15 per cent of U.S. consumption last year, according to the Commerce Department. U.S. industry spokesmen have said the share has climbed to above 17 per cent this year.
