

British Playgirl Says Russian Requested Data On N-Warheads

LONDON (UPI)—A British lawyer said today that playgirl Christine Keeler had told him her Russian Embassy lover wanted her to obtain information on nuclear warheads from resigned War Minister John Profumo.

Michael Eddowes said in an interview with the Evening Standard he was making this information public because of his concern that Prime Minister Harold Macmillan might not have been fully informed of this aspect of the case by the special branch of Scotland Yard.

Eddowes claimed he submitted a full report of his knowledge of the relations between Miss Keeler and Capt. Eugene Ivanov, a former assistant naval attaché in the Soviet Embassy and suspected intelligence agent, last March 29.

The lawyer told the Evening Standard he had been a patient of society osteopath Dr. Stephen Ward who is in jail awaiting trial on charges of living wholly or partly on the earnings of prostitutes and met Miss Keeler in Ward's apartment last November.

Asks For Advice

About a month later, he said Miss Keeler rang and asked him to advise her because of an attempt by West Indian John Edgecombe, who claims to have been a lover of hers, to shoot his way into her apartment. Edgecombe was sentenced to seven years for the offense.

Eddowes said he went to see the 21-year-old playgirl.

"After we had discussed the shooting," he said, according to the Evening Standard, "she told me in reply to my question that she had had an affair with both Capt. Ivanov and Mr. Profumo."

"Realizing the possible implications of this I asked: 'Did Ivanov ever ask you to get information from Mr. Profumo?'"

"She replied: 'Yes.'"

"Anything in particular," I asked.

"She replied: 'He asked me to obtain the date of delivery of nuclear warheads to West Germany.'"

"I asked her if she had obtained this information and she said she had not."

"Asked why he had decided to make this known only three days before the House of Commons debate on a possible security risk in the Profumo scandal, Eddowes said he was doing so as a 'public duty.'"

Macmillan, whose position as prime minister depends on the outcome of the Commons debate, as does perhaps the fate of his government, summoned Home Secretary Henry Brooke back from the Channel Islands with an early morning telephone call today.

Brooke was rushed home in a naval frigate and immediately conferred with Macmillan and the lord chancellor, Lord Dilhorne, whose investigation of the Profumo case has satisfied the regime that security was not

JFK Reveals Supersonic Plane Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy today outlined for Congress his proposal for a commercial supersonic airliner. The cost over the next six years might run as high as $1 billion.

Kennedy sent a letter to House Speaker John W. McCormack and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, presiding officer of the Senate, sketching the general outline program.

He also notified Congress he would submit shortly a formal request for funds to meet immediate requirements of the program—particularly a detailed competition with the private aircraft industry to design the plane.

A definite decision to proceed with development of a prototype commercial transport capable of flying 2½ times the speed of sound was announced by the President last week in an address at the Air Force Academy in Colorado.

In his letter to the House and Senate presiding officers today, Kennedy envisioned a development program in which the government investment would not be allowed to exceed $750 million.

He proposed that private aircraft manufacturers pay a minimum of 25 per cent of the development cost. He also recommended that airlines purchasing the supersonic aircraft after its development be expected to repay part of the government's development cost through royalty payments.

"These requirements for cost sharing by the manufacturers will assure that the cost of the program will be held to the absolute minimum," the President said.

He emphasized that the government did not intend to pay any production, purchase or operating subsidies to manufacturers or airlines involved in developing the new plane.

"The cost of such a program is large—it could be as great as $1 billion for a development program of about six years," the President said in his letter.

"This is beyond the financial capability of our aircraft manufacturers. We cannot, however, permit this high cost, nor the difficulties and risks of such an ambitious program, to preclude this country from participating in the logical next development of a commercial aircraft."

France and Britain already are in the process of developing a supersonic airliner, and are expected to have a craft ready for commercial use well ahead of the United States. However, the U.S. version envisioned by Kennedy would be faster than the French one.

The accident occurred about 11:30 a.m. and it took the men until 5 p.m. to reach Bonneville Dam.

It was the second Oregon National Guard helicopter accident in the past month.

TROPHIES SUCH AS THIS will go to the top polled Herefords shown by 4-H and Future Farmers of America stock raisers at the Douglas County Fair this year. The trophies will be awarded by the Oregon Poll-ettes, auxiliary to the Oregon Hereford Association. The auxiliary, just formed as the second state organization in the nation, is headed by Mrs. L. R. Oucpaugh, above, of Oakland. Her husband is a member of the men's organization. The Oucpaughs have a herd of 80 Herefords. (News-Review photo)

Oaklander Named President Of Cattle Raisers' Wives

Mrs. L. R. Oucpaugh of Oakland has been elected first president of the recently-organized Oregon Poll-ettes, comprised of the wives of polled Hereford raisers throughout the state.

The new president's husband operates the Tye Polled Hereford Ranch, Umpqua Star Route, Oakland.

Other officers are Mrs. Dick Hill, first vice president of Salem; Mrs. R. B. Sears, second vice president, of Salem; Mrs. Bill Wolfe, secretary, of Willows, and Mrs. Justin Snyder, treasurer, of Enterprise.

Directors are to be appointed by Mrs. Oucpaugh at the organization's June meeting.

The Poll-ettes are planning to attend as many fairs in Oregon as possible this year, even though they have a late start in organizing. They will have representatives at the Oregon State Fair and the Pacific International Livestock Exposition in Portland.

In 1964, their activities will be seen at a great many of the fairs throughout the state, where they will be presenting trophies to the members of the 4-H and FFA who show the best Polled Hereford. The trophies will have a map of Oregon on them, with a bronze head of a polled Hereford mounted on a walnut base.

Mrs. Oucpaugh said the aim of the Poll-ettes is to encourage young people of the 4-H and FFA to raise quality Polled Herefords and show them at fairs. "In so doing," she said, "the Poll-ettes feel that each time another breed of animal is shown in competition it too must be improved in quality, so the program is really seeking to upgrade the quality of all beef animals shown by the young people of these two organizations."

Membership is open to all wives and daughters of Polled Hereford breeders, mothers of 4-H and FFA members, their advisers and teachers and all other women who are interested in the program. Women in this area wishing further information on the organization are asked to contact Mrs. Oucpaugh.

Arlington Rites Scheduled For Slain Integrationist

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—The sorrowing family of civil rights leader Medgar Evers prepared today for his trip to Arlington National Cemetery not many miles from the Washington FBI lab that began a microscopic study of his slaying.

The Evers case evidence was bundled up by police Thursday and sent by courier to the FBI. The record included a .30 caliber rifle, the apparent murder weapon, and a fingerprint taken from the gun.

Mayor Allen Thompson assigned 30 officers to the case and promised that "we will not rest until it is solved."

Evers was murdered early Wednesday.

Funeral Scheduled Saturday

Evers' funeral will be held Saturday at the Masonic Temple where Evers' office was located. The father of three children, he was state field secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP).

Mrs. Floyd Easterday

Mrs. Floyd (Jane) Easterday, 91, of Myrtle Creek, died Thursday night at a Myrtle Creek hospital following a short illness.

Funeral announcements will be made later by Ganz Mortuary in Myrtle Creek.

Wheat, Meat Production Make Argentina One Of Latin-Americas Richest Nations

This is the last in a series describing five Latin American countries which the Roseburg Sister City Committee is considering for selection. The sister city will be chosen from one of the five—Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Mexico or Uruguay. Next week, The News-Review will publish a ballot asking all readers to offer their aid in the selection of the country.

It is a Spanish speaking country, but Italian, French, English, German and Portuguese are widely spoken. Most Argentines are nominally Catholic, but since the early days of the republic, a strong anti-clerical movement has existed, and a big segment of the population does not practice Catholicism.

Because wheat and meat are such big commodities in the economy, it ranks as a strong competitor to the United States. Only about 10 per cent of its commerce is with the U. S.

While the other countries are now populated largely by mestizos (mixtures of Indian and European), Argentina is about 90 per cent European (mostly Italian and Spanish). Its Indian population amounts to only about 2 per cent.

Argentina politically is more or less chaotic. It is still trying to stabilize itself after the rule of dictator Juan Peron. Peron, who is now exiled in Spain, has contributed little to the stabilization because of his long-distance control of a strong pro-Peron element in the country.

Contributing to the political problem is the almost inherent disaffection between Buenos Aires and the rest of the country, stemming from the days when the capital city was an independent power.

Another parcel is that the Europeans who first came to the country won it through wars with savage Indians.

As with the cowboy of U. S. tradition, this is where the Argentine gaucho won his fame.

Argentina has little trouble with Communists, but its last 2½ decades have been heavily larded with fascism. The country had strong tendencies to follow the lines of Germany and Italy during the late 30s and early 40s. And it was on this militant following that Peron consolidated his position as dictator. The military is still the strength of political power.

Economically, it is the breadbasket of South America. Great wheat production and vast herds of cattle go hand in hand to make it a major world agricultural area. Foreign trade is a dominant influence in Argentine life. The country's trade with other nations averages a third of all Argentine buying and selling. Most of this business goes to Europe.

The country has many cities to choose from as sister cities, since more than half the population lives in the 25 cities of 20,000 or more inhabitants. Total population in the country, which is about a third the size of the continental United States, is about 21 million.

Argentina has four U. S. cities with sister city affiliations.

Methodists Make Pulpit Appointment

The newly-appointed pastor is leaving a business career to enter the ministry. His formal training is in engineering. Even though his Funeral services for Mrs. Matie Heller, 85, a resident of Glendale for more than 50 years, who died Thursday at a Grants Pass rest home, will be held in the Glendale Masonic Temple at 2 p.m. Monday.

Officers of the Glendale chapter of Eastern Star will conduct ritual services. The Rev. Norman Nugler will officiate. The Hull and Hull Mortuary of Grants Pass is in charge of arrangements.

Heller at Clintonville, Wis., and moved to Glendale later that year. The couple had a place near the Rogue River for about five years during the period. Mr. Heller died in 1921. After his death Mrs. Heller worked in a local store and then served as a clerk in the post office for more than 20 years. She had been the Glendale city treasurer for several years.

She was a past matron of Order of Eastern Star, past noble grand of the Rebekah Lodge, and a secretary of the Glendale chapter of OES for 33 years. A social club of the OES bears her name.

Survivors include one son, John of Empire; one daughter, Mrs. Muriel Karger of Glendale; one granddaughter, Mrs. Barbara Magnusson of Honolulu; two sisters, Mrs. Marguerite Hunn of San Diego and Mrs. Grace Armstrong of Remer, Minn.; and several nephews.

She was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail, but execution of sentence was suspended for six months, and she was placed on probation.

7 Enter Pleas For Mail Fraud

PORTLAND (UPI)—Seven men have been released on their own recognizance after pleading innocent to mail fraud charges stemming from an Oregon land development project.

The men were indicted by a federal grand jury May 31. They entered pleas Thursday and trial was set for Oct. 15 in U.S. District Court.

The defendants are Richard D. Walker, Los Angeles; George E. Isaacs, Glendale, Calif.; Maurice A. Hall, Beverly Hills, Calif.; Abraham Koolish, Winnetka, Ill.; David F. Koolish, Winnetka, Ill.; John M. Phillips, Evanston, Ill.; and Jack Cherbo, Chicago.

The indictment charged them with using deceptive literature depicting lakes, mountains and water sports activities to sell 7,000 acres of desert land in the Lake Valley area of Harney County.

The sale price was $395 an acre. Justice Department officials and local authorities estimated the land's value at $20 an acre.

Federal Judge Gus J. Solomon granted the seven 20 days in which to file motions in the case and gave them permission to return to their home states.

Canyonville Board Eyes Unification

Interest in possible reorganization of School Districts 8 of Canyonville and 19 of Myrtle Creek was expressed by several patrons of Dist. 8 at the regular meeting of the board of directors this week in the high school.

As a result of the interest expressed, the board voted to consult with the Dist. 19 board to see if a unification of Districts 19 and 8 as a result of reorganization would be possible. The patrons who visited asked Paul Klenke to be their chairman and promised to act as a citizen's committee to assist the board in disseminating reorganization information.

Mr. E. Proctor reports.

In other business, the board accepted the bid of Hancock's Richmond Service to provide the district's vehicles with gas at .218 per gallon. Betty McKenna was hired to teach in the elementary grades. The newest board member, Joseph Bromley, was sworn in.

Next meeting of the board will be the second Monday in August.
