Roseburg Division May Be Next In S. Umpqua Feasibility Study

A feasibility study of the Roseburg Division of the Umpqua River Basin Project may be next for the Bureau of Reclamation, now that the Olalla study is almost completed.

The Roseburg Division includes the area along the South Umpqua River from the Tiller area to its confluence with the North Umpqua River. A dam in the Tiller area has been suggested to serve this division.

It was reported this week, the Bureau is tentatively planning to start feasibility studies in the division. This would be in addition, and supplemental to, the studies being conducted by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Consensus Would Decide
If these studies indicate water storage facilities are feasible, then Congress would determine which agency would accomplish the final planning and construction. The Bureau is particularly charged with determining possible irrigation benefits.

As a preliminary to the bureau studies, the Douglas County Water Resources Survey has been requested to furnish ownership maps of possible irrigable areas and to determine those owners who would desire water for irrigation.

The preparation of ownership maps is almost completed. Now a questionnaire has been prepared to determine whether or not property owners would irrigate if water were made available. The questionnaire also requests information as to lands now under irrigation, water rights, and whether enough water is available to satisfy these rights. (Any lands being irrigated without a water right may be cut off without warning.)

Black Muslims Found Guilty

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—A Superior Court jury which had deliberated for 18 days returned a guilty verdict Friday night against 11 of 14 black Muslims for participating in a riot April 27, 1962, outside the temple of the militant Negro sect.

Two men were cleared of all charges, including the principal defendant—the Rev. John Morris, pastor of the temple. A mistrial was declared in the case of a third man.

About 100 persons had participated in the riot, in which one person was killed and about a dozen black Muslims and police were injured.

The all-white jury found the defendants guilty of charges ranging from interference with police officers to assault on officers. Four who had been convicted last Monday heard their verdicts read again.

The 18-day deliberation was the longest in the history of Los Angeles County, surpassing the second murder trial of Dr. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff, in which the panel emerged deadlocked after 17 days of deliberations.

All those convicted were directed to return for sentencing July 16. Defense attorneys said they would appeal.

New Winchester Fish Ladder Due

Fisheries biologists employed by Pacific Power & Light Co. are designing a new ladder for the Winchester Dam on the North Umpqua River which will incorporate new concepts of fish passage learned since the old dam was built.

Dr. Roy Hamilton, chief biologist for the company's research department, reported the company has been working with design plans since last summer. He said the survey work was completed at that time during the low water season, and the designs have been directed by Jack Hanel, Medford, one of the company's fisheries research biologists.

The PP&L biologist said the rebuilding will be undertaken this year during the low water season and be completed by the beginning of the fall month runoff.

"Although there are still many mysteries about the upstream and downstream behavior of migrating fish in Northwest rivers, the relatively low structure of the Winchester Dam on the North Umpqua offers an opportunity to incorporate what we have learned about fish. Our experience indicates the new plan will improve fish passage," Dr. Hamilton reported.

The biologist said the new designs are not yet completed for the replacement of the north bank ladder on the dam, and that the designs have been developed in consultation with the Game Commission.

Racial Tension Erupts As Evers' Rites Near

By United Press International
Negro and white leaders planned to resume negotiations toward easing racial tensions today in Cambridge, Md., where National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets enforced a "limited martial law."

Racial tension also was at a high pitch in Fayetteville, N. C., where about 150 demonstrators were arrested Friday night, and Negroes in Jackson, Miss., were expected to turn out in great numbers for the funeral of Medgar Evers, murdered civil rights leader.

Racial unrest continued in Danville, Va., and in other cities both North and South.

Maryland Gov. J. Millard Tawes said that after a three-hour meeting Friday in his Annapolis office Negro and white leaders in Cambridge agreed to resume negotiations which collapsed when violence broke out earlier this week.

Impose Curfew
National Guardsmen, called out Friday, clamped a 10 o'clock curfew on the city at night. A crowd of about 100 irate Negroes finally dispersed without any action by the troops after their leader begged them to "think of your women and children" and go home quietly.

A teen-aged white youth was slightly wounded Friday night in Jackson when he rode by a group of Negro youths.

Police said Mac McGee, 19, received a minor wound in his right shoulder from a 22-caliber bullet while riding with some friends through a "borderline neighborhood." He was treated at a Jackson hospital.

Warrants Issued
Police in Danville continued their search for Negro leaders on whom warrants have been sworn out charging them with violation of a new get-tough ordinance against mass demonstrations.

About 300 Negroes attempted to desegregate some restaurants and hotels in Fayetteville, N.C., Friday night and police arrested 150 for violating the city's anti-trespass laws, obstructing traffic and disobeying law enforcement officers.

There were these other racial developments:
Charleston, S. C. — Police arrested 82 Negroes attempting to desegregate a hotel and several restaurants.

Savannah, Ga. — The chamber of commerce asked businessmen to desegregate downtown facilities and Negroes called off demonstrators "for several days" to see what happens.

Atlanta — The Atlanta public schools accepted 86 of 191 applications of Negroes to transfer from all-Negro schools to predominantly white schools.

Stamford, Conn. — Former baseball star Jackie Robinson sent President Kennedy an urgent plea to provide federal protection for the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who will attend Evers' funeral.

Jackson, Tenn. — A federal judge ordered officials of Jackson and Madison County to submit plans for classroom integration by next month.

Charlottesville, Va. — The city council announced the appointment of an inter-racial committee to work toward improving race relations.

Detroit — Negro leaders mapped plans for a "walk to freedom" through downtown Detroit June 23, hoping for a turnout of 100,000 persons. Gov. George Romney declined an invitation to participate, but said he would send a representative.

Seven Timber Tracts Sold To Douglas Firms Friday

Seven tracts of timber containing 8,245,000 board feet were sold Friday by the Roseburg district of the Bureau of Land Management for $162,304.25.

Of this volume, about 60 per cent was sold in order to salvage timber damaged by the Columbus Day windstorm last year.

Four other tracts brought no bids, and two will be held open for 90 days during which time bids for not less than the appraised price will be received.

Two tracts in the Elk Creek area, containing 4,952,000 board feet and one between Brush Creek and Brads Creek in northern Douglas County were bought by Woolley Logging Co. of Drain at the appraised prices. The company also purchased at the appraised price a tract of 446,000 on Brush Creek.

Another tract containing 1,043,000 board feet on Oldham Creek was purchased by J. O. Logging Co. of Glide for $25,516.50. High bid for Douglas fir was $24.50. Other qualifying bidders were Douglas County Lumber Co. of Roseburg, Mt. Baldy Lumber Co. of Yoncalla and Lumber Sales Inc. of Roseburg.

A tract on Brush Creek containing 1,154,000 board feet was purchased at the appraised price by Mt. Baldy Lumber Co.

The final tract, located west of Camas Valley and containing 302,000 board feet was claimed by Skeels Logging Co. of Winchester for $6,585.20. High bid for Douglas fir was $23.25 per thousand. Other bidders were Allen L. Cooper and Harold Harpole. This tract was offered for sale May 28 but received no bid at that time.

New Math Course Set For Oakland

The Oakland School District has received word its application to substitute the use of the Greater Cleveland Mathematics Program for the Oregon program has been approved by the state Department of Education to improve subject teaching.

The Oakland district will start the program in the first three grades and will then move it into other grades.

Materials and information for the request were prepared by Supt. Cecil Barnett and Elementary Principal Lyle Eddy. It was approved by the Oakland School Board before being presented to the state department for approval.

The new program was developed by the Educational Research Council of Greater Cleveland over a period of three years and is being published by Science Research Associates Inc. Development involved use of more than 100,000 children in 27 public schools.

The program represents a major departure from the traditional methods of teaching mathematics. Hard-covered textbooks have been replaced by brightly-colored, padded work sheets and a number of visual and manipulative aids. Stress is placed on how and why things happen in mathematics, rather than on the traditional memorization rules.

Principal Eddy reports that testing has shown that pupils taught in this way learn more mathematics better than those taught in the traditional manner.
