

Ranch Ramblings

BY WAYNE MOSHER

Within the last couple of months, quite a number of ranchers here in Douglas county received a letter from the American Hereford Farms Inc. in Pennsylvania.

The letter indicated that they have calves to sell for feeders and breeding stock. The letter was quite attractively done, including pictures which indicated the breeding was good Hereford stock. As I recall, the price was $999 for each animal, and if ten head of herefords are purchased, then they threw in a bull free of charge, and this price was delivered at the ranch.

One Takes Advantage

So far, I only know of one rancher who has taken advantage of this offer, and I think perhaps that he is a little sorry that he did. The cattle were supposed to weigh an average of 300 pounds each, but the heaviest animal in the group weighed 320 pounds and the lightest animal in the group weighed 183 pounds.

They appeared to be mixed dairy and beef stock, and were in quite poor condition. They probably would average less than 250 pounds for the whole lot. They had not been vaccinated for brucellosis, and a good share of them were too old to be vaccinated for brucellosis, which means that they were old enough that they could have been much bigger calves than what they were if they had been properly cared for.

Price High

When you figure the price per pound, you are paying quite a high price. This amounts to about 33 cents per pound if they did average 300 pounds, and this would run up on the lighter animals were. The animals were also infected with pink-eye and generally were in pretty poor condition. It just goes to show that if you want to get a good deal, be a little bit careful about these eight-unseen deals that look pretty good on paper.

Circuit Court

Complaints

Craig I. and Helen M. Short vs. Robert R. Smith, Albina L. Smith, Custom Construction Co., an Oregon corporation; Aluminum Acceptance Corp., a Washington corporation, and Mary Della Short. Suit to foreclose on contract of sale for property on which the sum of $4,688 is alleged owing and payments in default. Property sold April 1, 1958, to Edward R. and Patricia E. Ritchie and contract assigned Jan. 15, 1962, to the Smiths. Other listed defendants claim some interest in the property. Plaintiffs ask that the contract be foreclosed and quieted in the name of the plaintiffs and barring the interest of the defendants except for Mary Della Short. Attorney fees and costs asked.

State of Oregon, by its State Highway Commission, vs. Garden Valley Shopping Center, Inc., and Umpqua Savings and Loan Association. Suit to condemn property needed by the commission for right of way in widening highway U.S. Route 99, the Sutherlin-Shady section, in the vicinity of the Garden Valley Road. State offers $26,425 for the property of the shopping center. Umpqua Savings and Loan is listed as having an interest in the property. Plaintiff asks that a jury assess the damages and that rights of access to the highway be limited.

Dwain H. Mendenhall vs. State Industrial Accident Commission. Plaintiff asks re-opening of his case and grant of further medical aid, treatment and surgery as is necessary, that unless plaintiff's condition improves substantially that he be granted permanent partial disability equal to 75 per cent loss of function of an arm for unscheduled injuries to his back and spine and 30 per cent loss of function of a left leg. Plaintiff claims that on Jan. 28, 1961, while employed by Roseburg Lumber Co., he injured his back in attempting to lift heavy steel rollers.

Arthur J. Gilbert vs. State Industrial Accident Commission. Plaintiff asks re-opening of claim and grant of compensation for temporary total disability until his condition becomes stationary, or, in the alternative, permanent total disability and pay the doctor and hospital bills incurred by the plaintiff in the treatment, and provide such further medical and hospital treatment as he shall require. Plaintiff injured May 31, 1961, while working for L. I. Burr Log Co. when he was struck by a piece of limb on the right side of his lower body.

Mardella Ambrose vs. William L. Miller. Plaintiff demands judgment for $5,000 general damages and $155 special damages. Sum asked for alleged mal-practice in dental work in process of fitting plaintiff's mouth with dentures, by defendant.

Charles L. and Mabel Vroman vs. Kenneth William and Nellie Rose Coe. Plaintiffs ask judgment for $2,000 plus interest and foreclosure on property located in Sutherlin Land and Water Co., Plat D, sold by plaintiffs to defendants on contract.

Jess A. Graves vs. George H. Paroz. Plaintiff demands judgment for general damages of $5,000 and special damages of $1,053.75 for injuries to plaintiff suffered April 18, 1963, when his parked car was struck by that operated by the defendant. Graves states that his car was parked in the parking space in front of the Tri-City Cafe and Tavern, and was struck in the left side by the defendant's car. He claims he suffered back injuries.
