It's Your Law

A "tort" is a legal wrong or injury committed upon the person or property of another. Examples are assault, battery, false imprisonment, libel, slander, malicious prosecution, alienation of affections, and negligence causing personal injuries or property damage.

The remedy provided by law to persons against whom a tort is committed is an action for money damages. Liability arises from a breach of duty primarily fixed by the law. In some cases, the person wronged may have the additional remedy of injunction or of specific restitution of property. The injured party must act in a timely manner, since the statutes impose limitations on the time within which he may begin suit.

A breach of contract is not a tort. Neither is a tort necessarily a crime, although in some instances the same act may be both a tort and a crime. For example, if one man slashes another with a knife, he may be prosecuted criminally. He may also be sued in a civil action for the injuries caused by the assault and battery.

The law of torts is not static. It grows with the growth of society. In some instances it takes an act of the legislature to keep pace with the changing attitudes of society. In other situations, new torts are developed by the courts. For example, the invasion of a person's right of privacy has come in many states to be recognized as a remediable wrong—that is, a wrong for which the law provides a remedy by way of money damages. Texas has not yet adopted this view.

Torts are sometimes classed as follows:

1. Intentional wrongs, such as trespass to land, assault and battery, false imprisonment and conversion of personal property. In all of these cases the act must be intentionally done.

2. Negligence, such as careless operation of a motor vehicle causing injury to another.
3. Strict liability, such as keeping of dangerous animals, or the doing of a potentially dangerous thing, which is not a matter of common usage, such as blasting.

The law of torts, built up over a period of many years by the process of court decisions and legislative enactment, forms a silent but strong protection necessary in an orderly society.

It's Easy to Write a Good CLASSIFIED AD!

Many people get confused when it comes to writing a Classified Ad. Do You? If so, here are a few simple rules to make ad writing easy. A good ad is just conversation in print. So when you're preparing to place an ad, just write it the way you'd tell your neighbor about it.

Avoid Abbreviations

Ready to write the ad? Please, no abbreviations. Studies of advertising show that abbreviations decrease readability. You want people to read and understand your message. Make it as easy for them as you can.

Why Leave Them Guessing?

What do you want to sell or buy? If it's an appliance, what is the brand? What's the size or capacity? Model? Year? Any accessories included? Does it need repair, or is it ready to use? Now put yourself in the buyer's position. If you were reading this ad, what would you like to know? Price? By all means put that in. In nearly every ad, price is the most important information. Anything else missing? If so, fill in those blanks too.

Don't Cut Off Your Own Nose

ONCE the ad has been completed, read it over. It's fine to eliminate a word here and there. But don't "edit" it to the point where the reader may have to guess at the meaning. You might save a few pennies and lose dollars in results.

Ordering Is Easy

Just write the News-Review, (be sure to include payment—figure cost from rates on classified page); come in or call—The number is OR 2-3321.

If This Seems Complicated

don't give up. We will help you write your ad. Just pick up your telephone and dial OR 2-3321. An experienced ad writer is waiting to help you.
