

Marriage Is A Private Affair, But Divorce Is The Public's Problem

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Divorce can be everybody's problem because the breakup of a marriage can affect society as a whole. The following dispatch, the last of four, deals with what the public should know about the divorce problem.)

By BARNEY SEIBERT

One of man's basic urges is the perpetuation of his species. In practically all the societies of mankind, marriage is the accepted method for keeping the human race going.

Thus the broken marriage becomes a concern of the society. One reason is that the children of such marriages are a greater threat to the existence of the society than those who are a product of the environment which the society accepts as normal.

The members of the broken family are more susceptible to both juvenile and adult delinquency than other elements of society, statistics have indicated. Children of an unsuccessful marriage are themselves poorer marriage risks than those whose parents were happily married.

Also, divorce often creates financial problems for the individuals involved, making it difficult to adequately educate and equip the children for adulthood. The individual unable to make his way in a society is more prone to seek its destruction, psychiatrists say.

However, sociologist Helena Lopata of Roosevelt University believes that in some instances divorce may be a lesser evil than the preservation of a marriage which is impossibly unsuccessful.

"The absence of divorce is not a solution," she wrote. "A divorce may be a solution. Some people are incompatible with anybody." Northwestern University sociologist Ernest Mowrer, on the same subject, says a marriage may be desperately unhappy without culminating in divorce. Many of the same ill effects on children which result from broken homes may be found in the off-

Fathers Honored At Umpqua Event

By MRS. GEORGE MUNSON
A special Father's Day dinner was prepared by ladies of Calapooia Farm Bureau in connection with a recent meeting. Tables were decorated with miniature farm equipment.

Mrs. Harvey Koozer was chairman of the event with Mrs. Guy Cole and Mrs. Ray Murdock assisting. Special guests included Donald Dickie, Eldon Young and Richard Bannison, all of Eugene. They presented a program — illustrated with colored slides — on farm rodent damage and control.

The Calapooia Women's Club held its June meeting recently in the clubhouse near Umpqua. A dinner was served with Mrs. S. Manning and Mrs. Alfred Hand as hostesses. Special guest was Mrs. Lora Chenoweth.

Report was given on the installation of a new hot water heater and laundry facilities in the clubhouse. The welfare chairman reported that two families had been furnished clothing. Furniture and clothing are needed for a family whose home was damaged by fire. Plans were revealed for a "silent auction" to be held during the July meeting. Mrs. Robert Monett, Mrs. John Bacon and Mrs. Archie Moore were appointed to investigate liability insurance.

You'll find him wherever there is trouble, doing the job he has volunteered to do. His name is DAN FLAGG and you'll meet him in the News-Review starting Monday, July 1.

spring of such a marriage, he said. Yet, persons who have already failed at marriage are more marriage prone than persons who have never been married, statistics show. That compounds the problem. Mowrer found that half of all divorced persons remarry within two years of their divorce and three-fourths of them remarry within five years.

10 The News-Review, Roseburg, Ore. — Thur., June 27, 1963

Health, Education and Welfare Department statistics show that there is better than one divorce for each four marriages in the United States. Yet Census Bureau figures show that 85 per cent of the married persons in the nation have been married only once. The remaining 15 per cent account for a divorce rate far out of proportion to their numbers.

They remarry and often redi-vorce. To reduce the nation's divorce rate and to insure a higher degree of happiness among those who remain married, experts have suggested a number of legal, medical and educational steps.

Sidney G. Morton, a juvenile officer writing in an American Medical Association (AMA) publication, indicated a need for education for marriage in elementary schools.

"The real tragedy is that we permit physical attraction and the desire for sexual experience to masquerade under the sacred name of love," he said. Judge Raymond Hall of Cook County (Ill.) Marriage Court advocated establishment of a study group of religious leaders and marriage counselors to look into higher age limits for marriage. The same group, the judge said, would recommend a longer waiting period should be established by law between granting the marriage license and performing the ceremony. Delaware, Louisiana, New York and Vermont presently have such a waiting period.

Douglas Creditors Association vs. J. E. Jackson and Loyce R. Jackson. On hearing upon motion to set aside judgment for a new trial motion denied in each and all particulars by Judge Woodrich. Elnore J. Brock vs. John P. Brock. Plaintiff charges that on April 4, 1963, while driving on U.S. 101, defendant was driving in same direction and hit her vehicle in the rear, causing her to suffer injuries which resulted in her requiring doctor's care and the purchase and wearing of a cervical collar. Plaintiff asks $15,000 general damages and an unspecified amount of special damages. Leonard A. and Goldie C. Burns vs. George and Darlene Shaw. Plaintiff says that on Nov. 23, 1962, defendants entered into land sale contract with plaintiffs, and that no payments have been made since April 26, 1963. Plaintiff asks immediate payment of $2,041.80 balance of contract or foreclosure of contract.
