

New Shake-Up Hits State SIAC Staff; More Changes Promised

SALEM (UPI)— A reorganized State Industrial Accident Commission (SIAC) today laid off three key officials, struck down the controversial field services division, and promised a series of other changes, Chairman William A. Callahan announced.

The shakeup came just one week after the commission itself was reorganized with the appointment of William A. Callahan as chairman, and succeeded Sidney B. Lewis, and Charles Gill Jr., former Grants Pass mayor, to succeed Mrs. Emily P. Logan.

Lewis and Mrs. Logan were fired by Gov. Mark Hatfield after being charged with "inefficiency in office."

Callahan, the only holdover commissioner from the former board, was named chairman by the new appointees, who announced the chairmanship would be rotated each year.

In today's action the commission abolished the field services division which resulted from a 1962 reorganization of the department.

Three Out July 15
Laid off effective July 15 by virtue of elimination of their jobs were George Hessevick, general manager, top administrative officer of the SIAC; Paul Jaeger, director of the field services division which was established last year; and Louis Horn, manager of the Salem field services office.

Callahan said the future of five other field service offices — in Portland, Eugene, Medford, Pennington and Bend — had not yet been determined. He said he doubted they would be closed.

Callahan said the shakeup announced today would result in a $50,000 savings because of what he termed "an overlay of supervision" brought about by creation of the field services division.

"We're kind of moving things around," Callahan said, "to see if we can make things run smoother. Let's say we're trying to put round pegs in round holes and square pegs in square holes. There will be other changes, we'll announce them at the end of the week if we can get things worked out by then," he said.

An estimated 100 employees affected by today's reorganization will be shifted to other jobs in the department, it was announced.

"No one has been fired," Callahan said. "But posts held by three individuals have been abolished at a salary saving of $28,000."

"They will be given every consideration in locating other jobs, either within SIAC or in some other agency."

Hamer Corporation Low On Road Job

The Hamer Corporation of Portland turned in an apparent low bid of $71,323 for grading and drainage work on 1.12 miles of Hubbard Creek Road, about 17 miles northwest of Roseburg on the south side of the Umpqua River.

This is a timber access route which connects with a Bureau of Land Management road. This project will be erected later under a separate contract. Surfacing of the roadway will be done later by county crews.

Other bidders were Darby & Associates, Roseburg, $79,508; Selmar A. Hutchins, Sutherlin, $82,875; Mack Slate, Jr., Albany, $120,720; and C. G. Trusty, Roseburg, $136,555.

Bids on two B.M. contracts were also opened last weekend.

Slate-Hall of Portland turned in a low bid of $391,258 for base surfacing and aggregate production of 10.18 miles of the South Fork Smith River Road. Other bidders were Roy L. Houck Sons Corp., Salem, $420,690; and Beckley & Thomas Rock Products, Roseburg, $460,373.

A low bid of $79,615 was submitted by Fred Jensen, North Bend, for construction of two bridges and approach grading on the Upper Smith River Road. Other bidders were Tom Lillebo Construction Co., Reedsport, $94,950; Paul Confection Co. and A. M. Griffin, Eugene, $103,615; and B.P.T. Corp., Portland, $105,093.

Work on the South Fork Smith River Road involves finishing a previously constructed roadbed, base surfacing, and aggregate production. The section to be improved starts about 8.6 miles north-east of Drain.

On the Upper Smith River Road, work consists of construction of two prestressed concrete girder bridges across the Smith river, and approach grading. Site is about 21 miles northwest of Drain.

'I'm Notorious,' Mandy Relates

LONDON (UPI)— An 18-year-old playgirl — key witness in Britain's sex and security scandal — drew a crowd of hundreds at London Airport today.

Airlines personnel, travelers and tourists gathered for a look at Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davis when she arrived for a holiday flight to Majorca.

Her flight was delayed 30 minutes while she posed for news photographers and tourists.

Some of them thought she was royalty as she was escorted to her plane by airport police.

"Who is this nice young lady?" an unidentified American tourist asked.

"I'm notorious," Miss Rice-Davis replied. "I shall go down in history as another 'Lady Hamilton' — the mistress of Lord Nelson."

Miss Rice-Davis, a friend of Christine Keeler whose relations with War Minister John Profumo resulted in his resignation, had testified she had been intimate with Lord Astar.

She left under bond to return to testify anew if necessary in the trial of society osteopath Stephen Ward. Charges against Ward include living on the earnings of prostitutes and arranging abortions.

"I do not want to come back, but I shall have to," Miss Rice-Davis said.

The London press said that still more "mystery girls" — identified only as "Miss W" and "Miss M" — will testify that Ward helped perform abortions on them.

Dates Changed On Road Closure

Rains on the coast have changed the closing dates of the Camp Creek Road, which is scheduled for reconstruction.

It was originally scheduled to be closed this week. Now the closing dates are July 8 through 12 and July 22 through 25, reports contractor J. C. Compton of McMinnville.

It will be open through this Sunday and again from July 13 through 21. The road in the Loon Lake area is being improved for timber access under the accelerated public works program.

Who's Boss in Slam Bidding?

By OSWALD JACOBY
(Written For NEA)

A player who uses Blackwood takes full charge of the hand with one exception. That exception occurs when he follows up his bid of four no-trump with a further bid of five no-trump.

The five no-trump bid guarantees that the partnership holds all the aces and if partner can now see 13 sure tricks there is no reason for him to stay out of the grand slam.

He also can put the grand slam in no-trump if he can count to 13 without using ruffing power. A no-trump contract is always safer than one in a suit.

follows up with five no-trump North takes full charge. He counts four spade tricks, one heart, two diamonds and six clubs for a total of 13 and bids the grand slam. Furthermore, he bids it in no-trump. South may have some other high cards besides his three aces and even though North holds good spades there just may be a loser in that suit.

This happens to be the case. If North bids seven spades he will be complaining about his bad luck, but he will also have made that bad luck himself.

Plywood Prices Still On Climb

PORTLAND (UPI)— Plywood prices are continuing to climb.

Crow's Lumber Digest reports that sanded prices had jumped to $76 per 1,000 board feet by Friday, an increase of $16 since the lumber strike began June 5.

Sheathing items also were up with the 5-8 index grade quoted at $102 and $104 per 1,000 feet Friday, up from $88 and $90 early in the month.

It is estimated that about 22 per cent of the production is idled by the strike-shutdown, and vacations at Georgia-Pacific.

Crow's said many plywood mills sold inventory and advance production at $82 and $84 per 1,000 in the early days of the strike, following near-cost prices for the first half of the year. But it estimated that by next week most of the plywood shipped will be at higher prices.

JFK, Macmillan Approve New Test Ban Proposals

LONDON (UPI)— President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have approved a three-way strategy for the nuclear test ban negotiations in Moscow later this month, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the two Western leaders worked out a set of instructions for their special envoys during their weekend summit meeting here.

A joint communique issued at the conclusion of the talks Sunday also noted that Kennedy and Macmillan, as expected, failed to reach accord on the U.S.-proposed multinational nuclear force for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). They decided to set the question aside because of British reluctance to join at this time.

The communique underlined that there is no "rift" on the nuclear force plan, which West Germany has approved fully but which France rejects. British officials have questions about the plan's feasibility and the cost.

The communique said Kennedy and Macmillan also discussed military aid to India for defense against Communist Chinese aggression, and the unstable situations in Laos and South Vietnam.

The sources said the three-way nuclear strategy for the Moscow talks provide for these courses:
—A comprehensive ban of all tests, including hard-to-detect underground explosions, with adequate control provisions and on-site inspections to police the agreement.
—A partial test ban on atmospheric, underwater and surface nuclear explosions, to be controlled by national control systems and robot recorders in the three nuclear countries. This would leave the question of underground tests open. The Allies are not prepared to agree to an indefinite moratorium on such tests.
—An offer to Russia to prove its claim that its scientific detection methods are sufficiently advanced to identify safely any suspicious explosion.
