

Draft Goldwater Group Stages A Convention Dress Rehearsal

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The national Draft Goldwater Committee staged a dress rehearsal for the 1964 Republican convention Thursday night with dancing, placards, small-scale demonstrations and chants of "We want Barry."

The job ahead is to convince Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that he has grass roots support convertible into delegate strength to win the GOP presidential nomination at San Francisco next July.

Goldwater admirers from many states assembled in the National Guard Armory to cheer every mention of their conservative hero and to give Bronx cheers to President Kennedy and other New Frontier officials.

When the meeting began, police estimated the crowd at more than 7,000. Peter O'Donnell, Texas Republican chairman and head of the draft movement, later told the audience that the official estimate had been increased to 9,000.

Goldwater, who is not an announced candidate, was observing the holiday in Prescott, Ariz.

But the principal speaker, Sen. John Tower of Texas, told the crowd that, if Goldwater could see the rally, there would be no doubt about his decision to run for the presidency.

Tower, O'Donnell and F. Clifton White, director of the draft committee, all sought to answer critics of the Goldwater campaign. These critics complain that the campaign depends too much on the South, that it would give away big blocs of electoral votes in populous eastern states and that it would peak too soon.

Tower said only Goldwater was a "truly national candidate" in contrast to a regional candidate or a "pressure group" candidate.

Counts All States

White said the Goldwater strategy did not call for writing off any state, but he showed slides indicating that Goldwater could win 301 electoral votes, 31 more than needed, without such states as New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Michigan and California.

The biggest cheer came when White showed a slide indicating a Goldwater sweep of the South. A southerner ran in front of the platform waving the stars and bars of the Confederacy.

Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio said the nomination of Goldwater would enable the GOP to carry 20 more congressional districts in the South next year and 20 more in the Midwest.
