

Draft-Goldwater Movement Hit By Opponents

By LYLE C. WILSON
 United Press International
 The draft-Goldwater movement has taken off, and the stop-Goldwater movement is revving up to fly.

One night recently at the National Guard Armory in Washington, D. C., took place the National Draft Goldwater Independence Day Rally (NDGIDR). This was a flamboyant notice to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., that the nucleus of a political organization is developing to obtain his nomination for president.

The stop-Goldwater movement is less evident. It is in the works, however. It is a rule of politics that when one individual becomes a front runner, all others gang up on him. Another well-known fact of politics is that you cannot beat somebody with nobody. That is to say, if you want to withhold the convention delegation of Pennsylvania, for example, from Aspirant (A), then you should offer some other individual to whom the delegation may be committed, if only for a short time.

Thus it was that Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton said last month that he may be his state's favorite son candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination. A favorite son gives convention delegates a temporary place to roost and a strong point from which to bargain before committing themselves to a major candidate for the presidential nomination.

Four Possibilities
 Scranton cannot be brushed off, however, as a minor candidate. William E. Miller recently listed Scranton, Goldwater, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Michigan's Gov. George Romney as the four men among whom his party will find its 1964 presidential nominee.

It follows that Romney and Rockefeller will be pressured openly to join the stop-Goldwater movement. Rockefeller already is in and running on his own account, although not publicly committed. Romney is coy but is likely, at the least, to be Michigan's favorite son candidate next year. The stoppers will need others. They will look among states with Republican governors or U.S. senators, but not among all of those states.

Recently from Denver it was reported that Colorado Republicans were organizing a western bloc of convention delegates around the favorite son candidacy of Sen. Gordon L. Allott, R-Colo. This was interpreted as a maneuver to consolidate Goldwater's Mountain States strength. The stoppers, in turn, undoubtedly will seek to enlist California. The governor there is a Democrat, but one senator, Thomas H. Kuchel, is a Republican. Kuchel probably would feel at home in a stop-Goldwater operation.

Gains in Polls
 Polls indicate that Rockefeller's remarriage to a divorced woman flipped Goldwater ahead. There have been various polls in recent weeks, all of them reflecting an upsurge of Goldwater strength. Sentiment at recent Republican gatherings seemed to concede Goldwater's steadily increasing prestige.

The Republican National Committee met recently in Denver. Some headlines over the Denver story:

Washington, D.C. Post: GOP strategists see Goldwater far ahead.

New York Times: Goldwater stock rising among GOP leaders.

D.C. News: Goldwater holds lead over Rocky.

The equally well-edited National Observer thereafter canvassed the Goldwater situation and reported: Goldwater boom rocks the ranks but pros are cautious.

Goldwater himself wants to know more about the boom and draft in his behalf before committing himself to run.

Farm Bureau Federation Okays Appointment; Meets New Agent

The main item of business acted upon at the recent Douglas County Farm Bureau Federation meeting held at the Fairgrounds was the approving of a new insurance agent for this area. An insurance program is one of the many services to members offered by the organization. Don Auer of Myrtle Creek has accepted the position and said he is looking forward to working with the more than 300 Federation members in nine areas of the county.

Howard Anderson, Salem, who is area supervisor with Grange insurance, was a guest. Anderson spoke of the great potential for increased membership in the county.

New Agent Introduced
 The 30 members present met the new county extension agent, W. D. Vertrees, who took office July 1. Vertrees was a guest at the pot-luck supper preceding the meeting as well as for the meeting. He told those present that he hopes to hear farmers' ideas on what they think can be accomplished in the county.

Vertrees majored in entomology and has had experience along this line as well as weed eradication and managing a large farm.

Alda Brumbach, county women's chairman, reminded the women of the wool fashions' sewing contest which is sponsored annually by the Farm Bureau Women's Advisory Council. This year there will be divisions for contestants 15 years and under; over 15 years but under 21; and for those over 21 years of age. They may sew a coat, suit, dress, skirt, or children's clothing, the latter category for adults. Fourteen prizes will range from $20 down to $2.50 with an additional Grand Champion Prize of $50. The contest closes Nov. 1, 1963, and will be judged at the State Convention in Salem November 10-13. Any member wishing a complete set of rules and a registration form may contact Mrs. Brumbach at Rt. 1, Box 545, Roseburg.

In other business, preliminary plans were discussed for the County Fair booth. Date for the annual FB picnic was set for Sunday, Aug. 25.

The insurance report was heard as well as reports from the seven Center representatives present, according to Marie Brady, publicity chairman.

Match Players Take Chances

By OSWALD JACOBY
 (Written For NEA)

One of the main differences between match point duplicate and rubber bridge is that a duplicate

West opened the king of diamonds and for some reason or other East let him hold the trick. West shifted to a heart and South went up with dummy's queen. When this held only a couple more things were necessary to bring home the four-spade contract.

South cashed dummy's ace of spades and dropped West's queen. A second spade was won by East's king and East led his singleton club.

South studied a while and rose with the ace. When the king dropped South cashed his jack of spades, conceded one more spade trick and chalked up 790 points and a thoroughly undeserved top score.

player can take any sort of wild gamble with the certain knowledge that all it can cost him is a bottom score on one board while a rubber bridge player might have to mortgage the family home to pay off his losses if he tried anything of this sort.

At duplicate, when East followed his one spade response to his partner's opening heart bid with a jump to four hearts South decided that he was being fixed. In certain circles a psychic spade response is used after partner opens with one heart and South decided that East had made such a bid. So South took a deep breath and dived to a four-spade contract. East doubled and now South stood by his guns.
