Oregon State Fair Slates Wool Needlework Contest

TIME COPY 2-24 ext OREGON al

Start knitting, say the American and Oregon Wool Councils. There's a big contest coming up, and the Oregon State Fair is in it for the first time.

Howard Maple, State Fair manager said that the fair is participating in the National Wool Needlework Contest being inaugurated this year under joint sponsorship of the National Hand Knitting Yarn Association and the American Wool Council.

The national contest, open to all non-professional needleworkers, offers over 10,000 in prizes and over 15,000 awards including ribbons and trophies. Potential contestants in this area wishing to compete for national honors must first submit their designs, either knitted or crocheted to the Oregon State Fair for judging. The national awards include a first prize of $1,000, a special engraved trophy and a three-day trip to New York for two.

Contestants, Howard Maple, State Fair manager said, may submit entries within 10 different classifications, five each for knitting and crocheting. Categories include Afghans, sweaters, stoles, scarfs and shawls (one category); three-piece baby sets, socks, gloves and mittens (one category).

All blue ribbon winners selected by the fair's judges will also be eligible for the engraved "Best of Fair" trophy being presented at the State Fair this year by the contest's joint sponsors.

First prize blue ribbon winners will automatically become eligible for the next round of judging at a designated Sweepstakes Fair, in competition with other winners from fairs within an area. Winners at the Sweepstakes fair will compete for the national prizes.

To be eligible for judging, articles must be made of 100 per cent wool yarn of any ply and must have been completed since Jan. 1, 1963. One label from the yarn must be attached to the entry.

Stability Test Due Rocket Ship Today

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (UPI)— The natural stability of the X15 rocket ship was scheduled to undergo a major test today when Air Force Maj. Bob Rushworth shuts off all its automatic controls at 3,000 miles an hour.

The flight preceded by one day the anticipated attempt Thursday of chief space agency pilot Joe Walker to shoot the X15 to another new world aircraft altitude record of 315,000 feet — about 60 miles high. The existing record is 59.6, set last year in an X15 by Air Force Maj. Bob White.

Rushworth today was to attempt to find out how much yawing or side to side motion resulted without the control systems. His plan was to switch off the stability equipment for several minutes at an altitude of 112,000 feet — about 21 miles high. There were other similar tests, but none matching the length of today's effort.
