

Mandy Testifies She Had Affair With Famous American Film Star

LONDON (UPI) — Blonde Marilyn Rice-Davies, 18, testified today at the morals trial of Dr. Stephen Ward that she had intercourse with former American film star Douglas Fairbanks Jr. in 1952 — she also was sleeping with Peter (Polish Peter) Rachman, late slum property racketeer whose activities were debated in the House of Commons Monday night.

Fairbanks, 53, is one of the leaders of the American colony in London. He and his wife, the former Virginia Lee Epling of Bluefield, Va., are among the few foreigners who have entertained Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh at home.

There was no immediate comment from Fairbanks on the girl's story. His office referred all questioners to his solicitor, Philip English, whose representative said only there might be a statement later.

The lush teenager told the court that while she was having an affair with Fairbanks — who established residence in London in 1952 — she also was sleeping with Peter (Polish Peter) Rachman, late slum property racketeer whose activities were debated in the House of Commons Monday night.

Says Astor Paid Rent

She said the rent for the flat at which these sessions took place was paid by Lord Astor — she called him "Bill" in her testimony.

Fairbanks, who holds honors from several countries, including the Legion of Honor of France and is a knight of the British Empire — which would entitle him to be called "Sir Douglas" if he were not an American — was mentioned previously by Miss Rice-Davies in the lower court hearing at which Ward was committed for trial.

But at that time she merely said she had "met" him and that it was not in connection with a film set.

Ward, who introduced call girl Christine Keeler to former War Minister John Profumo, starting the affair that forced his resignation and nearly brought down the government, is charged with living off the earnings of prostitutes and trying to entice young girls into prostitution.

Before Miss Rice-Davies took the stand, questioning of another witness brought out the name "Mariella" — believed the hostess of a bizarre party in which a prominent Briton appeared dressed only in a mask and apron.

Witness Breaks Down

The witness, a pretty Austrian girl identified only as Miss R., broke down and was led weeping from the courtroom.

Ward's defense counsel, James Burge, protested so vehemently against the line of questioning that brought up the name that the judge ruled the question could not be pursued.

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones got Miss R. to admit that she had been intimate with Ward at his cottage on the estate of Lord Astor outside London. Then he said:

"I want to ask you about another person called Mariella."

It was at this point that Miss R. broke down and Burge objected.

The judge's ruling seemed to preclude any attempt to establish the identity of the persons who attended parties given by "Mariella" or the identity of the mysterious hostess herself.

Who the man in the mask is, and who the other guests were, is one of the hottest topics in gossip about the Ward-Profumo affair.

Said Astor Paid Rent

Christine, Mandy's former roommate, also told the Court Monday that Lord Astor, head of one of Britain's first families, paid the rent on an apartment the two girls shared. Astor has denied the rent was paid by Miss Rice-Davies.

Miss Keeler, a striking 21-year-old redhead, dominated the trial Monday in her testimony as a prosecution witness. Ward, the 50-year-old society osteopath charged with living off the earnings of prostitutes and other vice counts, pleaded innocent, then remained in the background in the opening session.

Miss Keeler's performance was so dramatic that it even got a review by the movie critic of Britain's largest newspaper today.

But Monday night, it was Mandy's turn. She showed up at a press preview of 144 portraits Ward painted and hoped to sell to pay for his defense. Ward, out on bail, arrived separately and left after a brief stay.

Mandy, dressed in a tight pink dress, happily swigged champagne straight from the bottle and told onlookers "I think Stephen is a great artist."

Knew Many Men

Miss Keeler, appearing for the prosecution, testified that she had slept with Profumo, Ivanov, the late property tycoon "Polish Peter" Rachman, whose slum dealings stirred a House of Commons debate, and several other men, including one she recalled only as "Charles."

But when Justice Sir Archie Marshall said the prosecution would try to prove she was a prostitute, Miss Keeler retorted angrily:

"I would like to say that I am not a prostitute and never have been."

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones indicated he would call other girls to testify that they were paid for sexual intercourse and gave part of the money to Ward.

One of them, he said, was Vicki Barrett, who met men in Ward's apartment 30 times and gave him the money each time. He promised to keep it for her but she never saw a penny of it, the prosecutor said.

1,180 Families Qualified For County Food Program

By July 18, a total 1,180 families involving 3,690 people have been certified as eligible for the Abundant Food Program which started in Douglas County in mid-May.

Of this total, 487 families with 1,967 people are from the "low income" category. The remainder are Public Welfare recipients.

The report was made today by the Douglas County Public Welfare Commission.

Reedsport and Glendale Reedsport distribution is scheduled July 31 and Aug. 1 at the Douglas County shop there. Glendale distribution is slated at the Glendale City Hall July 29.

This is the first time the commodities have been trucked to Glendale. In the future, it is planned that one day a month will be scheduled regularly for the Glendale area.

People coming to any of the distribution points are requested by the commission to bring their own containers for packing food.

Persons coming to be certified for the first time should bring verification of income for the past 30 days, cash reserves and their new address. Verification of income can include paycheck stubs, bank books and insurance policies. Address verification can include a current driver's license or a recent utility bill.

Requirements loosened

It noted also that certain eligibility requirements have now been liberalized. Income limits for the one-person family were raised to $118; for two-person families to $171. Income provisions for larger families remained unchanged (family of three, $186; family of 4, $223; family of five or six, $269; family of seven or eight, $360; family of 10 or more, $383).

Cash reserve limitations were raised to $500 for families with one adult and to $1,000 for families with two adults. These reserves include bank accounts, stocks or bonds and the cash value of life insurance policies.

This week, food is being distributed through Thursday at the Roseburg distribution center at 2660 NE Stephens St. from 9 to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. daily. During this week only, people who have not yet been certified as eligible to receive foods should come for certification between 9 and 11 a.m. A certification clerk will not be available during the afternoons this week.

This is the last week this month in which people of the Roseburg area can receive their July food quota. The center will be closed the week of July 29 while personnel trucks food to district centers.

Maude H. Wright

Maude H. Wright, 79, former resident of Roseburg and Reedsport, died in a Portland hospital Monday, according to word received by The News-Review. Her Portland residence was at 3150 NE 31st St.

She was born in Cross Village, Mich., in September, 1883, and was the widow of the late Fred Wright, former justice of the peace at Reedsport who preceded her in death in June, 1953.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Ruth L. Franzen; a sister, Eva L. Thompson; a niece, Mrs. Barbara L. Wildson; and a nephew, Richard M. Thompson, all of Portland.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 10:30 a.m. in the chapel of A. J. Rose and Son Funeral Home in Portland under the auspices of the Pythian Sisters. Grave-site services will be held at the Roseburg Masonic Cemetery at 1 p.m. Friday.

Caleb McDaniel

Funeral services for Caleb McDaniel, 22, of Yoncalla, victim of a motor vehicle accident early Sunday north of Curtin, are pending. (See story page 1).

The body was taken to Mills Funeral Home in Cottage Grove, but services will be held at the Yoncalla Church of Christ at a time to be announced, pending word from relatives. The Rev. Ren Hollister will officiate.

McDaniel was born Sept. 4, 1940, in Indiana and had lived in Yoncalla for the past 10 years. He attended Yoncalla schools and was graduated from the high school there in 1958. He was studying for the ministry at Northwest Christian College in Eugene and had preached his first sermon in Yoncalla a week ago Sunday.

He had been living at home in Yoncalla during the summer vacation but had gone to Eugene to visit his girlfriend, whom he planned to marry in September. He was en route home when the accident occurred.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Earl McDaniel, Yoncalla; sisters Amanda and Althea, and brothers Rodney, Terry and Scott, all at home, and a grandmother.

Effie Grace Morgan

Effie Grace Morgan, of 715 SE Kane St., Roseburg, died at a local hospital early today after a short illness.

She was born in Vad Axe, Mich., and came to Roseburg in 1921 from Estacada. Prior to that, she had lived in Seattle. She was married in 1900 in Lookingglass to David H. Morgan, who died in 1945.

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church of Roseburg; a member and past matron of the Order Eastern Star, and a member and past noble grand of the Rebekahs.

Surviving are two sons, Chester of Roseburg and Willard of Coquille; a sister, Mrs. Charles Sain, Portland; five grandsons and three great-grandsons.

Funeral services will be Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Long & Shukle Memorial Chapel, with the Rev. John Adams, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Private interment will follow at the Roseburg Memorial Gardens.

Myrtle M. McMahan

Myrtle Mary McMahan, 71, of Los Angeles, died at a Canyonville hospital Sunday. She had come to the area earlier in the year to visit a sister, Mrs. Vern Nace of Glendale, and had been hospitalized much of the time since then.

She was born June 5, 1886, in Indiana. She was married in Carroll County, Ind., in April, 1909, to Bert D. McMahan, who preceded her in death in 1953. She was a member of the Senior Citizens group of Los Angeles.

Survivors besides Mrs. Nace include one brother, Roscoe Shedd of Rossville, Ind.; and several nieces and nephews.

The body is being shipped to Forest Lawn Cemetery in Glendale, Calif., where services will be held at Wee Kirk O' the Heather Chapel later in the week. Ganz Mortuary of Myrtle Creek is in charge of local arrangements.

YYING FOR TITLE of Miss Skyways for the 1963 Roseburg Air Show this weekend is Penny Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Patterson of Roseburg. She is 16 and will be a senior this fall at Douglas High School. The air show is scheduled Saturday and Sunday.

'Merely Players' Summer Musical Due For Presentation Next Week

If the residents of lower Melrose Road wonder why there is so much traffic out their way, it's the Merely Players at it again.

There hasn't been a quiet moment for the old Preschern barn, the New Umpqua West Theatre, since rehearsals got under way for the summer musical, "The Flower Drum Song," by Rodgers and Hammerstein. While the cast rehearses, carpentry is going on, also. The downstairs portion of the barn is being renovated to provide dressing rooms, make-up and costume areas for the large cast. A storage area for props will also be included. New lighting and a larger stage is being added in the upstairs theatre area. The improved parking facilities will handle any capacity crowd.

Baile Directs

The play is under the direction of Don Baile, who has handled the directing of the last two productions. Music director is Robert Robins of the Roseburg High School music department who scored in the lead role in the "Damn Yankees" presentation two years ago. Choreographer is Helen Dyhre, a graduate of a Roseburg dancing school. Helen has also studied ballet in Europe.

The setting for "Flower Drum Song" is San Francisco's Chinatown and concerns the conflict between old Chinese traditions and the progressive American way of life. "Wang Ta," the romantic lead, is played by Andy Paathover. "Linda Lou," a romantic complication, is played by Barbara Martin, RHS senior. "Sammy Fong," Americanized Chinese playboy, is played by Wayne Wagner. "Mei Li," female romantic lead, is played by another RHS senior, Anne Saunders, "Madame Liang," Chinese na's answer to Ethel Merman, Marlene Dietrich and Elsa Maxwell, is played by Theresa Layton, a senior at the University of Portland. "Wang-Chi-Yang," father of Wang Ta, is played by Doug Zug, drama director of Myrtle Creek High School.

Chorus and dancers compliment the music and lyrics during such show stoppers as "Chop Suey" and "Fan Tan Fanny." The softer more lyrical tunes such as "Love Look Away," "Like a God," "Enjoy Being a Girl," and "Grant Avenue San Francisco" are also being rehearsed by the leading players, according to Virginia Yates of the publicity staff.

Wednesday, July 31, will be opening night and tickets will be on sale at various locations which will be announced this week. A four-day run is scheduled for the first week. The play may also run through Saturday of the second week, Mrs. Yates said.

Forest Officials Inspect Umpqua

Two officials from the Forest Service regional office at Portland are conducting what is known as a "functional management inspection" of the Umpqua National Forest.

The officials are K. O. Wilson, assistant regional forester in charge of fire control, and Vance Blackwell, assistant regional forester in engineering.

Umpqua Supervisor Vondis Miller said the inspection, which got under way last week, is covering every district in the forest as well as the supervisor's office.

"They're looking to see if we are covering all functions under the multiple use concept," Miller explained. Business administration activities of the Umpqua are being covered "only slightly" in the inspection, he said.

The officials completed their work last week in the Bohemia, North Umpqua and Little River districts. Miller said he spent the weekend with Wilson and Blackwell at Diamond Lake where the officials were interested in the use and development of the popular forest playground area.

Miller said the inspection schedule will be completed this week with visits to the South Umpqua District today, and to Cow Creek District on Wednesday.

Miller said regional inspections of this type are conducted every four years.

City Council Orders Study Of New Bridge Crosswalk

The Roseburg City Council has instructed city officials to investigate methods of improving the Washington Ave. Bridge pedestrian crossing.

The action was taken following consideration of a correspondence from Alan Knudtsen which indicated the new walkway is poor because: 1. The rail is dangerously low, making it easy for somebody to fall over it; 2. Water runs to the walkway side with the result that cars splash water on pedestrians; 3. There is no protection against youngsters being pushed or jostled into the roadway from the narrow sidewalk.

Councilman Robert Norton said steps should be taken to improve the safety of the walkway. Public Works Director Kenneth Meng said a feasibility study is being made on the possibility of developing a corrugated plastic splash shield at the curb line. Police Chief John Truett said a splash guard in combination with a guard rail at the curb line would improve the situation.

TV Fund Drive Set In S. Douglas Area

Solicitation for funds for the TV translators recently installed on Canyon Mountain to bring added reception to the South Douglas area is tentatively set for Thursday of this week.

According to Lorraine Birenbaum, correspondent, final adjustments on the translators will be completed within the next few days. Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and Riddle Lions Clubs, spearheading the project, will also handle the fund drive.

Cost of the two translators will be $3,600 with $1,000 needed for operating expenses, for a period of two years. No specific figure will be stipulated when the solicitations begin. Those unable to contribute at this time will be given the opportunity to sign a pledge card so that it can be determined if there will be enough funds to operate effectively. The Lions Club said the goal will be met if from $15 to $20 is collected from each television set owner who can receive both channels.

The translators will bring in Medford and Eugene channels, Channel 5 from Medford comes in on Channel 7 and Channel 9, Eugene, comes in on Channel 2 in the Myrtle Creek, Canyonville and Riddle area. The Lions Club states that people living outside the strongest signal area will get the best reception by using a Channel 7 antenna. Channel 2 in most areas may be received on a Channel 4 antenna.

Criticism Made

Knudtsen's comments also criticized removal of the Oak St. Bridge pedestrian crossing.

Bob Harvey, representing the Inter-Agency Council, appeared before the council to request assistance in connection with a financial emergency fund which is set up on a community basis to assist transients. He said the fund is presently depleted.

He explained that the fund is designed to help families who are stranded in the city due to financial difficulties. No money is ever given, but orders are authorized for such things as food, gas and clothing.

In response to Harvey's request, the council decided to pay into the fund up to $800 the difference between $600 and what the Inter-Agency Council is able to receive from other sources. (The city has about $600 which has accrued in recent years from boxing receipts, and the monies in this fund may be used for charitable purposes. It is this fund which the city would divert to the Emergency fund.)

Harvey was advised, however, it would be necessary to investigate the legal aspects of the transfer.

Police Chief John Truett said the program has helped deter crime in the community. Councilman Fred Kelly agreed that it is better to give transients outright help than to have them make "midnight requisitions."

Solicitation for funds for the TV translators recently installed on Canyon Mountain to bring added reception to the South Douglas area is tentatively set for Thursday of this week.

Bid Accepted

In other business, the council approved an administration recommendation to accept the low bid of Perma Roofing and Specialty Building, Inc. for roof improvements to the Roseburg Municipal Building. The Perma bid was $700. One other bid was received.

Orval Petersen, council representative on the city Airport Commission, advised the council that the state Aeronautics Board has approved a $4,870 grant-in-aid to Roseburg for a runway sealing improvement. The city's cost in the proposed improvement will be $1,403. The council approved plans and specifications and called for bids next Monday.

Injured Climbers Recovering Today

HOOD RIVER (UPI) — Three climbers who fell about 1,500 feet onto Eliot Glacier on Mt. Hood Sunday were recovering today in Memorial Hospital here.

Hospital attendants listed Dr. Mark Hanschka, Dr. Eberhard H. Gloekler and Robert C. Shoemaker, Jr., all of Portland, in satisfactory condition.

They suffered multiple injuries, but none considered critical, the hospital said.

The climbers fell while descending the mountain's north east slope. Winds estimated at from 40 to 60 miles an hour sent boulders crashing past the fallen men.

Rescue efforts of the Crag Rats and Alpines from Hood River and Mazamas from Portland, along with forestry employes and other mountaineers, were begun about noon, but blowing sand, hail and finally fog delayed the work. It was about 9:20 p.m. before a sled carrying Dr. Hanschka began inching down the mountain.

Dr. Gloekler was able to walk part of the way and overtook the other party. Shoemaker was brought off the glacier about two hours later.

Boat Mishap Fatal

PORTLAND (UPI) — Janet Strasser, 22, Portland, died in a hospital here Sunday night from injuries received in a boating accident.

She was in a pleasure boat which crashed into a log raft on the Willamette River in Portland early Sunday.

Committee for Use of the City's Snorkel Fire Truck

A request from the Air Show Committee for use of the city's snorkel fire truck as a control tower in connection with the show was denied. The committee indicated it needs a tower with 300 degree visibility from which a control officer can direct traffic. The council supported an administration point of view that this would not be a legitimate use of the snorkel as far as the city is concerned.

It was pointed out the city is participating in the show to a large extent in some of the preparatory aspects. Officials stated they do not favor non-emergency use of the snorkel unless it provides "value in training" for fire personnel.
