

Doug Fairbanks Jr. Has Become A Multi-Millionaire In Britain

LONDON (UPI)—Douglas Fairbanks Jr., handsome, 33-year-old son of the great swashbuckling actor of Hollywood's silent film era, is an actor turned businessman who has become a multi-millionaire in Britain where he has large interests.

Fairbanks, identified by 18-year-old Marilyn (Mandy) Rice-Davies in the Stephen Ward vice trial as having been one of her lovers, also has enjoyed a social success in Britain matched by few, if any, Americans.

"Dashing Doug," as he is known in London society, rates Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip among his friends. They have been his house guests and he has been their.

In 1949 the elegant Fairbanks was made a knight commander of the British Empire (K.B.E.) for his work in aiding in the rehabilitation of war-shattered Europe.

he spends more than half his time in this country, he would be entitled to be called Sir Douglas. Some of his associates do in fact call him that although he himself lays no claim to the title.

Friends of Royalty

Fairbanks numbers among his acquaintances not only the Queen and her husband but scores of persons in the British royal structure and the country's highest society. Among those friends was Lord Astor, son of American-born Lady Nancy Astor and on whose Cliveden estate Miss Rice-Davies, Christine Keeler and other girls engaged in some of the hijinks that linked them with Ward, resigned War Minister John D. Profumo, and others.

The Fairbanks-Astor association was close enough so that in 1957, when Fairbanks launched his 17-year-old daughter Daphne in society, the coming-out party was held at the Cliveden estate, which Astor loaned him for the evening. The Queen, Prince Philip, Princess Margaret, Princess Alexandra and, as one newspaper account of the time reported, "Four dukes and about 500 members of Britain's top society" attended the affair. It was reported as "the most brilliant party of the London season."

Queen House Guest

Queen Elizabeth also has been a guest of Fairbanks at his plush London home, "The Boltons," one of a series of luxury residences off Hyde Park in the Kensington district, and he has dined frequently at Buckingham Palace.

Fairbanks is married to his second wife, the former Mary Lee Epling of Bluefield, Va. (his first was actress Joan Crawford from whom he was divorced in 1933 after a four-year marriage) and they have three daughters. He wed Miss Epling in 1939.

Although he remains an accomplished actor and still appears occasionally on television, it is as a businessman that Fairbanks has climbed the ladder of success in Britain. He is rated a multi-millionaire.

JFK To Name Commission On Automation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy is appointing a commission on automation to search for means of easing the unemployment backwash caused when machines replace men.

The President announced appointment of the commission Monday as part of his message to Congress asking that the Interstate Commerce Commission step into a prime example of the impact automation can have — the railroad work rules dispute.

He said the commission would outline the effects automation is likely to have during the next 10 years and recommend governmental action. The commission "should undertake the most comprehensive review of this complex and many-sided subject ever ventured," Kennedy said.

He gave the commission until the end of next year to complete its study. Kennedy said that last year's Manpower Development and Training Act is "too limited" in scope to "provide the full answer" to a problem of the magnitude of that posed by unemployment in an age of rapidly advancing technology.

This month blamed automation as the chief cause of wiping out 775,000 production jobs since 1957.

Here are some of the problems of automation age unemployment that the presidential commission must face:

— The Labor Department's manpower report which Kennedy submitted to Congress in March said that U.S. manufacturers had an output in 1962 that was 20 per cent above that of a half-dozen years earlier but employed 1 million less production workers, about 7.5 per cent of their work force.

— Railroad unions say that 670,000 railroad workers have lost jobs since 1947. The disputed new work rules would eventually cost about 55,000 more jobs.

— Labor Department statistics show that as many as 35,000 jobs a week are lost to machines. Some of these persons get new jobs created by machines but by no means all of them do.

— The mine workers union partly blames machines for the loss of 500,000 mine jobs. The Labor Department says mining employment has dropped by a fifth just since 1957.

One of the problems of automation-caused unemployment is that the workers replaced by machines usually are unskilled or only semi-skilled. Jobs they can fill with no further training are scarce so a retraining program is a vital necessity.

The Labor Department has reported that in 1956, for the first time in labor history.

Missing Plane Reward Offered

COOS BAY (UPI) — The Coos Bay Aviation Association Tuesday offered a $1,000 reward for the finding of a missing single-engine Piper Tri-Pacer plane which vanished on a flight from Gold Beach to North Bend Friday night.

The craft carried Charles Stamper, 37, of Coos Bay. Coast guard and private planes resumed the search today. The flight could have taken Stamper over the ocean or over rugged mountain terrain.
