

Opponents Of NW Power Bill Think It Will Pass In House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — South Dakota congressmen agreed today the Pacific Northwest power bill which they regard as selfish almost surely will be passed by the House, probably early next month.

The legislation would pave the way for construction of transmission lines to carry the Bonneville Power Administration's (BPA) surplus power from the Pacific Northwest to California. It also would give first call on power from the Columbia River dams to industry and private utilities in the area, as well as to publicly owned utilities.

Divorce Suits Filed

Dorothy Mae vs. Lester James Fickes. Married at Sutherland, March 11, 1960. Cruelty charged. Plaintiff asks award of 1951 pickup truck, vacuum cleaner, hi-fi and television sets, with award of 1962 automobile to defendant, subject to encumbrances. Plaintiff asks that defendant pay certain listed obligations. On motion and affidavit of plaintiff, court order restrains defendant from molesting, beating or interfering with the liberty of the plaintiff during suit, and defendant ordered to vacate the apartment presently occupied by the couple and to remain away from the apartment, in Sutherland, until further court order. Defendant ordered to appear for hearing Aug. 5 and show cause as to payment of attorney fees and suit costs.

Connie K. vs. Michael Robert Kelly Jr. Married Nov. 3, 1962 in Couer D'Alene, Idaho. Cruelty charged. Plaintiff asks divorce, attorney fees, court costs and restoration of her former name of Connie K. France.

Carol V. Lloyd Noel. Married at Reedsport March 5, 1960. Cruelty charged. Plaintiff asks custody of minor child and $50 monthly support. She asks award of household furnishings, that their real property in Reedsport be sold and the proceeds equally divided, and that defendant be awarded their 1961 car.

Marjorie L. vs. Kenneth G. Longton. Married at Sutherland Feb. 22, 1961. Cruelty charged. Plaintiff asks custody of minor child and $75 monthly support; also $40 monthly support for three minor children of the defendant by previous marriage so long as they are in the custody of plaintiff. Plaintiff asks decree of permanent or unlimited separation from bed and board. She asks award of real property in Sutherland and Winches, also award of property listed as household furnishings, fixtures and appliances; business furniture, and appliances in the business known as Lighthouse Cafe and Tavern in Sutherland; 1962 automobile and 1961 house trailer. She would award to defendant a lot in Sutherland and 1962 carry-all truck, with defendant to pay outstanding obligations. Show cause order issued as to temporary child support.

William C. vs. Linda Lee Townsend. Married June 8, 1956, in Alameda, Calif. Plaintiff asks custody of three minor children.

Sherry A. vs. Arland D. Pomeroy. Married at Toppinish, Wash., Sept. 15, 1956. Plaintiff asks custody of three minor children and reasonable monthly support. Cruelty charged.

Decree

Lois E. from Walter R. Maddux, by his guardian ad litem, Don Osborn. Plaintiff awarded 1962 automobile, subject to encumbrances, household furnishings and 30.05 rifle. Defendant awarded personal possessions. Plaintiff awarded real property as described lying along North Myrtle Creek. She is also awarded custody of four minor children, with support from the State Industrial Accident Commission from the Health, Education and Welfare Department, unless changed, and if so, then support as directed by the court.

U.S., Russia Have Different Views On How To Land Man On Moon

By DR. KURT H. DEBUS
Director, NASA Launch Operations Center

Written for UPI
CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The President has set as a tentative goal the landing of men on the moon "before the end of this decade." The USSR, according to cosmonaut Gherman Titov, plans to get there "by 1967" barring unforeseen difficulties.

A recent step up in booster-launching activity by the Russians in the Pacific area appears to contradict their latest view that they now have "some doubt whether putting a man on the moon is worthwhile."

There is a strong presumption that the USSR favors an earth orbit rendezvous (EOR) technique over our own lunar orbit rendezvous (LOR) mode to achieve a moon landing. If this is true, the reason for our choice of approach (assuming both modes employ three men) are worth a brief study.

The EOR mode, as we see it, involves two launches—one of a fueling tanker, the other of a partly empty booster and a spacecraft—before the moonbound cosmonauts can take off from earth orbit. In our LOR mode, a lunar excursion module is detached from the Apollo spacecraft and service module and descends to the moon's surface from an orbit only some 60 miles up.

The Russians claim that an emergency rescue from an earth orbit would be "easier" than from a lunar orbit. Further, that available boosters of about 820,000 pounds thrust (slightly more than half the first stage of our Saturn C-1) can be used. These boosters, presently launching the "Vostok" spacecraft, are cheaper to build and therefore permit far more extensive testing. That may be true, but just how the USSR plans to carry out its objective with so little power remains to be seen.

The lunar landing entails controlled vertical descent to a largely unfamiliar, definitely unprepared surface having many unknown characteristics. An accurate launch must be safely accomplished in this environment by the crew, unaided by any ground facilities. These lunar operations are considered the most critical portion of the entire Apollo mission. It is imperative, therefore, that they be performed by a vehicle which is not unduly compromised by other requirements. For instance, the lunar excursion module (LEM) features a large picture window which could be taken back to earth because of reentry heat. On the other hand, the heavy heat-shielding needed to protect the command module can be left in lunar orbit. In effect, the LOR mode separates conflicting engineering requirements and allows each module a maximum of desirable features with a minimum penalty on weight and complexity.
