raise his partner's two heart opening to three whereupon his partner went into Blackwood orbit and wound up at seven hearts.

His partner won the spade lead and promptly led the ace and king of diamonds in order to ruff a third diamond and try the trump finesse.

East played the nine and queen of diamonds so South ruffed the third diamond with the queen of hearts. When East could not over-ruff, South led a trump to her ace and dropped West's singleton king.

Was anything wrong with her play? Yes there was, according to Al.

He points out that after East dropped the queen of diamonds, South should have played the ace of hearts in order to pick up a singleton king in either hand.

Another expert asked Al, "Suppose East held three diamonds plus the king and one heart and had dropped the queen of diamonds in order to coax South into laying down the ace of trumps?"

Al replied, "Not this East! That play is for experts only and not for many of them."
