It's Your Law

THurs Second sect It's Your Lay D

It's a good idea to give written consent for necessary medical care if your child leaves home for a visit or a camping trip, or if you plan to be away for any length of time.

For example, a summer camp nurse may bring a boy into a hospital with an acute case of appendicitis. But the doctor may well hesitate to go ahead and operate without the parents' consent.

Is the doctor arbitrary, and is such permission just a legal technicality? No, he is well within his rights, though he many give first aid—but only for emergency treatment where a child's health or life may be at stake. He is likely to put off follow-up care until he can reach the child's parents.

Even an adult must request treatment and grant consent to medical care on his own before a doctor can give it to him. Children cannot do this.

By going to your doctor you show your willingness and consent to accept his treatment. Your consent is assumed also when you ask for a house call by the doctor, or if as a result of an accident you come to a hospital for emergency treatment. If you are unconscious, the doctor may well give you emergency care, yet later he should get your consent to further treatment.

Minors cannot consent to medical treatment, and except in dire emergencies their parents or guardians must give it for them.

The consent should not be broadly or loosely phrased, but should be as specific as circumstances permit.

The principal reason for having the consent in writing is to avoid later misunderstandings. It is a protection both to the patient and physician.

(Oregon lawyers offer this column as a public service. No person should apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney, who is completely advised of the facts involved. Even a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Lookingglass Woman Returns After Visit

By HAZEL S. MARSH

Mrs. Leona Buckle returned the last of the week from Grants Pass where she had visited for three weeks with her son, Harvey, and family. Another son, the Rev. Charles Buckle, came from Klamath Falls to take his mother back to her home in Lookingglass.

Daughter's Family Visits

Mr. and Mrs. Don Harmer and three small sons of San Diego, Calif., spent the weekend with Mrs. Harmer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williams. They were enroute to Everett, Wash., to establish a home. Harmer is with the U.S. Navy and has been transferred to the base in that area.

Mrs. Carolyn Hoffman of Seattle, Wash., spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Storms, and with her two small sons who are being cared for by their grandparents.

Lt. David Monger who is on leave from the Air Force and visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Monger, spent several days the latter part of the week in Corvallis renewing acquaintences at Oregon State University, his alma mater.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ueland and two small daughters of Seattle, Wash., visited recently at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stafford Storms.

The Mary Martha group of the Lookingglass Community Church is sponsoring an ice cream and chicken social on the lawn of the Elton Grass home on Saturday evening at 6:30, Aug. 3. Games will be played during the evening.

Ancient Roman Vessel Found In Thames Mud

LONDON (UPI) — A wooden Roman ship that may be more than 1,800 years old has been discovered in the mud of the Thames River in the heart of London.

The vessel was found last year but only recently was it identified as Roman.

"It is one of the most complete Roman ships to have been excavated," according to Peter Marsden of the Guildhall Museum.

The museum is in charge of the excavation work, which has already turned up two Roman coins, pottery and a millstone.

Marsden said a small bronze coin dating from the reign of Domitian led to the identification of the vessel. Domitian was emperor from 81 to 96 A.D.

It was traditional that when the mast was placed in position in a new ship a coin was put under it, presumably as an offering to the gods.

BAIN NAMED HEAD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gordon Bain, veteran airline and government airline official, has been named to head the $1 billion supersonic airliner program.

Bain, 54, was named recently by FAA Administrator Najeeb E. Halaby. Bain is FAA's assistant administrator for appraisal. He is a former vice president of Northwest Orient Airlines and Slick Airways.
