By United Press International
Write youths, many of them wearing swastikas, roamed through a recently integrated neighborhood on Chicago's troubled South Side Friday night, throwing bricks and bottles and taunting police.

Forty-seven members of the group were arrested when they refused to move along, bringing to 180 the number of persons arrested since racial disorders broke out in Chicago Monday. A Negro youth also was nabbed by police when a group of Negroes overturned a white man's car.

Earlier Friday, a group of integrationists staged a "lay-down" in mud and driving rain at a South Side Chicago mobile school site to protest alleged classroom segregation.

Labor Secretary Calls Meeting In Rail Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz called union and management representatives into weekend sessions today in an effort to solve the railroad work rules dispute by government "suggestion."

Wirtz called representatives of management and the five railroad unions to his office Friday and advanced what he said were a number of suggestions that might be used as a basis for settlement of the knotty work rules dispute.

Wirtz, whose attempts to mediate the dispute have been halted down, said he was purposely avoiding use of the word "recommendations." Wirtz was instrumental in formulating President Kennedy's proposal, turned down by the unions, that Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg arbitrate the impasse.

Storms Roam Great Lakes

By United Press International
Heavy thunderstorms roamed the Great Lakes region today with high winds and hail. The toll of dead and injured in two days of storms continued to rise.

The rain storms, which triggered accidents and fires across the Midwest Friday, were expected to diminish during the day.

Winds nearly 100 miles an hour lashed Wisconsin Friday, shredding county fair tents, downing trees and toppling utility poles. Scattered thunder showers soaked parts of the Southwest and Gulf Coast.

A funnel cloud was spotted near Joliet, Ill., and hailed pilled an inch deep on the ground east of Rockford, Ill. An inch of rain hit Fort Myers, Fla., and observers at Key West reported several waterpuffs.

Nearly an inch of rain and hail fell at Memphis, Tenn., during the night. Flagstaff, Ariz., was soaked with 1 1/4 inches of rain. Douglas, Ariz., had 3/4 inches and more than an inch fell at Grand Canyon.

At least 20 persons were injured when a city bus collided with another vehicle on rain-slicked streets at storm-battered Chicago. Six persons were killed and another was seriously injured in the head-on collision of a pickup truck and a station wagon on a mountain highway near Silver Plume, Colo., during a driving rainstorm.

Storms along the mid-Atlantic Coast were blamed for two lightning deaths and two boating deaths Thursday.

The first hurricane of the season, Arlene, moved across the Caribbean at about 14 miles per hour during the night. The weather bureau said winds were 100 m.p.h. near the center of the storm, weakened about 1,000 miles southeast of San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Vessels in the path of the hurricane were warned to exercise extreme caution.

President Refuses To Take A Stand On Coming Event

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (UPI) — President Kennedy refused today to take a public stand on one of the most important questions before him: Will his wife's baby this month be a boy or girl?

In 1960, two months prior to the birth of their son John Jr., Kennedy boldly predicted they would have a boy.

Newsman had asked in Washington several days ago whether the President was making any forecasts about their third child, and the query was repeated at the weekend White House where there was nothing much else to ask.

White House Press Secretary, Pierre Salinger, smiling, said he had taken the matter up with the President, and the spokesman asserted: "He is going to confine himself to such predictions in election years."

"Does this mean there is going to be another baby next year?" a reporter asked.

"You can read anything into that you want," Salinger replied. During a whistle-stop train tour from Northern to Southern California in September, 1960, Kennedy predicted his daughter Caroline would be getting a baby brother.

Kennedy went yachting with some family and friends this afternoon. It was an uneventful day at Cape Cod—except for Salinger's news morsel.

The Chief Executive arrived here late Friday afternoon, just after a heavy downpour splashed a half inch of rain on Otis Air Force Base, Mass., in less than 15 minutes.

Kennedy flew by helicopter to the family's "compound" of homes at Hyannis Port, where he was met by his wife, Jacqueline, and their two children, Caroline, 5, and John Jr., 2.

The President's convalescing father, 74-year-old Joseph P. Kennedy, was waiting as usual on the porch of his big home which faces Nantucket Sound and on whose lawn the helicopter landed.

Kennedy kissed his wife and children, then stepped over to greet some bystanders. Among them was the 1959 Miss America, Mississippi's Mary Ann Mobley, appearing here in a music-terrace production of "Guys and Dolls."

The President motored the half-mile to his home, and within a short time went to the nearby Hyannis Port Club for five holes of golf on the rain-soaked course.

Kennedy, spending his fifth consecutive weekend at Cape Cod, plans to fly back to the White House Monday morning.

By a six to three vote Friday afternoon the State Emergency Board turned down a request for $46,110 to double the three man staff.

The decision came after two hours of discussion where Civil Defense officials argued that the trimmed agency couldn't perform the work which state law sets out for it to do.

The recent legislature cut the civil defense staff from 18 members to three.

Voting against giving more money to the agency were Sens. Harry Boivin, D-Klamath Falls, E. D. Potts, D-Grants Pass and Ward Cook, D-Portland, House Speaker Clarence Barton, D-Coquille, and Reps. Ross Morgan, D-Portland and Beulah Hand, D-Milwaukie.

More money was favored by Senate President Ben Musa, D-The Dalles, and Reps. Shirley Field, R-Portland, and Stafford Hansell, R-Hermiston.

Hansell said that when the legislature approved the present Civil Defense budget it was believed by many lawmakers that the federal government would match the state money to make a six person staff for the agency.

He said he could support a six member staff, but would be against seeking any federal matching money to increase it further.

LOST HIS SHORTS
BLACKPOOL, England (UPI) — As the tide rose Friday, a man edged up the steps to the beach one-by-one until the water came to his neck.

Investigating police said he had gone for a swim in his undershorts, lost them, then found that the tide had washed away the rest of his clothes.

WHITE TEEN-AGERS ranged in hoating packs through a racially-tense southside neighborhood in Chicago Friday in the fifth consecutive night of demonstrations against the move-in of three Negro families. At least 21 boys and young men who balked police orders to move on were arrested. These arrests brought the total to 154 persons arrested in the adjoining white and Negro families since disorders broke out Monday. (UPI Photo)

Authorities Probe Charge Of Assault

The sheriff's office is investigating an alleged assault on a 17-year-old Oakland boy, Bob Beck, at Oakland Thursday.

The report stated Beck and two other boys had been swimming in the Calapooia Creek above the Oakland bridge. On their return they were accosted by a man who accused them of stealing his peach.

After a few words were exchanged, the boy claimed he leaned over to pick up his clothes when he was struck on the back of the head, then chased when he ran, the report stated.

Demo Braintruster Awaits Sentence On Tax Violation

NEW YORK (UPI) — James M. Landis, braintruster for three Democratic administrations and one-time dean of the Harvard Law School, was freed today in his own custody pending sentencing for filing late federal income tax returns.

Landis is scheduled to be sentenced Aug. 30 on five counts of filing tardy returns. Each of the counts carries a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a $10,000 fine.

He appeared Friday before Federal Court Judge Edward McLean and pleaded guilty to the charges, all of which are misdemeanors. Representing him was Dean William Warren of the Columbia Law School.

In a statement to the court, Warren pointed out that Landis voluntarily paid all the taxes due the government, along with the maximum civil penalties, as soon as they had been calculated.

U.S. Atty. Robert M. Morgenthau, who filed the charges, said Landis failed to file income tax returns on time for the years 1956 through 1960.

The returns for the five years, Morgenthau said, "were filed at one time—recently." He added, "This does not meet the government standard of voluntary disclosure."

Warren said Landis, a New York attorney who lives in suburban Harrison, sold inherited securities for which the tax base had not been determined, thus creating delays. More delays in figuring and filing the returns, Warren said, were due to Landis being busy in "public affairs and the affairs of clients."

Two years ago Landis accepted a special assignment from President Kennedy to look over all the federal regulatory agencies and offer suggestions for improvement. Earlier he worked in Kennedy's presidential campaign as a consultant.

He also served under former Presidents Harry S. Truman and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

State Farm Barns Destroyed By Fire

By United Press International
Building fires at Portland and Salem Friday night and early today caused extensive damage to a lumber firm and the state operated Cottage Farm.

Cause of a blaze that destroyed the crane shed of the Jones Lumber Co. in Portland was under investigation today. The 250-foot long building was engulfed in flames when the fire alarm was turned in shortly before midnight.

Firemen were able to keep the fire from spreading to the mill and company offices. The shed was part of the saw mill and planing equipment which was to be sold at auction Aug. 20.

Damage was not immediately estimated. The shed was used to store lumber stock, but was nearly empty.

Firemen had the blaze under control and nearly out within an hour. Twenty-one pieces of equipment responded to the four alarms.

A spectacular blaze near Salem caused more than $50,000 damage to the state operated Cottage Farm barns.

Cause of the fire was being investigated. A barn valued at $40,000 was destroyed and roofs of a smaller barn and silo were damaged. No livestock was in the barns.

Nine pieces of equipment from the Salem and Four Corners fire departments and the Oregon Correctional Institution fought the blaze. It was under control after about two hours.

Flames shot hundreds of feet into the air and were visible for miles.

The barns supplied dairy products to other state institutions.

31 Pints Of Blood Given At Yoncalla

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visiting Yoncalla Friday netted 31 pints of blood. The quota was 50. Most of the donors turned out to offer replacement blood for Mrs. Pat Duggan of the Drain area, who is to undergo open heart surgery Aug. 17 at the University of Oregon Hospital in Portland. Two units were donated for Gerald Robinson and eight for Sophie Miller.

A total of six new donors showed up for the three-hour stop. Two donors receiving gallon pins were Frederick Applegate and Postmaster Eldon Lee.

The comparatively small turnout was blamed on vacations and late working hours for loggers.

Eleven women donated their services for activities at the Bloodmobile. Refreshments were served by the Business and Professional Women, Yoncalla Women's Study Club and several individuals.

Young Girl Loses Hand After Mauling By Bear

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Lyn Seely, the 5-year-old girl who was mangled by a circus bear when she petted it, was "resting quietly" today in Canoga Park Hospital following amputation of her right hand, attendants said.

Doctors amputated the girl's hand Friday after a seven-day fight to save it. A blood clot developed, frustrating attempts to save the hand.

Lyn of Simi, Calif., was injured last week when she reached inside the cage of a 5-year-old Himalayan bear to pet it at the Ted Duane Circus in nearby Santa Susana. The bear first licked her arm, then clamped its teeth into it.

The girl's mother and a bystander freed her from the bear's clutches.

Stricken Yacht Survivors Due

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — The submarine Razorback was scheduled to arrive here tonight with eight survivors from the stricken luxury yacht Freedom II.

The Navy Friday ended its search for the $250,000 vessel which apparently sank about 600 miles west of Morro Bay, Calif. No lives were lost in the mishap.

Retired Vice Adm. Gerald Bogan, skipper of the yacht owned by Frank G. Jameson, a vice president of Douglas Aircraft Corp. in Los Angeles, said the 104-foot long ship sprung a leak on Wednesday.

Bogan told authorities the leak was in the underwater planking on the starboard side near the pilot house. He said it allowed water to flood into a compartment.

"It was soon evident this flow could not be controlled and the galley compartment was soon flooded almost to the overhead," he said.

The retired admiral ordered the crew to abandon ship after sending distress signals. The crew climbed into a 16-foot lifeboat.

Cmdr. W. G. Davis, skipper of the Razorback, said the survivors were in good condition when picked up, but that their lifeboat was damaged by high seas.

Traffic, Drownings Claim Three Lives

Traffic and drowning claimed three lives in the state Friday and early today.

Accidents claimed two lives in Oregon Friday.

Dennis Montague, 19, Klamath Falls, was killed in a one-car accident on State Highway 29 eight miles south of Klamath Falls.

State police said he was a passenger in a car driven by Linda McDaniel, 15, Klamath Falls, which ran off the road and hit a utility pole.

The girl and two other teenage passengers were hospitalized at Klamath Falls.

Glen Beith, 17, Hood River, drowned in Bull Prairie Lake 40 miles south of Heppner. His body was recovered.

The youth was on a fishing trip with his father, William Beith of Hood River, and was attempting to retrieve a drifting boat when the accident occurred.
