

Dear Abby!

Itching For Scratch

— By ABIGAIL VANBUREN —

DEAR ABBY: My brother and I caught poison ivy again this year for the third year in a row, and our father is making us pay for the shots with our own money. Last year when we caught it, he said that now that we knew where the poison ivy was, if we ever caught it again we'd have to pay the expenses. Abby, isn't it enough to be covered with poison ivy without having to spend our berry-picking money to get well? If you print this in your column our father might change his mind. DAVID AND STEVIE (11 and 13).

DEAR BOYS: I'll print your letter, but I'm afraid it's hopeless. Your father is trying to teach you that money doesn't grow on trees. You've got to scratch for it.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my 25-year-old daughter. She is still single and doesn't seem the least bit concerned about it. When the subject of marriage comes up, she laughs it off. As far as I can see, she has no intention of getting married, and I don't care for the idea of having an old maid for a daughter. What can I do? WORRIED: Be thankful that your daughter is content. Or would you rather she be married and miserable? Or worse yet, divorced and living at home again with a couple of youngsters to raise?

DEAR ABBY: What should the mother of a teen-age boy do when a girl's mother doesn't give her daughter a deadline to be home after a date? I suppose I should feel flattered that the girl's mother trusts my son with her daughter, but it doesn't seem right to send a 17-year-old boy off with a 16-year-old girl without telling them when to be home. I believe it's the girl's mother who should set the deadline. But if she doesn't, then what?

MRS. P. DEAR MRS. P.: Tell your son what time you want HIM home, and that should settle it.

DEAR ABBY: The woman who "lied" nine years off her age in order to capture a certain widower reminded me of my own experience. When I met this very attractive older gentleman, I wanted so much to be considered "wife" material that I ADDED five years to my age so he wouldn't think I was too "young" for him. We are married now, and couldn't be happier. I later confessed my scheme, and we both had a good laugh.
