Labor Peace Brings Plywood Price Drop

PORTLAND (UPI) — Plywood prices reacted swiftly to the timber industry labor peace this week as prices on quarter-inch sanded items dropped $3 from peak prices of $15 a thousand.

The price change in straight lumber was not so abrupt as most lumber items were not seriously affected by the strike. Crow's Lumber Digest reported at mid-week that lumber was off $2 and $3 a thousand both in California and eastern markets.

The swift drop in plywood prices was not expected to continue, according to the Digest.

Market sources reported that warehouse inventories had shrunk from a usual 60-day level to less than a 45-day supply. The rounding out of warehouse stocks was expected to hold prices up for a while.

Mexican Labor Jobs Continue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has voted a one-year extension of the Mexican farm labor program, but only after approving an amendment saying U. S. farm workers doing similar work must be given the same benefits accorded the Mexican workers.

Under the amendment, U. S. domestic workers must be offered workmen's compensation, housing, and transportation that is comparable to that given to Mexican farmers.

The Senate vote Thursday was 63-24. The bill now goes to the House, which voted down a two-year extension of the farm labor program. Opponents of the measure contended that it aggravated the unemployment situation in this country.

Macmillan's Party Rocked By Slim Margin In Voting

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, England (UPI)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative party was rocked anew today by the results of an election to fill the parliamentary seat vacated by disgraced War Minister John Profumo.

The Conservative candidate won Thursday's by-election, but the margin was so small the opposition claimed a "moral victory." The results appeared to forecast further trouble for Macmillan whose government was nearly toppled last month by the repercussions from the Profumo scandal.

Conservative candidate Angus Maude, a 50-year-old journalist, was the victor as expected in this Tory stronghold, but his majority was so much less than his party's margin in the last election that the opposition Labor party claimed a "moral victory."

Observers had regarded the Stratford-On-Avon by-election the toughest public test for Macmillan since the Profumo scandal shocked the nation earlier this summer and nearly toppled his Conservative government.

The observers had predicted that a significant drop in the Conservative majority compared to Profumo's 14,129 margin in 1959 would indicate serious public concern over the scandal and would spell grave problems for the prime minister and his party.

Only Small Fires Hit Oregon Forest

By United Press International

Only four small fires were reported in Oregon Thursday and all were controlled or out by early Thursday evening.

The U.S. Forest service reported two small fires in the north Cascades, all quite small.

The State Forestry Department reported two fires, both of less than one acre. One was caused by lightning in Northeast Oregon and another in Clackamas county was man-caused.

MISS OREGON, D'Ann Fullerton of Roseburg, was a stellar attraction Thursday night at the Douglas County Fair as she appeared as a model in the style show held in the garden section of the Fairgrounds. Miss Oregon is shown posed against a background of the section's waterfall. A second style show will be held in the same spot Saturday night beginning at 7:30 p.m. (News-Review photo)

Sentence Is Suspended In Shooting Case

William Taft Gaucher, 54, of Glide, has been placed on probation for three years and imposition of sentence has been suspended by Circuit Court Judge Don H. Sanders.

Gaucher on July 11 pleaded guilty to the district attorney's information charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon, in connection with the shooting and wounding of William Marshall Scott July 10.

The shooting, according to investigating sheriff's deputies, was the outgrowth of a drinking bout. Gaucher told officers Scott had threatened him and he shot when Scott advanced. However, he did not attempt a defense in court, but placed himself at the mercy of Judge Charles S. Woodrich, who had ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

She was indicted last week for contributing to the delinquency of a minor involving a 16-year-old boy, pleaded innocent on arraignment and had been released on posting bond bail pending trial. However, she has been arrested on a new charge by Winston City Police. The charge is conducting a disorderly house.

Bail on the latter charge was set in Winston Municipal Court at $100, and she is scheduled for arraignment there today.

Roger Del Clardy, 19, Winston, arrested by state police earlier this week on a charge of counterfeiting a bank note, has been turned over to federal authorities from Portland. He is accused of altering a $10 bill to make it appear as a $20 bill.

He came on for sentencing before Judge Sanders Thursday.

Dukes sentenced William Robert Dukes, 41, of Charleston to two years in the Oregon State Penitentiary on a plea of guilty to the district attorney's information charging him with obtaining money by false pretenses.

Dukes was charged with passing a $25 worthless check on the Milwaukee-Powell branch of the United States National Bank at Duckett's Resort at Loon Lake July 27.

Lawrence Heidenreich, 19, Idlewild Road, Roseburg, asked for additional time in which to enter a plea when arraigned before Judge Sanders on a Grand Jury indictment charging him with burglary in a dwelling. He appeared with his court appointed attorney, J. V. Long, and time for entering a plea was delayed until Monday.

Thomas O'Dell handled the state's cases.

Bail Exonerated

In other actions the bail of June Elene Lyman, 24, of Winston has been exonerated by order of the court on motion of the district attorney and petition of her bail bondsman, as she is incarcerated in the Douglas County jail.

Air Force Chief Endorses Limited Nuclear Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force chief of staff, lined up with other military chiefs today in qualified endorsement of the limited nuclear test ban treaty.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said LeMay expressed "very grave reservations" about the agreement during closed testimony before a Senate preparedness subcommittee, but told senators he felt it should be ratified.

LeMay's official position, Goldwater said, was one of support for the position taken by other members of the Joint Chiefs of Staff favoring Senate ratification. That position had been previously outlined by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs.

Goldwater told newsmen, however, that he had yet to sense "any enthusiasm for the treaty" by military leaders. "I just don't think the military has their heart in this," he said.

In connection with military leaders' views on a test ban, Secretary of State Dean Rusk was questioned at a news conference today whether there still were differences within the administration whereby the chiefs were opposed to a complete test ban.

This would prohibit underground tests as well as those in the air, space and underwater as contained in the partial treaty.

Rusk replied that he felt President Kennedy had resolved this dispute in favor of a policy of striving for an overall ban. But Rusk saw little chance of any imminent agreement by Russia to this because of Soviet resistance to Western insistence for on-site inspection to assure compliance with a pact to ban below-ground tests.

While LeMay testified before the preparedness subcommittee, John A. McCone, director of Central Intelligence (CIA) also appeared for closed testimony before three other Senate groups conducting hearings on the treaty.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee heard McCone with senators from the armed services committee and the Joint Atomic Energy Committee sitting in.

Other congressional news:

TFX: Senate investigators today renew questioning of Air Force Secretary Eugene Zuckert and his role in the TFX contract. The members of the Senate investigations subcommittee planned to continue questioning on why Zuckert believed the $7 billion fighter plan contract should go to General Dynamics when his own military experts thought Boeing had a better plan.

Aviation: The Senate commerce aviation subcommittee is scheduled to investigate the economic impact on New England which would result from the discontinuance of Northeast Airlines New York-to-Florida route. Leading the testimony against dropping the airline service will be the president of Northeast Airlines, James W. Austin.

Reaume To Continue As Chamber Manager

Harold Reaume is continuing in his capacity as secretary manager of the Roseburg (area) Chamber of Commerce.

Reaume earlier submitted his resignation to pursue other interests but has reconsidered his decision at the request of the chamber's board of directors.

Chamber President Elliott Motschenbacher stated that the chamber is now conducting an exhaustive search to obtain an assistant who can be trained to take over the manager's position upon Reaume's retirement, which will be in December of 1964.

Reaume came here Dec. 1, 1957, from Junction City, Kan., to assume the secretary manager position.

HAROLD STASSEN, former governor of Minnesota, listens to proceedings of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in Washington Thursday. The committee heard Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, testify in support of the limited nuclear test ban treaty. Stassen will attend a church convention in Roseburg later this year. (UPI Telephoto)

10 Per Cent Of All Cancer In Men Occurs In Oral Area

CHICAGO (UPI) — Cancers of the mouth and lip constitute 10 per cent of all cancers found in men—and oral smears can help cure them early, two dentists said Thursday.

Often after radiation treatment of the cancerous mouth tissues, ulcers appear caused by tissue reaction to the treatment, Drs. Dwight R. Weathers, Milledgeville, Ga., and James W. Griffin, Atlanta, Ga., said in the current Journal of Oral Surgery, Anesthesia and Hospital Dental Service.

"It is difficult to distinguish these ulcers from a recurrence of the malignant lesion or tumor cells not affected by radiation," they said. "The oral smear presents a solution to this dilemma."

"It has been estimated that 80 per cent of the deaths from oral cancer could be prevented by early recognition and prompt, adequate treatment," the dentists said.

It is of great value in the early diagnosis of cancer and excellent for following patients already treated, they said. "By taking smears periodically, the dentist can check the progress of the patient and the effectiveness of the therapy."

Russia, U.S. Okay Satellite Experiment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia today announced final approval of a joint program of experiments with weather and communication satellites starting next year.

The two nations also agreed to contribute satellite information to a world magnetic survey, to be made in 1965.

The U.S.-Russia agreement for limited cooperation in space was reached at Geneva in June, 1962. The program given final approval today was worked out at Rome last March and in Geneva in May.

The experiments with weather satellites will result in the exchange of information and cloud pictures by means of full time, four-wire telecommunication link between Washington and Moscow.

This link is to be established by early 1964 and probably will be routed from Washington to Moscow by way of New York, London or Paris, Berlin and Poland.

field. This information will supplement various other ground, sea and air measurements to be undertaken internationally during the world magnetic survey to be conducted in 1965.

Kindergarten Pupils To Register Sept. 3

The PTA-sponsored Fir Grove Fullerton IV kindergarten will be held at the YMCA this year. Mrs. Arthur Rich will teach both morning and afternoon sessions.

Classes will start Wednesday, Sept. 4, at 9:15 a.m. Parents who will have children attending are asked to register them Tuesday, Sept. 3, at 8 p.m. The first month's fee of $12 should be paid at that time.

Further information regarding the kindergarten may be obtained by calling Mrs. William Stiles.

U. S. Ready To Exchange Ground Posts

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States today declared it is ready to exchange ground observation posts with the Soviet Union to reduce the danger of surprise attack, providing no strings are attached.

Soviet disarmament negotiator Semyon Tsarapkin indicated Moscow is willing to reconsider its previous demands that establishment of such posts be coupled with a reduction by one-third of troops in central Europe and with creation of a nuclear-free zone in this area.

United States negotiator Charles C. Stelle said America "is prepared to accept an arrangement limited to a system of ground observation posts."

Stelle said the United States "does not insist" that such an exchange be linked to other previous American proposals for advance notification of major military movements, aerial observation, radar controls and mobile observation teams.

Tsarapkin told UPI Moscow's demand for a tie-in between observation posts and troop reductions plus a denuclearized zone "is under consideration. Western officials said "the indications are the tie-in is not so strict as before."

Stelle said that because the Soviet government "has recently indicated renewed interest" in exchanging observation posts "we might well explore the possibilities of agreement on this measure."

He said the United States already has suggested that such posts be placed at "certain principal ports, major railroad stations, intersections of key highways, and possibly at significant airfields."

The posts could "observe the flow of military traffic and the general level of military activity on a local basis," he said.

The delegations, which resumed sessions here Monday after a brief recess, are seeking limited accords on lesser disarmament issues as a follow-up to the partial nuclear test ban treaty signed in Moscow Aug. 5.

Normal Temps Expected

The five-day weather forecast according to the Weather Bureau station at the Roseburg airport calls for temperatures near normal. Little or no rain is expected.
