New Power Line To Serve PP&L Umpqua Plants

Pacific Power & Light Co. construction crews are currently setting new poles to rebuild and boost the capacity of the company's transmission line between the Tokete and Soda Springs power plants on the North Umpqua River.

The section of line is being rebuilt to serve as an alternate route for power delivery in the event of trouble affecting the main transmission line presently supplying the Dixonville substation from the seven North Umpqua power developments, Quisenberry explained.

Total cost of the project, scheduled for completion by the end of this month, is an estimated $71,788. As soon as improvement of the Tokete-Soda Springs section of the line is completed, PP&L construction crews will begin work on reinforcing and strengthening the 125,000-volt line between the Dixonville substation and the Tokete power house. This job is another stage of work begun in 1962 and will cost an additional $185,000.

The project involves the replacement of poles, insulators and conductor with equipment that can withstand the severe winter conditions experienced in the North Umpqua area.

"The line has been designed so that it can be converted to a higher voltage level when energy needs of PP&L's Douglas county customers require the additional power," Quisenberry noted.

"When both projects are complete the main route for power delivery will still be over the Tokete-Dixonville line," Quisenberry explained. The line from the Soda Springs plant will serve as an alternate transmission facility for the Dixonville substation.

Young Weyel was required to complete three stages of work which gives him competency in each phase of his church life. A reception was held honoring Roger and his fellow-scouts in the church parlors following the ceremony. Mrs. Earl T. Clark and Mrs. Richard C. Hanson served as hostesses. A cake served was decorated with the God and Country Emblem.

Red Cross Plans Nursing Classes

The Douglas County chapter of the American Red Cross plans to sponsor classes and provide qualified instructors for courses in first aid and home nursing.

The classes will start in September. Organizations or groups interested in forming a class are requested to contact the Red Cross office at 657 SE Rice or phone 673-3255.

Chapter officers noted that this service of Red Cross was instituted more than 50 years ago and during that time nearly 24 million persons have earned certificates from the courses. Value of the program can be measured by the fact that about 200 lives are saved yearly through the application of techniques learned in first aid and water safety courses.

Among its activities in connection with this service, the Red Cross provides first aid training to Peace Corps members as part of a 40-hour required course in health and sanitation.

Chapter officers also pointed out that a close liaison is maintained with the medical profession to ensure that the public continues to receive valid information on recommended techniques throughout the program.

Athletic Facility Contract Awarded By Riddle Board

A special meeting of Riddle School Board was held this week to open bids for construction of a concession stand and rest rooms at the athletic field.

Contract was awarded to J. W. Copeland Yards, Riddle, for $5,234. Completion date is set for Sept. 20.

Supt. Kenneth Stuart reported the total school levy for 1963-64 is 52.5 mills, which is 1.5 mills lower than the estimated levy at budget time. This is despite the decrease in assessed valuation from $7,138,260 to $7,079,035. The levy last year was 49.4 mills.

The new levy includes extras for capital outlay, instructional supplies and one additional teacher. Physical examinations for first graders, football players, and new students enrolling in the district must be taken by the opening day of school, Sept. 12. Examinations may be received from a personal physician. However, the school district pays for examinations given at the local office of Dr. C. E. Everett.

Pre-registration for Riddle High School students and junior high students is scheduled at the high school Monday, Sept. 9, from 1 to

Youth Pleads Guilty To Theft Of Gasoline

Howard Stanley Gladwill, 18, of Beacon Way Road, Roseburg, pleaded guilty when arraigned in District Court Tuesday to a charge of larceny of personal property valued less than $75.

Judge Gerald Hayes sentenced the defendant to 30 days in jail and fined him $75.

A complaint filed by County Sheriff Ira C. Byrd charged the defendant with the theft Aug. 20 of personal property (gasoline) from Riverside Motors.

The request of Jesse Frank Carter, 24, of Phoenix, Ariz., for a court-appointed attorney was turned down on grounds that the defendant was found to have sufficient funds with which to employ counsel.

Carter is awaiting District Court trial in connection with a charge of drawing a check with insufficient funds. He faces another charge of obtaining money by false pretenses.

Another service from the Shell Oil Company and its Dealers What every woman who ever drives alone should know about her car

HERE ARE some motoring tips and hints for our lady customers only. The information isn't technical. But it's important information that could save you time and trouble.

1. What to do if your car won't start. First, check the obvious. Do you have fuel? (If you have run out, don't feel too bad—over 5,000 motorists do it every day.)

If you have an automatic transmission, is the gear selector lever at exactly the right spot? Check—and make sure.

It's also a good idea to push the accelerator pedal all the way down—and release it quickly—just before you attempt to start. Now, try the starter again in bursts of 2 or 3 seconds. Still no go? Let your engine rest for three or four minutes. Try once more—this time with slightly longer bursts. If your engine still balks, give your Shell dealer a call.

2. How to recognize carburetor icing stalls—plus a tip to help prevent them. This ever happened to you on a damp, chilly day? Your car starts promptly. You drive a short distance to the first stop sign—and you stall. You have no trouble re-starting. But, at the next intersection, you stop—and stall again. Then, the stalls disappear—just as mysteriously as they came. That's a typical case of carburetor icing. If your car has this trouble, try Super Shell gasoline. One of its 9 working ingredients is an anti-icer that fights carburetor icing stalls.

3. In a lightning storm, your car is one of the safest places you can be. So don't be terrified if there's lightning all around you. When the rain starts to fall, slow down and proceed with care. If the rain pours down so hard that you can't see well, pull all the way off the road and wait until the storm lets up. Note: if you must stop, don't park under a tree or on a surface that could bog you down.

4. An important warning that your brakes can give you—and what to do about it. When your car is standing still, push down on your brake pedal. Does the pedal feel "mushy" or sink slowly to the floorboard? If so, there's trouble in your car's hydraulic braking system. See your Shell dealer right away.

5. How to avoid being locked out. Tape an extra car key on some secret place outside your car. It must be reachable—even if all your doors are locked.

Another tip to save fuss and bother: carry some dimes in a sealed envelope in your glove compartment. They could come in handy—for use in a roadside pay telephone—should your car act up.

6. What to do in case of emergency on a highway. If you have a flat tire, or if something mysterious goes wrong with your car, pull all the way off the road. Raise the hood. Tie a handkerchief—or something white—on the door-handle nearest the road. These are distress signals on virtually all roadways. Stay near your car but back from the road. You should have help before long.

7. How to cut the chances of a breakdown almost in half. The American Automobile Association reports that flat tires, weak batteries, and faulty electrical systems account for 45 percent of all car breakdowns. Your Shell dealer can help you keep these things from causing trouble. Let him check your car regularly. After all, service is his business.

SHELL DEALERS DE-BUNK A MYTH ABOUT CAR CARE It's a myth that you must break in a new car at low speeds Used to be that new cars had to be "broken in" very gently. You weren't supposed to go over 45 mph for the first 1500 miles or so. Now, automotive experts recommend that you take your car out on a highway every so often and drive at the legal speed limit for a while. That's the real lowdown. You can count on your Shell dealer for straight facts and honest work. See him regularly. SHELL
