

Congress Expected To Beat Railroad Strike Deadline

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress was expected today to beat a midnight strike deadline and enact legislation to avert a nationwide railroad strike.

A House leader predicted approval of a Senate-passed bill to refer the two major issues in the rail dispute — firemen's jobs and composition of train crews — to an arbitration board for a binding decision.

The Senate approved the measure to President Kennedy for his signature, hopefully before 12:01 a.m. Thursday when the railroads plan to put strike-triggering new work rules into effect.

Barring any last-minute legislative snags, government officials predicted there would be no strike. The railroad unions have threatened a walkout if the work rules are put into effect.

2 Draw Terms In State Prison

Five years in the Oregon State Penitentiary was the penalty meted out to Duell Pippin, 24, of Sutherlin on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old Sutherlin girl on May 25, on appearance before Circuit Judge Don H. Sanders.

Another man, Orval Almo Baker, 39, formerly of Myrtle Creek, was sentenced to serve three years in the state penitentiary on a similar charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 15-year-old girl.

Both men previously had pleaded guilty to the respective charges and were awaiting pre-sentence investigations. Baker originally pleaded innocent then later changed his plea to guilty to a Grand Jury indictment, in which he was charged with "commanding and persuading" a 15-year-old girl to "travel from her father and mother away from the city of Myrtle Creek" on April 5. Baker and the girl were picked up in New Mexico in June. The girl was returned by her parents and Baker waived extradition.

Pippin was accused in the District Attorney's information with immoral practices with a 15-year-old girl which, the charge stated, "tended to cause her to become a delinquent child."

In other actions, Judge Sanders dismissed a charge of unlawful use of fireworks against Jerry Lynn Wilson, 18, Myrtle Creek, after Wilson had pleaded guilty to the charge.

The judge stated that a juvenile with Wilson actually had committed the act, and that the juvenile had been dealt with. Wilson originally was charged with injury to property by explosives and had been bound over to the Grand Jury from Canyonville Justice Court. The lesser charge was preferred. The case involved exploding a firecracker in a mailbox, damaging the box.

Classes begin for Myrtle Creek High School students Monday, Sept. 9. Registration is scheduled Aug. 30 and Sept. 3 and 4 at the high school office from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m.

Freshmen will register Friday, Aug. 30; sophomores Tuesday, Sept. 3; and juniors and seniors, Wednesday, Sept. 4.

Registration will consist of filling an enrollment sheet, selecting a locker and paying fees. Students should come prepared with a name of a locker partner. Due to the size of expected enrollment, two students must share each locker. Fees required of each student will be $17.25. Each student should bring an additional $4 to reserve a copy of the year book.

School insurance covering a 11 Myrtle Creek High School students including athletes has been purchased by the district.

Additional information regarding fees, individual classes, schedules and textbooks will be available during registration, according to Lorraine Birenbaum, correspondent.

Suspect In Dillard Robbery To Get Preliminary Hearing

Preliminary hearing was set Thursday at 3 p.m. for James Walter Watson, 23, Winston, charged with robbery by force and violence not being armed with a dangerous weapon.

He asked for the hearing, after appearing before District Court Judge Gerald R. Hayes Tuesday with his court-appointed attorney Randolph Slocum.

Darlene June Whitaker, 22, of 931 W. Stanton St., Roseburg, arrested with Watson early Sunday, is still awaiting appearance on a charge of being an accessory after the commission of a robbery by concealing an offender and concealing evidence of a crime.

Victim of the alleged robbery Saturday night was Harley Payne, Tennille, who claims he was taken to the steel bridge south of Dillard, then beaten and robbed of $38, watches and other articles on his person.

Winston police investigation revealed the victim and two suspects had been drinking at the 99 Tavern in Winston earlier in the evening. They left together in Payne's car, supposedly to get something to eat. Watson allegedly was driving with Mrs. Whitaker beside him while Payne reportedly was asleep on the back seat.

Payne told officers they drove to the steel bridge south of Dillard, where the car was stopped and he was ordered out. He claimed that when he stepped from the car he was struck, then beaten into unconsciousness and when he awoke he was over an embankment with someone going through his pockets.

Payne alleges the car was then driven away, leaving him over the embankment in a semi-conscious condition. He claimed that after a lengthy time he recovered and made his way up the bank onto the highway, where he flagged a motorist who took him to the police in Winston.

Mrs. Whitaker's story to police differed in some respects, according to Winston police. She stated that when they got to the bridge Watson stopped the car and she remained inside. She alleges the victim got out on the right side and disappeared. She assumed he fell over the embankment. She related she did hear scuffling and that Watson called to her for help in locating a shoe he supposedly lost. She claims they returned to the car and drove to Winston, where they abandoned the car on a side street.

442 New Oregon Laws Take Effect Monday

By ZAN STARK
United Press International
SALEM (UPI) — At 12:01 a.m. Monday, 442 new state laws will go into effect in Oregon.

One—the 1963 legislature's $60 million tax hike measure — has been referred to a special election Oct. 15.

Another 202 carried either the emergency clause or a specific effective date. The emergency clause measures went into effect as soon as they were signed by Gov. Mark Hatfield.

Most of these were appropriation measures which allotted money for operation of state agencies and departments for the 1963-65 biennium. Department budgets became effective on July 1.

A total of 1,413 bills were introduced during the 141-day, 1963 session. Of these, 654 were approved by both houses and sent to the governor for signature.

Hatfield vetoed nine, and allowed 25 to become law without his signature.

Others OK'd

In addition to the 645 bills that were passed by the legislature and allowed to become law by the governor, lawmakers approved three proposed constitutional changes, and 87 other measures such as resolutions and memorials.

The legislature's major measure, the tax increase bill, was the center of attention and heated controversy, and finally emerged as a compromise which Hatfield would not sign.

Public opposition was climaxed with circulation of referral petitions, which resulted in the call for the special election.

The big measure which did not survive the legislature was a proposed new state constitution. It won House approval, but died in the Senate.

Oregonians will vote next year on a proposal to remove the death penalty from the state's constitution.

Among the more significant laws was a new subdivision regulation measure designed to curb fraudulent and misleading land promotion.

One of the new laws extends from the present three days to seven days the waiting period for marriages. Lawmakers hoped this "sobering up" period would cut down on the number of impulsive marriages, and thus cut the state's divorce rate.

Exhibit Features Area Scenic Spot

One of Douglas County's mountain beauty spots is being featured in an exhibit which this county is preparing at the Oregon State Fair in Salem.

The exhibit will be a replica of Clearwater Falls, a scenic waterfall and campground area located in the Diamond Lake area.

Douglas County Fair personnel have been busy preparing the exhibit since the close of the local exposition. Participants in the work to date have included Bert Allenby, fair manager; Jack Smith, assistant manager; Marvin Pappst, Claude Northeratt, Sonja Isaacson and Del Plant.

Sonja Isaacson has done much of the art work and design in connection with the project, the local fair office reported.

"Purpose of the exhibit is to give the state fairgoer a glimpse of typical beauty in Douglas County," a fair official said. Visitors at the exhibit will be given brochures which tell about the county.

The state fair opens Friday and continues through Labor Day. Eighteen counties have registered for exhibiting space at the fair. A panel of three judges will view the booths on opening day and award $100 to each county that scores 70 of a possible 100 points.

Drunken Drivers Fined, Jailed

Fines of $150 and $5 costs and sentences of 10 days in the city jail were meted to two persons on appearance in Roseburg Municipal Court Monday by Judge Warren Woodruff. The charges were drunken driving.

They were Clyde Yarbrough, 32, Route 3, Box 750, Roseburg, and Aldred Floyd Wakeley, 28, Allegany. Yarbrough drew an additional $5 fine for having no operator's license.

Edward Ellis Scott, 25, of 2371 NE Stephens St., pleaded innocent to drunken driving on arraignment. His trial will be set later.

Thirty five cases were handled in Municipal Court Monday night. Eight were for non-stop, 12 for violation of the basic rule and four for no operator's license. The others were miscellaneous.

Norma Geraldine Patterson forfeited $50 bail on failure to appear and answer to a speed contest charge.

City police Monday night arrested Donald V. Harwood, 35, of 1012 SE Jackson St., for allegedly driving while his license was suspended.
