

Missionary Ends Career; To Speak Here On Sunday

A renowned missionary churchman who reportedly has spent more years in residence in Korea than any living American will be the guest speaker Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church in Roseburg.

He is the Rev. Edward Adams, D.D., Litt.D., and father of the Rev. John Adams, pastor of the church. The senior Adams recently retired after 42 years as a missionary, and with his wife is now looking forward to travel in this country.

Public Invited

On Sunday the senior Rev. Adams will speak at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. worship services and at a special service set for 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend any or all of the services and the coffee hour which will be held following the evening service.

Edward Adams is the son of pioneer missionaries and went first to Korea in 1895 with his parents when he was a 3½-month-old baby. Except for schooling in the United States, most of his life has been spent in Korea during which time he saw the fall of the old royal dynasty, the Japanese occupation, the second world war and the Korean War. Most of this time Adams spent in the city of Taegu.

He has served in all types of work in the mission field. For nine years he was the Korean executive for Presbyterian missions. Also during his stay he was responsible for the distribution of $2 million worth of clothing, food and other relief material sent to Korea by the Protestant "One Great Hour of Prayer."

Sharing." For the past five years he served as president and president emeritus of Kei Myung Christian College. This period was culminated by the raising of $200,000 for campus development.

He attended Wooster College in Ohio from which he received a BS degree and later a doctor of divinity degree, and McCormack Seminary in Chicago. He received his Doctor of Letters from Kyung Pook University in Taegu.

Wife Aids Projects

Mrs. Adams, a registered nurse, in Korea helped establish clinics for amputees and war and polio victims and also a crippled children's center, the latter under Church World Service. Some of the funds collected in this country by children's drives for UNICEF on Halloween night went into this latter project, according to the Rev. John Adams.

The senior Adams will appear on a local television program on Tuesday and will also be the guest speaker at the Kiwanis Club luncheon meeting Tuesday. Adams and his wife are scheduled to leave late Tuesday on the first leg of their travels.

New Red China Attack Reveals Secrets Of Quarrel With Soviet Union

United Press International TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China, in a harsh new attack divulging innermost secrets of the Sino-Soviet quarrel, charged today that Russia in effect kidnapped thousands of Chinese in an apparent plot to overthrow a regional regime near the Soviet border.

The Chinese said the border trouble occurred in April and May of 1962 in the Ili region of China's Sinkiang Province. They charged the Soviets with carrying out large-scale subversive activities. Ili is nestled in the Borokhara mountain range about 25 miles from the Soviet border.

The Peking attack said Soviet actions have forced relations between Red China and Russia to "the brink of a split" and carried differences in the international Communist movement "to a new stage of unprecedented gravity."

The Chinese accused the Russians of "lying" in their ideological and political dispute, and said it was time to set the record straight. They contended that Peking had made concession after concession to Moscow in hopes of keeping the rift from widening.

Note "Last Straws" Peking inferred that the "last straws" in Moscow's anti-Chinese campaign were the Kremlin's signing of the partial nuclear test ban treaty with the United States and Britain, and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's recent visit to President Tito of Yugoslavia.

The attack, as broadcast in English by the New China News Agency, said Peking was not vying for leadership of the Communist movement, and it accused Khrushchev of being "patriarchal arbitrary and tyrannical."

The Peking regime presented the detailed account of its side of the quarrel in a massive article in the Chinese Communist party newspaper, People's Daily, and its theoretical journal, Red Flag.

The article is the first of a series titled "The Origin and Development of Differences between Ourselves and the Communist Party of the Soviet Union." It is in answer to a Soviet letter of July 14 in which Moscow claimed the Chinese reds were trying to split the world on racial lines and set up a new world Communist headquarters in Peking.

Referring to the alleged border trouble, the article said Soviet personnel in the Ili region "enticed and coerced several tens of thousands of Chinese citizens into going to the Soviet Union." It said Moscow has refused to return them despite many requests from Peking.

The disclosure was the first firm confirmation that the dispute between the two Communist giants had brought them into open confrontation along their vast common border.

The Chinese claimed that the dispute did not start in 1960 as claimed by Moscow, but began seven years ago with the 20th

Soviet party congress at which Khrushchev denounced former dictator Josef Stalin and pronounced his policy of peaceful coexistence.

Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policy, which rejects nuclear war as a means of defeating western capitalism, is the core of the Sino-Soviet dispute. The Chinese Reds advocate a more militant policy, reject friendly contacts with the West, and do not exclude war as a means of spreading Communism.

City Meter Mechanic Gets Employe Award For August

Joe James, meter mechanic for the city of Roseburg, is the "employe of the month" for August, announces City Manager Craig McMillen.

James' selection was made on recommendation of Chief of Police John T. Truett, under whom James works.

The letter of congratulations from the city manager to James, who resides at 787 W. Harvard Blvd., states:

"Your selection is based upon a conscientious effort not only to perform your meter maintenance duties, but to perform that little 'extra effort' here and there which makes the difference between ordinary and exceptional performance."

"For instance," the letter states, "Chief Truett points out that you schedule and guide prisoner work details with resourcefulness and good judgment. The city benefits by cutting costs in the several municipal activities where prisoners are used, such as parking meter collections, car washing and building maintenance duties; the prisoner benefits by keeping active while serving his sentence as well as earning an additional $5 a day toward his fine."

"In performing your meter maintenance duties, you constantly attempt to cut city expenses in meter repair work. Recently you repainted and renumbered all parking meter posts after completion of the tandem parking changes."
