Violence Flares At Hearing

Sailor Missing, 21 Are Rescued After Boat Tips

PORT JEFFERSON, N.Y. (UPI)—A small Navy launch returning 21 sailors to their ship after a night ashore capsized in wind-swept Long Island Sound early today. All but one man were rescued.

Fifteen sailors clung to the overturned fiberglass launch for two hours before they drifted to shore. Three managed to swim to their ship, the U.S.S. Hazelwood, a destroyer. Two others

Birmingham Pupils Plan Motorcade

By United Press International Birmingham students planned another motorcade today to protest classroom desegregation. Their apparent objective was to force the city's high schools to close.

At Tuskegee High School, only 13 Negro pupils remained in school in a student body of 569. White students have completely boycotted the school.

School boycotts in Birmingham and Tuskegee and student arrests in Mobile kept tension high Thursday in Alabama's school desegregation crisis.

Mobile school officials tried to decide what disciplinary action to take against 54 white students arrested in a demonstration protesting their school integration.

About 300 students left the Mobile High School campus Thursday chanting, "Two, four, six, eight, we don't want to integrate."

At Chicago, hundreds of Negro and white demonstrators picketed the Chicago base of Senate Republican Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen in a chanting, sign-waving protest against the Illinois Republican's stand on a civil rights measure before Congress.

The demonstration took place while Dirksen was on his way to a loop hotel where he was a featured speaker at a meeting of Republican women.

Racial developments elsewhere in the nation:

New Orleans: The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals dissolved a federal court injunction against racial demonstrations in Baton Rouge that had been in effect since 1961.

Columbia, S.C.: Negroes attended classes Thursday at the formerly all-white University of South Carolina for the first time in 86 years.

Richmond, Va.: A federal judge Thursday ordered 15 Negroes admitted to predominantly white Hopewell schools in a ruling that affects other communities under the court's desegregation orders.

Albany, N.Y.: The New York State Supreme Court today hears arguments on racial imbalance in public schools in the Malverne (Long Island) school district.

Westbury, N.Y.: Eleven hundred of the 1,300 Negroes enrolled in this Long Island school district stayed away from classes Thursday in a one-day protest against racial imbalance in one of the district's elementary schools.

Yoncalla Council To Meet With Pipeline Firm Officials

The Yoncalla City Council will meet with officials of El Paso Natural Gas Co. and the R. H. Fulton Co. tonight to discuss methods for an immediate solution to the water pollution problem the city has charged was brought about by construction work on the El Paso gas pipeline.

The meeting will also be held to discuss long-range planning for the Wilson Creek watershed and the expenses involved to both parties.

In the meantime, the City of Yoncalla has filed an amendment to its temporary restraining order which will allow El Paso and the Fulton Firm to continue work in all but a restricted area of the watershed. This amendment was filed after the two firms appeared before the City Council earlier in the week and asked for a revision which would allow them to continue work.

The original temporary restraining order was signed by Douglas County Circuit Court Judge Charles Woodrich Monday. Judge Wood-

Johnson Nears End Of European Jaunt

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UPI)—Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, nearing the end of a 15,000-mile tour of Northern Europe, today cancelled his last stop—a brief visit to Greenland.

A formal announcement issued shortly after his arrival from Norway for a three-day official visit to Denmark made no mention of reports that he was tired out by his strenuous Nordic tour and was curtailing his activities.

Instead, the announcement merely stated "the press of business in the United States made it impossible" to go on to Greenland.

Johnson had been scheduled to go from here to Iceland and Greenland Monday before flying home. Instead, he now will go straight to Washington from Iceland.

There also was some confusion here over whether Johnson would cancel previously scheduled appointments in Denmark.

The U.S. Embassy said the vice president had dropped an inspection of Danish navy ships and a wreath-laying ceremony at the Franklin D. Roosevelt Memorial statue from his schedule. Both had been set for Saturday. But the government insisted both events still were on as scheduled.

Johnson, his wife Lady Bird, and their daughter Lynda Bird, came by plane from Oslo this morning for a three-day visit to Denmark. They received their coldest reception so far on the tour, which has already taken them to Sweden, Finland and Norway.

Only 200 persons—most of them Americans—were at the airport to greet the vice president when he and his family arrived today. Johnson, as usual, broke away from the official welcoming party to shake hands with them.

The official welcoming party included Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag and Count Flemming, representing King Frederik IX.

Danish newspapers had urged Copenhagen residents to turn out by the thousands to give Johnson a roaring welcome as he drove into town.

But there was no crowd at all—just the usual shoppers going about their business on the city streets in bright and sunny weather.

Roseburg Resident Being Considered For U. S. Marshal

Carl J. Smith, former Douglas County undersheriff has been named one of three candidates for the position of U.S. marshal for Oregon.

The announcement was made today by Dr. Jason Boe of Reedsport, chairman of the county Democratic Central Committee. The field of candidates was narrowed to three by the executive board of the state Central Committee.

The nominations have now been sent to the Oregon congressional delegation which will make the final selection.

The other two men are from Lane and Wasco counties. The Lane County candidate is state Rep. Eugene Hulet, a former state police sergeant. Boe says Hulet and Smith are considered the front-runners in the race.

The job of marshal for the state involves carrying out federal business in the state. He acts as federal paymaster, transports federal prisoners and serves federal warrants.

Smith was originally nominated in 1960, but because retirement was so near for the present marshal, it was decided to wait until the retirement time had been reached. However, UPI reported today, Marshal Paul Kearney has just died. Boe said he expects the decision by the congressional delegation to be forthcoming soon.

Smith, 37, was undersheriff for three years. He was a deputy in the office eight years. Before that, he served on the Roseburg force. Since 1959, he has been working at Roseburg Lumber Co.

Cuban Visit Probe Draws Hecklers

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Six student demonstrators were ejected from a House committee hearing today in a renewed flare-up of violence over an investigation into illegal student travel to Communist Cuba.

Two of the six, kicking and struggling, were bodily hustled from the room. The other four went without much of a struggle as Chairman Edwin E. Willis, D-La., of the Committee on Un-American Activities stood and shouted to police: "Throw them out!"

Three of the students ejected were teen-agers. They identified themselves as Tad Lauer, 16, Bloomington, Ind., a special student at Indiana University; Mark Brody, 17, New York, a City College student; and Clifford Metzler, 21, Long Island City, N.Y., a Hunter College student.

All Three Carried Out

All three were bodily carried out of the building and deposited on the sidewalk.

They said they had applauded a statement of the witness, Philip A. Luce, 26, of New York City, one of more than 50 students who defied a State Department ban and visited Cuba during the summer.

The new outbreak, which followed a pattern set at Thursday's opening session, came as Willis objected to a statement when Luce said he considered it his "duty" to break the travel ban.

"There are certain rules and regulations that must be broken," Luce declared. He said Emerson and Thoreau advocated civil disobedience against what they considered intolerable situations.

Compares Trip

Luce also compared his trip to Cuba with the civil disobedience used by Negroes and others in the South in civil rights matters.

At this, a group of students started clapping and demonstrating and Willis gave the order for the removal of their leaders.

As the police moved in and grabbed the first two, Luce turned around in the witness chair and loudly deplored their removal for what he declared was "just clapping."

"This is something you can get away with in Louisiana or Virginia, but I can't stand it here," he shouted over the din.

The names of the other ejected spectators were not immediately available.

Atmosphere Was Tense

The atmosphere had been tense but restrained both inside and outside the hearing room until William Massie, 28, a dishwasher of New York began loudly objecting to being blocked from entering the hearing.

Eight policemen subsequently carried him out of the building as he continued to shout epithets. Massie yelled that there was more freedom in Cuba than in Washington.

Luce was the first witness today and even before giving his name and address launched into an attack on the committee, deplored its "despicable conduct" in barring sympathizers of the illegal junketeers from the hearing.

But Willis cut him short and told him to answer questions and stop making a speech.

Answer Most Questions

Luce, formerly of Springfield, Ohio, now of New York City, answered almost all of the questions put to him by Willis and committee counsel Alfred P. Nittle. He

Local College Students Leave Saturday For Journey To Himalayan Mountains

Two college students from Roseburg and a friend from Wyoming will leave Saturday for an expedition to the Himalayan Mountains.

Dave Wyatt, 19, and Steve McCarthy, 20, both of Roseburg, and Gary Payne, 20, of Jackson, Wyo. form the Oregon Himalayan Expedition.

McCarthy and Payne are students at Reed College in Portland, while Wyatt is a student at the University of Chicago.

They will leave Portland by air Saturday and the first leg of their trip will take them to Calcutta, India. After collecting 600 pounds of gear, the trio will fly to Katmandu, Nepal, where they will have interviews with the royal Nepalese family and government officials.

Porter Hire Due

They will then hire about 10 porters to carry the equipment 400 miles to Darjeeling, India, their planned route. They intend to begin the trek by Oct. 1, and reach Darjeeling by Nov. 15. The route will go from Katmandu to Thyangboche, near the base camp of the recent American expedition. There they will attempt to collect insect specimens. From Thyangboche they will cross the eastern part of Nepal to Darjeeling.

After Darjeeling, the trio will visit New Delhi, India, where an appointment with Ambassador Chester Bowles has been arranged. They will then pass through Kashmir, the Kyber Pass, on to the Middle East, and will visit Europe Middle East, and will visit Europe in the spring. Return to the West Coast is set for mid-summer, 1964.

During the expedition, they will perform scientific work for the Smithsonian Institute, Oregon Museum of Science and Industry, and the Chicago Field Museum. They will also write a series of articles.

Assistance Given

They have obtained about $3,000 worth of equipment, finances and services from different firms and institutions, including Reed College.

Because of financial and government requirements, the group had to abandon the original plan of a climbing expedition and decided to trek to Thyangboche, a Buddhist monastery about 8 miles from the foot of Kumbhu glacier, situated on a ridge at 15,000 feet elevation. The monastery is also a center of its own culture. Yeti legends are associated with nearby valleys in the area.

The trek from Thyangboche to Darjeeling, covering about 150 miles, will involve rough country less traveled by Westerners and will require about 45 days.

The young climbers are not novices. Collectively they have engaged in treks in the Brooks Range in Alaska, the Canadian Rockies, the French and Swiss Alps, the Teton Range and the Northwest Cascades.

They will then hire about 10 porters to carry the equipment 400 miles to Darjeeling, India, their planned route. They intend to begin the trek by Oct. 1, and reach Darjeeling by Nov. 15. The route will go from Katmandu to Thyangboche, near the base camp of the recent American expedition. There they will attempt to collect insect specimens. From Thyangboche they will cross the eastern part of Nepal to Darjeeling.

Schools May Lose $385,000 Tax Funds

The state Department of Education estimates that school districts completely in Douglas County could lose as much as $385,398.34 this year if voters reject the new state budget in an Oct. 15 tax vote.

At the behest of Gov. Hatfield, the department's School Finance and Statistical Services Section prepared estimates of reduction if total basic school support funds were reduced arbitrarily 11 per cent or 14 per cent.

retirement. A patronage battle among Democrats also contributed to delay in appointing a replacement.

Kearney resigned as Clatsop County sheriff in 1958 after 21 years to accept the federal appointment. He is survived by his widow, Martha; a son, Robert, and a brother, Vincent, both of Astoria.

A recommendation for a successor may come out of a meeting of Oregon's congressional delegation in Washington Tuesday. The Oregon Democratic Central Committee revealed only Thursday that it had submitted the names of three Democrats who would be acceptable to it.

The three were Carl J. Smith, 37, Roseburg lumberman; Charles Wilson, 65, The Dalles businessman, and State Rep. Eugene Hulet, 41, of Eugene.

Gos Solomon, chief U.S. judge in Oregon, said the Justice Department would probably make the appointment after being notified officially of Kearney's death. Solomon called the death "a real loss."

"He was probably the best marshal we've had in Oregon for many years," the judge commented.
