

Heiress Plans To Get Divorce In Switzerland

ZURICH, Switzerland (UPI) — Heiress Gamble Benedict Porumbanu, who defied her family and American courts to get married three years ago, went into hiding today to dodge questions about her forthcoming divorce from the man for whom she risked a fortune.

They have two children, Gheorghe Mihai, 2, and Grigoreo, 9 months.

The attorney, Eigen Curtin, predicted the divorce will become effective in six months to a year if Porumbanu does not fight it. "The claim is based on the ground of misconduct by Andrei Porumbanu," Curtin said. "Mrs. Porumbanu had revoked all powers of attorney to her husband."

In New York, Porumbanu refused to comment on the announcement. The one-time hairdresser, chauffeur, butler and consultant checked into a $70-a-day suite at the Savoy-Hilton Hotel a week ago but later moved into less expensive accommodations.

Curtin said Gamble also had "gone abroad," but he did not specify where.

Porumbanu was 35 when he divorced his first wife and married "Gamble" before a justice of the peace in Hendersonville, N.C., on April 6, 1960.

The ceremony thwarted the wishes of Gamble's iron-willed grandmother, Mrs. Katherine Geddes Benedict, who had been determined to prevent the marriage.

The 77-year-old lady remained opposed to the match until her death in October, 1961. But when her will became known it was found she had left Gamble a $20 million trust fund. On her 21st birthday, Gamble received $500,000 in a lump-sum inheritance from the Remington typewriter fortune.

REDDING, Calif. (UPI) — Michael S. Blomquist, 22, Redding, was reported in extremely critical condition after a spectacular one-car crash early today.

His passenger, David L. Welker, 21, Roseburg, Ore., lost an eye in the accident and was in serious condition after undergoing surgery.

Blomquist's vehicle went out of control on Highway 99 near an overpass, jumped an 18-inch high divider strip, and climbed an embankment. Blomquist was thrown out onto a road some 25 feet above highway 99, while his car rolled back down the hill, went some 250 feet north in the south-bound lane, and caught fire.

An unidentified truck driver rescued Welker from the blazing wreck.

Biography Bares Unhappy Life Of Famed Dionne Quintuplets

NEW YORK (UPI)—The four surviving Dionne quintuplets disclosed today that their childhood was painfully unhappy and blamed their parents for failing to treat them as separate identities and expose them to ordinary experiences.

In a bitter autobiography appearing in the current issue of McCall's magazine—less than a week after the birth of the Fischer quintuplets in South Dakota—the Dionnes said their childhood was ridden with a sense of guilt inflicted by their parents. They said their parental home in Corbeil, Ont., was "the saddest home we ever knew."

Annette, Marie, and Cecile are "Up In Trouble," said their mother, who was convinced she had been singled out by God for a "miracle" but feared the world would think of her and her husband as animals because of the multiple now married and have a total of nine children, and Yvonne is a nun. They are 29. The famous sisters, who entitled their biography "We Grew Up," said they had been partners in some unspoken crime by bringing us into the world and "drummed into us that the discord in which the family lived much of the time was our doing." "Dad" and "Mom" Dionne treated their older children as one family, the quintas as a separate category.

"We were treated as five who really amounted to one, five of a kind so close and alike that we could not possibly have separate identities or desires," they wrote. "We were drenched with a sense of having sinned from the hour of our birth. . . we did not know any boys to be friends with. . . we had no training whatever for any kind of career."

Early Years Happest The Dionnes said their happiest years were those early ones spent separated from their family in the nursery built for them in Corbeil. The long, determined struggle of their father, Oliva Dionne, to wrest control of his daughters from Dr. A. R. Dafoe, who delivered them, and their sister Emilie's epileptic seizures darkened the later years lived

Roseburg Man Heads Oregon Turkey Group

Bill Scott, Roseburg, has been named president of the Oregon Turkey Improvement Association at its annual meeting at Oregon State University in Corvallis. He succeeds A. C. Camp, Sheridan.

Elections of officers was a highlight of the day-long meeting which featured reports on poultry research being conducted at OSU, a report from the National Turkey Federation and a talk on capital for agricultural expansion by a Portland banker.

Dr. E. M. Dickinson, head of the OSU department of veterinary medicine, in a panel discussion, pointed out that present day intensive concentrated production makes it highly important for each producer to develop an efficient coordinated disease control program.

Dr. James Brownell, OSU assistant professor of veterinary medicine, noted the importance of various laboratory tests in making diagnosis since various antibiotics and other drugs have caused an apparent change in some disease patterns.

J. A. Harper, OSU professor of poultry science, discussed recent research relating to fertility and off-season egg production of turkeys. He compared two methods of semen collection, holding times and methods of hen management.

Discussion brought out that a total of 92.7 million turkeys are being produced in the United States this year, with Oregon production set at 1,676,000 more than in 1962. Prices in 1963 have averaged higher than last year and are expected to be a cent a pound higher in the September-December period.

The Common Market action raising entry duties and tariffs on poultry has had an effect on the industry. Exports to that area are down 46 per cent for the first six months of 1963. However, Japan may be a bright spot in foreign markets as there is increasing interest in turkey there, particularly on the institution level.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate leaders indicated today that debate on the huge $47.4 billion defense money bill probably would begin immediately after final ratification of the nuclear test ban treaty.

The Senate Appropriations Committee cleared the measure Tuesday even as debate moved toward a climax on the treaty, heralded in some quarters as a step toward disarmament.

The $47,374,407,000 total was $289,398,000 more than voted by the House last June, but $1,642,830,000 less than requested by President Kennedy. Far from a record amount, it was about $978,700,000 less than Congress voted last year for defense.

The bill represents nearly half the entire federal budget and provides funds for the men and weapons to maintain the nation's armed might for another fiscal year, ending next June 30.

Included were funds for six new nuclear-powered Polaris missile submarines, and more airplanes, ships, land-based missiles and other weapons. The emphasis was on continued improvement of conventional warfare forces, and more missiles.

Instead of cutting the totals, the Senate was more likely to increase the amounts for the armed services when the measure comes up for debate, expected sometime next week.

Son, Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., set the tone when he told reporters the test ban treaty made it even more imperative that this country remain militarily strong.

An opponent of the treaty, Russell is chairman of the armed services committee and head of the defense appropriations subcommittee that drafted the defense bill. He will manage it on the floor.

Edna M. Bales, 77, a former Roseburg resident, died Tuesday near Eugene.

Graveside funeral services will be held at Roseburg Memorial Gardens Saturday at 10:30 a.m. with the Rev. Donald Smith of the Westside Christian Church officiating.

Wilson's Chapel of the Roses is in charge of local arrangements.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dopped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour, checks "plate odor" (bad breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Million-Dollar Coin Display Due This Week

Coins with an estimated worth of $1 million are expected to be on display in Roseburg Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the third annual Southern Oregon Numismatic Association Coin Convention.

As a result, armed guard protection will be set up to watch over the displays on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

The Umpqua Valley Coin Club will be the host for the show, which is expected to draw representation from other association clubs at Coos Bay, Rogue River, Klamath Falls and Medford.

Each year, the SONA show is staged in the town of a different member organization. This is the first to be held in Roseburg.

Among the highlights of the show will be a coin glass display valued at about $1,000. In addition, 30 dealers from Oregon, Washington and British Columbia will be on hand with displays of coins and numismatic supplies.

On Sunday at 2 p.m., a thousand rolls of Lincoln S-mint pennies will be auctioned off as one lot. Other coins will be auctioned each evening. A host of prizes is also scheduled for presentation during the show. The two main prizes will be a $20 gold piece and a $10 gold piece. A prize will also be given to the person who brings in the oldest American coin and another for the person who shows the oldest dated foreign coin.

Gov. Mark Hatfield was invited to the show, but he was unable to attend because of a conflict of dates.

Hulett Recommended For Marshal's Post

Roseburg's candidate for U. S. marshal apparently lost his bid today as it was announced that Oregon's congressional delegation had recommended State Rep. Eugene Hulett of Eugene for the job.

Hulett was one of three men being considered. One of the others was Carl Smith of Roseburg, former Douglas County undersheriff.

If the recommendation is followed by the Justice Department, Hulett, 41, would fill the vacancy created last week by the death of Paul Kearney, a Republican who held the position for several years.

Announcement of the delegation's action was made by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., in Washington, D.C. The recommendation was unanimous.

Hulett, a Eugene retail grocer, served his first legislative term last session. Before going into the grocery business he was a Springfield fireman, a policeman at Cottage Grove and a state policeman. He served as sergeant in charge of field operations and personnel of the 35-man Eugene detachment from 1955 to 1960.

Hulett is married and has one son.

Youth Pleads Guilty To Drunk Driving Count

Leroy Stephen Sand, 18, Rte. 3, Box 1380, Tuesday night pleaded guilty to drunken driving in Roseburg Municipal Court. He was sentenced by Judge Warren Woodruff to three days in the city jail and fined $150 and $5 costs, with automatic driver's license suspension for 90 days.

Perry Frank Barlow, 39, of 499 Sterling St., Roseburg, pleaded innocent to drunken driving and his trial was set for 7:30 p.m. Sept. 24.

Total of 39 cases were handled in night traffic court. Sixteen were for basic rule violation, seven for non stop, six for no operator's license, and the others miscellaneous.

Roseburg Police Detain Portland Runaways

Two 15-year-old Portland boys were picked up by Roseburg City Police Tuesday night while hitchhiking and lodged in the county jail until their parents could be notified.

The boys were questioned and said they lived in Roseburg but they couldn't identify any local landmarks. On further probing they admitted they were from Portland and running away from home.

Role Of Juvenile Council Discussed At Monthly Meet

The role of the juvenile advisory council was discussed as a highlight of the monthly program of the Douglas County Juvenile Advisory Council in the Courthouse Tuesday night.

Featured speaker was Circuit Court Judge Charles Woodrich, the county's juvenile judge.

He said one of the major reasons for the council is that a nation-wide trend has developed in which parents seem to be abdicating their responsibilities to their children. They have a tendency to pass on that responsibility to the schools and courts.

Since the community is willing to help take that responsibility, the council serves as an organization through which to act in carrying out that responsibility.

He said the council also offers a clearinghouse for exchanging ideas and provides an effective springboard for putting reforms into effect.

Citing the county council, Judge Woodrich said some of the reforms established in this county by the council include expansion of the foster home program, establishment of the Pitchford Boys Ranch and increased funds for juvenile projects.

He said the state law outlines the duties of the council as these: (1) Study and make recommendations on operation of juvenile court and juvenile court programs; (2) study and make recommendations to community delinquency prevention agencies; (3) take active part in bringing programs to the public's attention.

Following his report, Judge Woodrich and Circuit Court Judge Don H. Sanders discussed the court's procedure in its semi-secret handling of youngsters in the courts, where primary emphasis is on rehabilitation instead of punishment.

Son Of Chiang Sees Hopes In Reds' Squabble

SEATTLE (UPI)—Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, oldest son of President Chiang Kai-shek of the Republic of China, Tuesday said the current squabble between the Soviet Union and Red China may speed the day when the republic goes back to the mainland.

The general was in Seattle for a one-day visit before he left on a direct flight to Tokyo via Northwest Orient Airlines Tuesday night on his way home to Taipei, Formosa. He was originally scheduled to return home via Honolulu and Manila.

He arrived in Seattle Tuesday after a flight from San Francisco. It was his last stop during an 11-day stay in the United States.

He toured Boeing Co. facilities, had tea at the Chong Wa Benevolent Association hall and held a news conference there.

It was during the news conference that he made his statement about the Sino-Russian squabble being of benefit to the Republic of China's aspirations of returning to the mainland.

The general tenor of his comments during the conference was that the republic has no intention of giving up plans of eventually overthrowing the Communist regime and returning to power on the mainland.

Speaking through an interpreter, he said many republican agents are doing undercover work on the mainland in an effort to hasten a revolt by the people.

He also pointed out that the economic situation on the mainland was "today at its worst since the Communists took control in 1949 and 1950."

Commenting on the limited nuclear test ban treaty, the general said Red China's opposition to the Soviet Union signing the pact was just one more indication of Red China's intention of becoming a nuclear power.

During his stay in the United States he spent five days in Washington, D.C., and conferred with President Kennedy. The general is head of the republic's security forces and is generally believed to be the next in line to Chiang Kai-shek.

WRITERS TO MEET

The Roseburg Writers Club will hold its regular meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Inman, 335 SE Pitzer.

Anyone interested in writing is invited to attend the meeting.

Slash Burning Starts In Cow Creek District

Cow Creek Ranger District started slash burning Tuesday, obtaining a good burn on one Callahan unit southeast of Tiller, according to Ranger John O. Wilson.

Burning was scheduled to continue today, weather permitting. Wilson indicated that his crew would use all-out efforts to complete the project as rapidly as possible.

He explained that great variations in moisture from weekend storms made it necessary to pick and choose the units to burn, some areas being ideal while others are currently too wet or too dry.

South Umpqua District was scheduled to begin slash burning today with four units in the Buckeye Creek area to be undertaken if weather conditions permitted.

Morning overcast and nighttime dew slowed early burning efforts, according to a report from Mrs. Milton Hammersly, correspondent.
